Allies Stand Firm On Parley Setup

Reds Say Planes Using New Field Might "Stray"

PANMUNJOM, Thursday, Sept. 17 (AP)—The Communists served notice yesterday that Red planes would start flying from a new airfield only 30 miles from Seoul and warned in advance that aircraft might "accidentally" fly over forbidden demilitarized territory.

This disclosure was made at a meeting of the Military Armistice Commission secretariat. The Allied truce secretary, Navy Capt. B. M. Coleman, withheld comment.

North Korean Col. Ju Yon said the airfield, eight miles southwest of Kaesong, would be in operation about Sunday for the exclusive use of the Military Armistice Commission and the Neutral Nations Supervisory Commission.

Because of the airfield's location, Red planes might "by accident fly over the Han River estuary" on take offs or landings, Ju said.

The estuary is part of the demilitarized zone. Under the armistice, aircraft are prohibited from flying over the zone. The Reds have protested repeatedly what they called Allied violations of the air over the zone.

The U. N. Command lost a major battle in the long truce negotiations for inclusion of a paragraph prohibiting the expansion and improvement of existing airfields and the construction of new fields.

The new Red air field, either newly constructed or repaired, is near the hamlet of Pungdong, about 30 miles northwest of Seoul and only a few seconds flying time away for Red jets.

Meanwhile the big movement of 23,000 anti-Communist North Korean and Chinese prisoners from U. N. Command camps to the custods of Indian custodial troops in the demilitarized zone entered its eighth day today with the transfer of 2,000 more Chinese prisoners.

By the day's end a total of 11,600 captives who refused to return home will be in the Indian compounds.

Russians To Fight Charter Revision

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., Sept. 16 (AP)—The United States and its 15 allies in the Korean War decided unanimously at a closed meeting today to stand firm on the U. N. decision to limit the Korean peace conference to belligerents.

Diplomatic sources reported this development as the Soviet bloc gave firm notice in the 15-member steering committee of the 8th U.N. Assembly that the Russians will fight to the last against any attempt by the United States to revise the U. N. charter.

Lodge, Malik Clash

Henry Cabot Lodge Jr., U. S. delegate, clashed heatedly with Soviet Delegate Jacob A. Malik and Poland's Juliusz Katz-Suchy. The Soviet bloc speakers attacked the motives of the United States and others in favoring the conference on charter revision. Lodge said the United States would match its record in the U. N. with that of the Soviet bloc any time and said he was prepared to stay there all night and answer attacks on the United States and its officials.

A charter conference is expected to be held in San Francisco after the 1955 General Assembly.

Secretary of State John Foster Dulles is slated to deliver a broad policy address in the Assembly tomorrow. Undoubtedly he will touch on his ideas about the U. N. charter. He has said the atomic bomb rendered the charter obsolete before it even took effect in 1945, and it needs drastic revision.

Early Revision Doomed

Russia's stand apparently dooms charter revision two years in advance. The charter itself provides that no change can be made unless accepted by the United States, Britain, France, China and the Soviet Union, and two-thirds of the U. N. members.

The Steering Committee passed over the Korean issue quickly. No voice was raised about the peace conference. It is expected, however, that Soviet delegate Andrei Y. Vishinsky will attempt in the Aseembly's Political Committee to widen the conference along lines favored by Red China and North Korea

Railroad Workers Due To Get Wage Boost Next Week

WASHINGTON, Sept. 16 (AP)—Rail labor sources said tonight the nation's 1,200,000 railroad employes are due to get at least a 2-cent, and probably a 3-cent hourly pay rise when new government living cost figures are released next week.

This was reported as railroad management and union representatives reached agreement here on converting their living cost "escalator" pay formula to a new set of government statistics.

The escalator provision pegs pay rates to rising and falling living cost conditions according to a set formula.

An agreement on revising the formula was necessary because the government has abandoned its old method of calculating living costs and adopted a new one.

Treasury Chief Says New Model Defense Planned

WASHINGTON, Sept. 16 (AP)—Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey said today that Russia's progress with the H-bomb makes defense stakes "too high to take any chance of being only second best."

Addressing a luncheon meeting of the National Press Club, Humphrey defended what he said were careful reductions in defense spending and said the administration is aiming at a "brand new model" defense program to give the most defense at the least possible cost.

"It is going to take some real work and a real new product," he said. "It won't be done just by putting some additional chrome on the bumper. We have to have a brand new model."

No Delay In Tax Cut Seen

He conceded he was speaking in the language of Secretary of Defense Wilson, and predicted that the former General Motors head will do "a grand job if you just give him a little time."

Meantime, Humphrey said, "There is nothing in our present estimates . . . to change our recommendation" that a scheduled 10 per cent income tax cut and abolition of the excess profits tax go into effect Jan. 1 as planned.

Answering questions after his speech, the Treasury chief said he is "encouraged and optimistic" about the business outlook and sees no cause for alarm in "business readjustments" so long as they remain scattered.

Anti-Slump Steps Prepared

But he said the administration is preparing anti-recession projects and declared "I don't think this administration or any other should countenance or permit an economic catastrophe if it is in its power to prevent it."

The chances are, he said in his address, that the Treasury will be able to stay within the present 275 billion dollar debt limit, and no special session of Congress will be needed this year to raise the limit.

Humphrey said the administration is continuing its plan to shift more of the national debt into longer term issues, and to pay interest rates fixed by market conditions.

28 Killed In Crash Of Airliner

Plane Explodes And Burns Near Albany Airport

ALBANY, N. Y., Sept. 16 (AP)—All 25 passengers and the three crew members rode to their death today as an American Airlines plane crashed, exploded and burned near Albany Airport after striking two radio towers.

The bodies, most of them scarred by flames, were moved to the St. Peter's Hospital morgue here. Identification was a slow process.

Some witnesses said the Chicago-bound plane, Flight 723 from Boston, seemed to be having engine trouble before it struck two 365-foot towers of Albany radio station WPTR and dived into a lot eight miles west of Albany. Part of a wing and part of a tail were found near the towers, which suffered only minor damage.

Circled For 15 Minutes

The two-engine Convair had been circling over the airport area for about 15 minutes, waiting for ground fog to clear. The plane crashed a half-mile from the radio towers and 3½ miles from the airport control tower, which said it had maintained radio contact with the plane until a few minutes before it hit.

About a dozen victims were thrown from the plane. Others were trapped in the wreckage.

The crew members were Capt. James W. Stentz of Highland Park, Ill., 1st Officer William J. Schanken of Chicago, and Stewardess Janice Thornquist of Duluth, Minn.

The plane barely missed plowing into a trailer camp. Sheds near the camp and trees in the area caught fire. Some of the trailers were scorched.

Flames Force Rescuers Away

John W. Rodd, 23, an ex-Navy pilot who lives near the scene, said he ran to the door of the plane but flames forced him away. He reported that he had heard the engine cut out and then roar as though the pilot had "gunned it."

Mrs. Alphea Carig, whose trailer-home was scorched by the flames, said she heard the "sound of a motor unnaturally close" but "heavy fog or clouds" prevented her from seeing the nearby crash. Fearful of being trapped in the trailer, she grabbed her 10-month-old son, roused her husband and fled to safety.

Seconds After Airliner Crash

Impellitteri May Run On His Own

NEW YORK, Sept. 16 (AP)—Mayor Vincent R. Impellitteri became a potential independent mayoral candidate today, after his primary defeat by Robert F. Wagner Jr., and his New Deal Democrats.

Legal decks were cleared for the incumbent mayor to desert the Democratic banner and run for re-election in November on the Experience party. The same maneuver won him office three years ago.

Impellitteri, however, was keeping his future plans to himself.

Wagner showed surprising party strength to defeat Impellitteri almost 2-to-1 yesterday, piling up a plurality of 169,179 in unofficial returns. The vote was 350,474 for Wagner and 181,295 for Impellitteri. Two other candidates trailed far behind.

The light vote—only about 25 per cent of the 2,135,000 registered New York Democrats turned out—was expected to favor Impellitteri, an incumbent with a hard core of party strength.

Rita Hayworth, Haymes Plan To Wed Sept. 24

LAS VEGAS, Nev., Sept. 16 (AP)—Rita Hayworth and Dick Haymes have set Sept. 24 as their tentative wedding date, a spokesman for the couple said today.

Following the hearing of Haymes wife's divorce suit in Los Angeles this Friday, the crooner plans to obtain a Nevada divorce here Sept. 23, paving the way to marry Rita the next day.

Grunewald Sent To Jail As Wife's Plea Is Rejected

WASHINGTON, Sept. 16 (AP)—Henry W. (The Dutchman) Grunewald, who won a name as a Washington wirepuller, was sent to jail today as his wife begged hysterically—but in vain—for "just one more chance."

U. S. District Judge Alexander Holtzoff revoked Grunewald's probation, holding he had been guilty of serious violations of its terms.

Wife Screams And Weeps

After the ever impassive "mystery man" had been led away to begin serving a three-month sentence for contempt of Congress his wife, Mrs. Erna Grunewald, screaming and weeping, pleaded with the judge to spare him from jail.

"Sorry," the judge finally cut in. "There is nothing I can do."

"Can't you put me into jail?" she shouted.

The judge thereupon indicated he didn't want to hear any more by saying he had given Mrs. Grunewald a chance to make a statement and that she had taken full advantage of it.

Violated Probation

Grunewald, 63, said he told the truth to Probation Officer Edward G. Garrett about an episode in a Jersey City, N. J. apartment Aug. 21, when he and a woman companion, Mrs. Ann Anderson, 46, were found semi-conscious in a gas-filled apartment.

Garrett testified Grunewald had violated the terms of his probation on at least two occasions, but did not specifically mention the Jersey City incident.

Striking Pupils Release School Superintendent

SALT LICK, Ky., Sept. 16 (AP)—County School Superintendent Bradley Sexton was released unharmed by 96 striking high school students after they had held him hostage for several hours this morning.

His release came only after Bath County Sheriff Scott Roberts had gone to the Salt Lick High School, recently merged with the nearby Owingsville High School, and talked with the students.

The striking students, protesting the merger of their school, had earlier refused to let Sexton leave the grounds to call a Board of Education meeting.

Ike And French Premier To Meet In Washington

DENVER, Sept. 16 (AP)—President Eisenhower and French Premier Laniel will confer in Washington this fall about "matters of common interest" to the United States and France, the summer White House announced today.

The announcement came as Eisenhower was discussing U. S. farm problems with Secretary of Agriculture Benson, who later told a news conference:

Demo Charges "Ridiculous"

1. Charges by Democrats that the Eisenhower administration is running out on 1952 campaign pledges to the farmers are "ridiculous" and were made by "irresponsible individuals." Benson was reply to charges by former Secretary of Agriculture Charles F. Brannan and Gov. G. Mennen Williams of Michigan.

2. Administration recommendations for dealing with farm problems will be ready for Congress when it reconvenes in January.

3. He (Benson) knows nothing about reports he is planning to resign. The question of quitting "has never entered my mind."

Presidential Press Secretary James C. Hagerty added that "neither has the White House" any information to support reports that Benson was on the way out.

Ike Ends Vacation Saturday

Eisenhower will end six weeks of vacationing in Colorado Saturday and fly back to Washington.

The announcement on the Eisenhower-Laniel conference said the French Premier will be accompanied to Washington by his foreign minister, George Bidault. A date for the autumn meeting will be set soon.

The French officials are coming to the United States for "a friendly visit and a general exchange of views on matters of common interest," the White House said.

Worker Catches Plunging Child

NEW YORK, Sept. 16 (AP)—High up in an open window of an apartment building on Manhattan's Lower East Side, a little child today stood on the sill, teetering back and forth.

Below, several pedestrians stopped and stared with open-mouthed anxiety. On a nearby construction job, a workman on a ladder shouted a warning.

But seeing that his words went unheard in the apartment house, Louis Sarno, 42, clambered down and sprinted toward the building. Just then, the child fell.

The child's mother, Louisa, who learned what had happened when she returned from taking another child to school, fainted. She revived, emotionally thanked Sarno, then fainted again.

Won't Affect Buildup Plans, Talbott Says

$400 Million Saving Expected Without Harming Security

WASHINGTON, Sept. 16 (AP)—Air Force Secretary Talbott announced today that production will be canceled on several thousands of jet and other aircraft engines with an estimated saving of 400 to 500 million dollars.

The canceled engines, he said, are "all spares or extras."

Talbott and Secretary of Defense Wilson both emphasized at a news conference that the cancellations will "not affect the production of one single plane" in the planned buildup of the Air Force to 143 wings by mid-1955.

A wing varies in size from 30 bombers to 75 fighters.

Talbott said the number of canceled engines might run as high as 6,000.

Engines Last Longer

Wilson and Talbott explained that the engines are no longer needed for two main reasons:

1. Jet engines now last much longer between overhauls—the result of "accumulated know-how" in operation, improved design and increased maintenance capability.

2. Attrition rates have fallen off.

For one thing, the Korean armistice has marked the end of planes lost in combat. In addition, Talbott said:

"Our accident rate has been gradually decreasing, and we consequently have requirements for fewer engines."

Newsmen asked Wilson whether he expected today's announcement would touch off a new storm of criticism from Democrats, some of whom have contended that the Eisenhower administration's five-billion-dollar cutback in Air Force funds would leave the United States with a second-best air force.

Truman Is Quoted

In reply, Wilson said:

"Let me quote former President Truman on that. He said if you can't stand the heat, you better stay out of the kitchen and let someone else do the cooking."

Wilson and Talbott insisted the engine cancellations were not dictated by the cutback in Air Force funds. They said, however, the cancellations were part of the current economy drive to trim expenses wherever possible without harming the nation's security.

Storm Curving Away From U. S.

MIAMI, Fla., Sept. 16 (AP)—Hurricane Edna was moving northward in the Atlantic Ocean today and still curving away from the U. S. mainland.

A Miami Weather Bureau advisory at 5 p.m. (EST) placed the center of the storm 580 miles east of Miami.

Strongest winds were estimated at slightly over 100 miles an hour on the northeast edge of the hurrican eye. Gales extended outward 200 miles in the eastern semicircle and 75 miles to the west.

Chief Storm Forecaster Grady Norton said hurricane hunter pilots reported the eye of the storm is not as well defined as yesterday, indicating the hurricane is spreading out and losing some of its punch. Top winds yesterday were 125 miles per hour.

It still was a dangerous storm, however, and ships to the north and northeast were advised to proceed with caution.

Norton said the hurricane is expected to swing to a northeast course tomorrow, removing the threat to the mainland.

Edna is the fifth tropical storm of the season. The others, named for letters in the alphabet, were Alice, Barbara, Carol and Dolly.

Four Persons Killed In Arsenal Explosion

James A. Rodgers Jr., 23, of Gurley, Ala., died today.

Edwin L. Beal, 35, Huntsville; Thomas Marion, 26, Arab; and Kennard J. Ramsey, 21, Huntsville, died after the blast yesterday. All four men suffered burns over their entire bodies.

The arsenal released few details about the explosion in the closely guarded development center. American and German scientists and military experts are carrying out secret research there.

Adenauer Asks French Talks

BONN, Germany, Sept. 16 (AP)—Chancellor Konrad Adenauer launched a diplomatic offensive to save the lagging European army plan today by proposing immediate negotiations to settle French-German differences.

In a letter to French Foreign Minister Georges Bidault, the chancellor-foreign minister said "The time has now come for our two nations to settle their differences."

Adenauer considers French fears of West Germany's growing strength and the long French-German controversy over the future of the rich Saar territory as the principal stumbling blocks to ratification of the proposed European army treaty.

This treaty would create a powerful, six-nation continental army including German troops to bulwark Europe's defense against the threat of Soviet aggression.

Kyes Arrives In Rome

ROME, Sept. 16 (AP)—Roger M. Kyes, U. S. under secretary of defense, arrived in Rome today after an inspection of U. S. forces in the Trieste free territory.

'Conelrad' Foils 'Air Raid' On Key American 'Targets'

NEW YORK, Sept. 16 (AP)—Swarms of "enemy bombers" tried to follow radio beams to key American "targets" today, but garbled signals foiled the "plot."

"Conelrad" set up a hubbub in the air that kept airplane direction-finder needles jiggling dizzily.

Although official results of the Civil Defense test won't be known for several days, officials seemed confident that "Conelrad" had done a good job.

The name applies to a nation-wide radio operation designed to scuttle any enemy attempt to use broadcasting beams to guide bombers or missiles to American cities.

Shortly after midnight, in various parts of the country, Air Force planes today took off to try to ride radio beams toward metropolitan centers.

Eugene Levin, Associated Press staffer riding in one of the planes that began its "bombing mission" from far out over the Atlantic, said the radio signals set up a confused din on receivers.

"It was impossible to identify local radio stations," he said. "The radio compass direction finder in the cockpit wavered uselessly."

Planes from such widely separated points as Mitchell Field Air Force Base on Long Island and Hamilton Field, Calif., served as hostile air armadas.

FCC officials said 1,300 of the nation's 2,100 AM radio stations took part in the operation, the first since a secret test of the system by the FCC in 1951.

The defensive operation involves switching radio stations in all communities off their regular, individual frequencies, and putting them on either of two specified "Conelrad" frequencies.

Ike Critic Surprised By Party Invitation

St. LOUIS, Sept. 16 (AP)—Congressman Frank Karsten (D-Mo), a ready critic of the Republican administration, said today he was "a little surprised" to receive an invitation to a birthday party for President Eisenhower at Hershey, Pa., Oct. 13.

In declining the invitation to purchase 20 dinner tickets at $100 each, the St. Louis Democrat called the offer a "lug."

Karsten noted the purpose of the party was to raise funds to "keep the President's slim majority intact," and added he thought from the record of the last session of Congress the President was "profoundly grateful" the GOP majority was as slim as it was.

Iraq Premier Resigns

McCarthy Confers With Army Secretary

NEW YORK, Sept. 16 (AP)—Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy (R-Wis) met for three hours today with Army Secretary Robert Stevens whom he later described as "just as eager to clear out any subversive influences in the Army as we are."

The two conferred while McCarthy was here to conduct closed hearings of the Senate permanent investigations subcommittee.

The New York sessions are devoted to alleged Communist influences in the armed services and among Americans employed by the United Nations.

In the meeting with Stevens, McCarthy said, he gave the secretary a full report on "what we are working on in his department."

During hearings last week the senator was unable to get Army officials to give him names of persons who cleared alleged Communists for civilian jobs with the Army.

Dean Due Home Soon

TOKYO, Thursday, Sept. 17 (AP)—Maj. Gen. William F. Dean, a prisoner of the Communists in Korea more than three years, is tentatively scheduled to leave Tokyo by plane for the United States next Monday, a Far East Command spokesman said today.

Missing Diplomat's Family May Be Behind Iron Curtain

GENEVA, Switzerland, Sept. 16 (AP)—The wife and three children of missing British diplomat Donald MacLean have disappeared mysteriously from their home here and police speculated tonight that they may be behind the Iron Curtain.

A telegram purporting to have been filed from Territet early today by Mrs. Melinda MacLean, 37, a slim brown-haired native of Chicago, said "Safe and well, don't worry." It was addressed to her mother, Mrs. Melinda Dunbar.

Mrs. Dunbar told Swiss security police tonight she believed the handwriting on the original of the telegram was not that of her daughter. A handwriting expert will check on it tomorrow.

The original was brought here by police from Territet, a suburb of Montreaux, 60 miles east of Geneva, where the family was reported to have friends.

Telegrams have not proved fruitful clues in the past in the international police case set off by MacLean and a fellow diplomat, Guy Burgess, when they dropped out of sight at Rennes, France, May 26, 1951.

There was a message from Paris to Mrs. MacLean in London a few days after the disappearance of MacLean, then 38, a Foreign Office expert on American affairs who sat in on the U. S.-British-Canadian committee that handled political aspects of the atom bomb.

"Had to leave unexpectedly," it said. "Sorry, darling. I love you. Please do not stop loving me."

And a message received from Rome by Burgess' mother, Mrs. J. R. Bassett, said: "Terribly sorry for my silence. Am embarking on a long Mediterranean holiday. Do forgive. Guy."

Neither led to any break in the case.

Siamese Twins Face Separation Operation

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 16 (AP)—Foundation Hospital surgeons will attempt tomorrow to separate the Siamese twin daughters of Mayor and Mrs. Ashton Mouton of Lafayette, La., hospital officials said today.

The two girls, Carolyn Ann and Catherine Ann, were born July 22, in Lafayette and brought to New Orleans 48 hours later. They are joined at the base of the spine.

The two-engine Convair had been circling over the airport area for about 15 minutes, waiting for ground fog to clear. The plane crashed a half-mile from the radio towers and 3½ miles from the airport control tower, which said it had maintained radio contact with the plane until a few minutes before it hit.

About a dozen victims were thrown from the plane. Others were trapped in the wreckage.

The crew members were Capt. James W. Stentz of Highland Park, Ill., 1st Officer William J. Schanken of Chicago, and Stewardess Janice Thornquist of Duluth, Minn.

The plane barely missed ploughing into a trailer camp. Sheds near the camp and trees in the area caught fire. Some of the trailers were scorched.

Flames Force Rescuers Away

John W. Rodd, 23, an ex-Navy pilot who lives near the scene, said he ran to the door of the plane but flames forced him away. He reported that he had heard the engine cut out and then roar as though the pilot had "gunned it."

Mrs. Alphea Carig, whose trailer-home was scorched by the flames, said she heard the "sound of a motor unnaturally close" but "heavy fog or clouds" prevented her from seeing the nearby crash. Fearful of being trapped in the trailer, she grabbed her 10-month-old son, roused her husband and fled to safety.

Seconds After Airliner Crash

Two rescuers drag a body from the flaming wreckage of an American Airlines plane which carried 28 persons to their death near Albany, N. Y., Airport yesterday. The photo, by Alex BronaKowski, a salesman who was awakened by the noise of the crash, was snapped seconds after the tragedy.

Won't Affect Buildup Plans, Talbott Says

$400 Million Saving Expected Without Harming Security

WASHINGTON, Sept. 16 (AP)—Air Force Secretary Talbott announced today that production will be canceled on several thousands of jet and other aircraft engines with an estimated saving of 400 to 500 million dollars.

The canceled engines, he said, are "all spares or extras."

Talbott and Secretary of Defense Wilson both emphasized at a news conference that the cancellations will "not affect the production of one single plane" in the planned buildup of the Air Force to 143 wings by mid-1955.

A wing varies in size from 30 bombers to 75 fighters.

Talbott said the number of canceled engines might run as high as 6,000.

Engines Last Longer

Wilson and Talbott explained that the engines are no longer needed for two main reasons:

1. Jet engines now last much longer between overhauls—the result of "accumulated know-how" in operation, improved design and increased maintenance capability.

2. Attrition rates have fallen off.

For one thing, the Korean armistice has marked the end of planes lost in combat. In addition, Talbott said:

"Our accident rate has been gradually decreasing, and we consequently have requirements for fewer engines."

Newsmen asked Wilson whether he expected today's announcement would touch off a new storm of criticism from Democrats, some of whom have contended that the Eisenhower administration's five-billion-dollar cutback in Air Force funds would leave the United States with a second-best air force.

Truman Is Quoted

In reply, Wilson said:

"Let me quote former President Truman on that. He said if you can't stand the heat, you better stay out of the kitchen and let someone else do the cooking."

Wilson and Talbott insisted the engine cancellations were not dictated by the cutback in Air Force funds. They said, however, the cancellations were part of the current economy drive to trim expenses wherever possible without harming the nation's security.

Four Persons Killed In Arsenal Explosion

James A. Rodgers Jr., 23, of Gurley, Ala., died today.

Edwin L. Beal, 35, Huntsville; Thomas Marion, 26, Arab; and Kennard J. Ramsey, 21, Huntsville, died after the blast yesterday. All four men suffered burns over their entire bodies.

The arsenal released few details about the explosion in the closely guarded development center. American and German scientists and military experts are carrying out secret research there.

Adenauer Asks French Talks

BONN, Germany, Sept. 16 (AP) — Chancellor Konrad Adenauer launched a diplomatic offensive to save the lagging European army plan today by proposing immediate negotiations to settle French-German differences.

In a letter to French Foreign Minister Georges Bidault, the chancellor-foreign minister said "The time has now come for our two nations to settle their differences."

Adenauer considers French fears of West Germany's growing strength and the long French-German controversy over the future of the rich Saar territory as the principal stumbling blocks to ratification of the proposed European army treaty.

This treaty would create a powerful, six-nation continental army including German troops to bulwark Europe's defense against the threat of Soviet aggression.

Kyes Arrives In Rome

ROME, Sept. 16 (AP) — Roger M. Kyes, U. S. under secretary of defense, arrived in Rome today after an inspection of U. S. forces in the Trieste free territory.

'Conelrad' Foils 'Air Raid' On Key American 'Targets'

NEW YORK, Sept. 16 (AP) — Swarms of "enemy bombers" tried to follow radio beams to key American "targets" today, but garbled signals foiled the "plot."

"Conelrad" set up a hubbub in the air that kept airplane direction-finder needles jiggling dizzily.

Although official results of the Civil Defense test won't be known for several days, officials seemed confident that "Conelrad" had done a good job.

The name applies to a nation-wide radio operation designed to scuttle any enemy attempt to use broadcasting beams to guide bombers or missiles to American cities.

Shortly after midnight, in various parts of the country, Air Force planes today took off to try to ride radio beams toward metropolitan centers.

Eugene Levin, Associated Press staffer riding in one of the planes that began its "bombing mission" from far out over the Atlantic, said the radio signals set up a confused din on receivers.

"It was impossible to identify local radio stations," he said. "The radio compass direction finder in the cockpit wavered uselessly."

Planes from such widely separated points as Mitchell Field Air Force Base on Long Island and Hamilton Field, Calif., served as hostile air armadas.

FCC officials said 1,300 of the nation's 2,100 AM radio stations took part in the operation, the first since a secret test of the system by the FCC in 1951.

The defensive operation involves switching radio stations in all communities off their regular, individual frequencies, and putting them on either of two specified "Conelrad" frequencies.

Rita Hayworth, Haymes Plan To Wed Sept. 24

LAS VEGAS, Nev., Sept. 16 (AP)—Rita Hayworth and Dick Haymes have set Sept. 24 as their tentative wedding date, a spokesman for the couple said today.

Following the hearing of Haymes wife's divorce suit in Los Angeles this Friday, the crooner plans to obtain a Nevada divorce here Sept. 23, paving the way to marry Rita the next day.

Impellitteri May Run On His Own

Legal decks were cleared for the incumbent mayor to desert the Democratic banner and run for re-election in November on the Experience party. The same maneuver won him office three years ago.

Impellitteri, however, was keeping his future plans to himself.

Wagner showed surprising party strength to defeat Impellitteri almost 2-to-1 yesterday, piling up a plurality of 169,179 in unofficial returns. The vote was 350,474 for Wagner and 181,295 for Impellitteri. Two other candidates trailed far behind.

The light vote—only about 25 per cent of the 2,135,000 registered New York Democrats turned out—was expected to favor Impellitteri, an incumbent with a hard core of party strength.

Ike Critic Surprised By Party Invitation

St. LOUIS, Sept. 16 (AP) — Congressman Frank Karsten (D-Mo), a ready critic of the Republican administration, said today he was "a little surprised" to receive an invitation to a birthday party for President Eisenhower at Hershey, Pa., Oct. 13.

In declining the invitation to purchase 20 dinner tickets at $100 each, the St. Louis Democrat called the offer a "lug."

Karsten noted the purpose of the party was to raise funds to "keep the President's slim majority intact," and added he thought from the record of the last session of Congress the President was "profoundly grateful" the GOP majority was as slim as it was.

Grunewald Sent To Jail As Wife's Plea Is Rejected

WASHINGTON, Sept. 16 (AP) — Henry W. (The Dutchman) Grunewald, who won a name as a Washington wirepuller, was sent to jail today as his wife begged hysterically—but in vain—for "just one more chance."

U. S. District Judge Alexander Holtzoff revoked Grunewald's probation, holding he had been guilty of serious violations of its terms.

Wife Screams And Weeps

After the ever impassive "mystery man" had been led away to begin serving a three-month sentence for contempt of Congress his wife, Mrs. Erna Grunewald, screaming and weeping, pleaded with the judge to spare him from jail.

"Sorry," the judge finally cut in. "There is nothing I can do."

"Can't you put me into jail?" she shouted.

The judge thereupon indicated he didn't want to hear any more by saying he had given Mrs. Grunewald a chance to make a statement and that she had taken full advantage of it.

Violated Probation

Grunewald, 63, said he told the truth to Probation Officer Edward G. Garrett about an episode in a Jersey City, N. J. apartment Aug. 21, when he and a woman companion, Mrs. Ann Anderson, 46, were found semi-conscious in a gas-filled apartment.

Garrett testified Grunewald had violated the terms of his probation on at least two occasions, but did not specifically mention the Jersey City incident.

McCarthy Confers With Army Secretary

NEW YORK, Sept. 16 (AP)—Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy (R-Wis) met for three hours today with Army Secretary Robert Stevens whom he later described as "just as eager to clear out any subversive influences in the Army as we are."

The two conferred while McCarthy was here to conduct closed hearings of the Senate permanent investigations subcommittee.

In the meeting with Stevens, McCarthy said, he gave the secretary a full report on "what we are working on in his department."

During hearings last week the senator was unable to get Army officials to give him names of persons who cleared alleged Communists for civilian jobs with the Army.

Striking Pupils Release School Superintendent

SALT LICK, Ky., Sept. 16 (AP)—County School Superintendent Bradley Sexton was released unharmed by 96 striking high school students after they had held him hostage for several hours this morning.

His release came only after Bath County Sheriff Scott Roberts had gone to the Salt Lick High School, recently merged with the nearby Owingsville High School, and talked with the students.

The striking students, protesting the merger of their school, had earlier refused to let Sexton leave the grounds to call a Board of Education meeting.

Worker Catches Plunging Child

NEW YORK, Sept. 16 (AP)—High up in an open window of an apartment building on Manhattan's Lower East Side, a little child today stood on the sill, teetering back and forth.

But seeing that his words went unheard in the apartment house, Louis Sarno, 42, clambered down and sprinted toward the building. Just then, the child fell.

Sarno covered 200 feet, reaching the building just in time to catch 2-year-old Francis La Madrid plunging from the fourth-floor window.

The child's mother, Louisa, who learned what had happened when she returned from taking another child to school, fainted. She revived, emotionally thanked Sarno, then fainted again.

Ike And French Premier To Meet In Washington

DENVER, Sept. 16 (AP)—President Eisenhower and French Premier Laniel will confer in Washington this fall about "matters of common interest" to the United States and France, the summer White House announced today.

The announcement came as Eisenhower was discussing U. S. farm problems with Secretary of Agriculture Benson, who later told a news conference:

Demo Charges "Ridiculous"

1. Charges by Democrats that the Eisenhower administration is running out on 1952 campaign pledges to the farmers are "ridiculous" and were made by "irresponsible individuals." Benson was reply to charges by former Secretary of Agriculture Charles F. Brannan and Gov. G. Mennen Williams of Michigan.

2. Administration recommendations for dealing with farm problems will be ready for Congress when it reconvenes in January.

3. He (Benson) knows nothing about reports he is planning to resign. The question of quitting "has never entered my mind."

Presidential Press Secretary James C. Hagerty added that "neither has the White House" any information to support reports that Benson was on the way out.

Ike Ends Vacation Saturday

Eisenhower will end six weeks of vacationing in Colorado Saturday and fly back to Washington.

The announcement on the Eisenhower-Laniel conference said the French Premier will be accompanied to Washington by his foreign minister, George Bidault. A date for the autumn meeting will be set soon.

The French officials are coming to the United States for "a friendly visit and a general exchange of views on matters of common interest," the White House said.

Missing Diplomat's Family May Be Behind Iron Curtain

GENEVA, Switzerland, Sept. 16 (AP)—The wife and three children of missing British diplomat Donald MacLean have disappeared mysteriously from their home here and police speculated tonight that they may be behind the Iron Curtain.

A telegram purporting to have been filed from Territet early today by Mrs. Melinda MacLean, 37, a slim brown-haired native of Chicago, said "Safe and well, don't worry." It was addressed to her mother, Mrs. Melinda Dunbar.

Mrs. Dunbar told Swiss security police tonight she believed the handwriting on the original of the telegram was not that of her daughter. A handwriting expert will check on it tomorrow.

The original was brought here by police from Territet, a suburb of Montreaux, 60 miles east of Geneva, where the family was reported to have friends.

Telegrams have not proved fruitful clues in the past in the international police case set off by MacLean and a fellow diplomat, Guy Burgess, when they dropped out of sight at Rennes, France, May 26, 1951.

There was a message from Paris to Mrs. MacLean in London a few days after the disappearance of MacLean, then 38, a Foreign Office expert on American affairs who sat in on the U. S.-British-Canadian committee that handled political aspects of the atom bomb.

"Had to leave unexpectedly," it said. "Sorry, darling. I love you. Please do not stop loving me."

And a message received from Rome by Burgess' mother, Mrs. J. R. Bassett, said: "Terribly sorry for my silence. Am embarking on a long Mediterranean holiday. Do forgive. Guy."

Neither led to any break in the case.

Storm Curving Away From U. S.

MIAMI, Fla., Sept. 16 (AP)—Hurricane Edna was moving northward in the Atlantic Ocean today and still curving away from the U. S. mainland.

A Miami Weather Bureau advisory at 5 p.m. (EST) placed the center of the storm 580 miles east of Miami.

Strongest winds were estimated at slightly over 100 miles an hour on the northeast edge of the hurrican eye. Gales extended outward 200 miles in the eastern semicircle and 75 miles to the west.

Chief Storm Forecaster Grady Norton said hurricane hunter pilots reported the eye of the storm is not as well defined as yesterday, indicating the hurricane is spreading out and losing some of its punch. Top winds yesterday were 125 miles per hour.

It still was a dangerous storm, however, and ships to the north and northeast were advised to proceed with caution.

Norton said the hurricane is expected to swing to a northeast course tomorrow, removing the threat to the mainland.

Edna is the fifth tropical storm of the season. The others, named for letters in the alphabet, were Alice, Barbara, Carol and Dolly.

Siamese Twins Face Separation Operation

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 16 (AP)—Foundation Hospital surgeons will attempt tomorrow to separate the Siamese twin daughters of Mayor and Mrs. Ashton Mouton of Lafayette, La., hospital officials said today.

The two girls, Carolyn Ann and Catherine Ann, were born July 22, in Lafayette and brought to New Orleans 48 hours later. They are joined at the base of the spine.

Departing Demos Talk '54 Victory As GOP Forces Head For Chicago

Adlai And Truman Will Electioneer

CHICAGO, Sept. 16 (AP)—Democrats trekked out of town today with claims of restored party harmony and bright chances of victory in special elections this fall and in the 1954 battle for control of Congress.

An equally confident advance guard of the GOP moved in, for double feature conferences of their own—regional rallies of Republican women and state chairman Friday and Saturday.

"Let's get the crusade back on the road," said Victor A. Johnston, director of the Republican Senatorial Campaign Committee.

National Democratic Chairman Stephen A. Mitchell told a news conference a national Democratic rally that wound up yesterday made "great progress" in whipping up party enthusiasm.

"I feel confident," he said, "for the 1954 elections and greater confidence for some of the special elections."

While avoiding outright predictions of party victories, he mentioned contests for vacant House seats coming up soon in California and New Jersey, and important gubernatorial elections in New Jersey and Virginia.

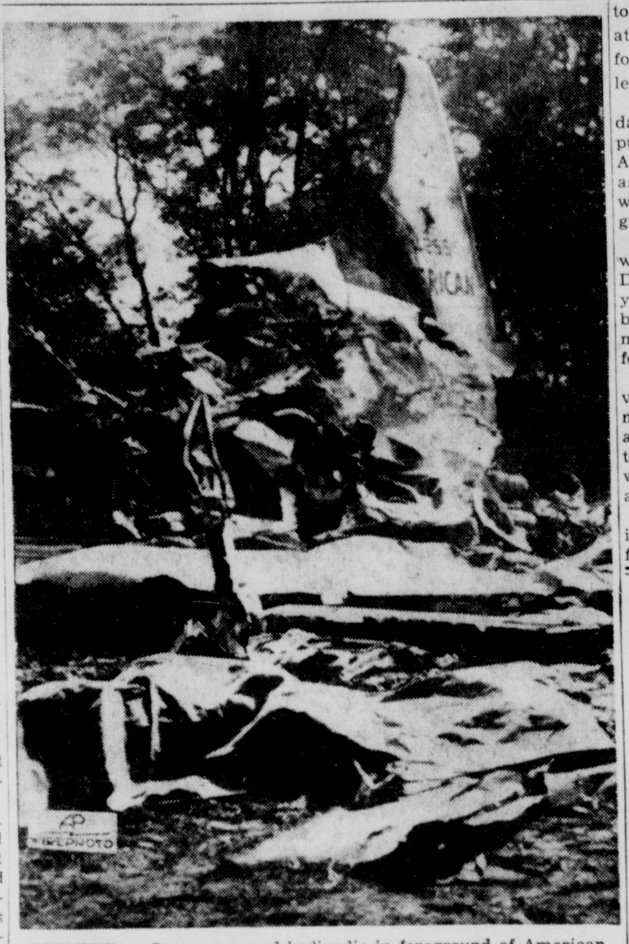

Mitchell said both Adlai E. Stevenson, the 1952 presidential nominee, and former President Harry S. Truman have been listed for oratorical efforts in the electioneering ahead. Stevenson has agreed to talk at two party huddles this fall, he said, and Truman will step to the firing line early next year.

Probably one of Stevenson's speeches will be at a mid-Atlantic states rally sometime this autumn. The city hasn't been picked. A smaller scale powwow is under consideration for some Southern state.

"We've been urged strongly to go to Atlanta, Birmingham, New Orleans, North Carolina and South Carolina," the national chairman said.

These conferences are expected to follow the pattern of the rally here, where the party clans talked over finances and campaign techniques, beat the drums for victory in 1954 and whaled away at the Eisenhower record on agriculture, foreign policy and all the other issues anybody could think of.

In its own upcoming conferences; the GOP is getting squared away for an equally early start on the 1954 campaigning and some counter-cannonading against Democratic charges that Eisenhower has broken promises to the farmer and installed what Truman called a "wrecking crew" in Washington.

1,000 In Maryland Will Lose Jobs With Army

BALTIMORE, Sept. 16 (AP)—More than 1,000 civilians will be cut from Army payrolls in Maryland by Oct. 16 as part of a federal economy move, the Baltimore Sun reported tonight.

The survey covered Second Army Headquarters at Ft. Meade, Fort Holabird in Baltimore, Fort Ritchie and Camp Dietrich.

Reds Due To Hit A-Cannon Shift

WASHINGTON, Sept. 16 (AP)—European Communists are expected to unleash a violent propaganda attack against the United States for deciding to send atomic artillery to West Germany.

American officials predicted today that Communist radios and publications from Moscow to the Atlantic would denounce this move as alleged proof that "American warmongers" plan an eventual aggressive attack against Russia.

This expected Communist outcry was carefully weighed before the Defense Department announced yesterday it plans to move a battalion of six of the huge 280 mm. cannon to American combat forces in West Germany.

The cannon can fire either conventional or atomic shells. The announcement made no mention of any shipment of atomic amnunition along with the guns. That would require special presidential approval.

Conventional shells will be used in any maneuvers in Europe, informants said.

Issue Of Airliner, Officers' Club Liquor Sales Unsolved

WASHINGTON, Sept. 16 (AP)—Shall liquor sales be allowed on domestic airliners? At Army and Air Force officers' clubs?

It's been 20 years since prohibition's repeal made liquor sales legal again, but arguments still go on over where they should be permitted.

Take the officers' clubs, for instance. The argument there finds such diverse organizations as the liquor dealers and the Women's Christian Temperance Union (WCTU) lined up on the same side. Asst. Secretary of Defense John A. Hannah said today the liquor retailers "are using these people who have different motives entirely." But he added they won't win.

The lines aren't clearly drawn yet in the airline fight, which thus far is only a localized skirmish.

Capital Airlines thinks, however, it is "a serious problem" over which the Civil Aeronautics Board (CAB) should take jurisdiction.

Capital complained to the CAB that it faces an "unfair method of competition" from Northwest Airlines, which serves cocktails aloft and advertises that fact.

Capital indicated it might like to fight drinks with drinks, but found that liquor sales aloft are "absolutely forbidden" in seven of the 10 states over which Capital and Northwest compete.

Capital said sales in those areas would be "no minor breach of state laws." Northwest says, however, it closes its bars while flying over states where sale is forbidden, but will continue serving drinks aloft "whenever it can be done in compliance with national and state laws."

CAB, through Enforcement Chief Robert L. Griffith, has said so far only that with so many local and state laws, a check on the liquor drinking would be "well-nigh impossible." But Capital wants CAB to check into it, nevertheless.

FREDERICK, Sept. 16 (AP)—Kenneith M. Outhouse today petitioned Frederick Circuit Court to change his name to Kenneth Morton Dean. He said the new name would be "more appropriate, genteel and elegant."

Disillusioned Couple Heads Back To Ohio

HAGERSTOWN, Sept. 16 (AP)—A young Cleveland couple who thought they could be married quicker in Maryland today headed back to Ohio to tie the knot after spending the night in police headquarters here.

James W. Kaseda, 19, and his bride-to-be, Arlene Evans, 17, both of Cleveland, were arrested last night going the wrong way on a one-way street.

Police took them to headquarters when Kaseda was unable to produce the registration card for his automobile. The youth said the card, apparently had been lost.

Lt. Harold Keiser telephoned Kaseda's parenths in Cleveland and was advised they were aware of their son's plans to marry Miss Evans, and that the car did belong to Kaseda.

PUXICO, Mo., Sept. 16 (AP)—The Rev. R. P. Woodruff, pastor of the Assembly of God Church in this drought-stricken southeast Missouri town, announced today baptismal services will be held Sunday "provided we can find a pond with enough water in it."

Sinking Spanish Ship Begins Race To Port

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld., Sept. 16 (AP)—The sinking Spanish freighter Marte began a race to port today against time and rising water in her hold.

The 3,744-ton grain-laden ship gave up attempts to patch a gaping hole in her starboard side and headed for St. John's, 560 miles to the northwest.

1,000 In Maryland Will Lose Jobs With Army

BALTIMORE, Sept. 16 (AP)—More than 1,000 civilians will be cut from Army payrolls in Maryland by Oct. 16 as part of a federal economy move, the Baltimore Sun reported tonight.

The survey covered Second Army Headquarters at Ft. Meade, Fort Holabird in Baltimore, Fort Ritchie and Camp Dietrich.

Reds Due To Hit A-Cannon Shift

WASHINGTON, Sept. 16 (AP)—European Communists are expected to unleash a violent propaganda attack against the United States for deciding to send atomic artillery to West Germany.

American officials predicted today that Communist radios and publications from Moscow to the Atlantic would denounce this move as alleged proof that "American warmongers" plan an eventual aggressive attack against Russia.

This expected Communist outcry was carefully weighed before the Defense Department announced yesterday it plans to move a battalion of six of the huge 280 mm. cannon to American combat forces in West Germany.

The cannon can fire either conventional or atomic shells. The announcement made no mention of any shipment of atomic ammunition along with the guns. That would require special presidential approval.

Conventional shells will be used in any maneuvers in Europe, informants said.

Issue Of Airliner, Officers' Club Liquor Sales Unsolved

It's been 20 years since prohibition's repeal made liquor sales legal again, but arguments still go on over where they should be permitted.

Take the officers' clubs, for instance. The argument there finds such diverse organizations as the liquor dealers and the Women's Christian Temperance Union (WCTU) lined up on the same side. Asst. Secretary of Defense John A. Hannah said today the liquor retailers "are using these people who have different motives entirely." But he added they won't win.

The lines aren't clearly drawn yet in the airline fight, which thus far is only a localized skirmish.

Capital Airlines thinks, however, it is "a serious problem" over which the Civil Aeronautics Board (CAB) should take jurisdiction.

Capital complained to the CAB that it faces an "unfair method of competition" from Northwest Airlines, which serves cocktails aloft and advertises that fact.

Capital indicated it might like to fight drinks with drinks, but found that liquor sales aloft are "absolutely forbidden" in seven of the 10 states over which Capital and Northwest compete.

Capital said sales in those areas would be "no minor breach of state laws." Northwest says, however, it closes its bars while flying over states where sale is forbidden, but will continue serving drinks aloft "whenever it can be done in compliance with national and state laws."

CAB, through Enforcement Chief Robert L. Griffith, has said so far only that with so many local and state laws, a check on the liquor drinking would be "well-nigh impossible." But Capital wants CAB to check into it, nevertheless.

Outhouse To Dean

FREDERICK, Sept. 16 (AP)—Kenneith M. Outhouse today petitioned Frederick Circuit Court to change his name to Kenneth Morton Dean. He said the new name would be "more appropriate, genteel and elegant."

Disillusioned Couple Heads Back To Ohio

HAGERSTOWN, Sept. 16 (AP)—A young Cleveland couple who thought they could be married quicker in Maryland today headed back to Ohio to tie the knot after spending the night in police headquarters here.

James W. Kaseda, 19, and his bride-to-be, Arlene Evans, 17, both of Cleveland, were arrested last night going the wrong way on a one-way street.

Police took them to headquarters when Kaseda was unable to produce the registration card for his automobile. The youth said the card, apparently had been lost.

Lt. Harold Keiser telephoned Kaseda's parenths in Cleveland and was advised they were aware of their son's plans to marry Miss Evans, and that the car did belong to Kaseda.

PUXICO, Mo., Sept. 16 (AP)—The Rev. R. P. Woodruff, pastor of the Assembly of God Church in this drought-stricken southeast Missouri town, announced today baptismal services will be held Sunday "provided we can find a pond with enough water in it."

"It saves me around 2 gallons of gas each day," says this rural mail carrier

"Vic" Hammer is a rural mail carrier out of Appleton, Wisconsin. He drives the same route every day. He has 400 boxes, which means lots of starting and stopping. He used to use between 5 and 6 gallons each day.

Recently, Mr. Hammer purchased a new 1953 Plymouth equipped with Hy-Drive*. He is now using between 3½ and 4 gallons of gas a day on his route.

"I think this is an amazing performance," Mr. Hammer says. "I'm saving around 2 gallons of gas for the route each day. And it's 100 per cent easier serving the route now that I no longer have to shift gears."

Statistics Prove What All Parents Know–Children Are Constant Worry

By ARTHUR EDSON

WASHINGTON, Sept. 16 (AP)—The Children's Bureau proved by statistics today what parents have known all along: that a child is a constant worry from the time he is born.

True, wonder drugs have taken some of the fright out of many children's diseases. But the Bureau report said accidents continue to be a major cause for anxiety.

Right now, it said, more children are being killed by accidents than die of all the infectious diseases of childhood put together. These include influenza, pneumonia, polio, tuberculosis, rheumatic fever, measles, diphtheria and whooping cough.

The trouble starts immediately. During the first year of baby's life, the report said, the chief accident danger is the "inhalation or ingestion of objects." Freely translated, that means baby picks up something and either sticks it up his nose or down his throat.

Then, between the ages of one and four, he can run around and show more versatility in what he picks up. Such as poison.

But at almost all ages, the No. 1 villain in accidental deaths is the same: the automobile.

The infant is its victim, and so is the grammar school age child. When he becomes a teen-ager, and maybe starts to drive the car himself, the rate jumps up startlingly. More children ranging from 15 to 19 die because of motor vehicles than from all other accidental causes combined.

Statisties are hard to visualize in terms of human beings, especially young human beings, but let's look at a couple anyway.

On the basis of data from 1949, the latest year available, the statics show that over a 10 year span the rate of deaths from accidents has been cut only 16 per cent. At the same time, the rate from all other causes was cut 49 per cent.

All right, what can be done about it?

The report doesn't come up with a lot of answers, other than to suggest that parents use every possible precaution.

But it does say:

"If parents understood the accident problem and were as concerned about it as they are about polio and other contagious diseases, the toll of childhood death and disability could be cut sharply."

SURRENDERS — William Howell, 35, ex-convict sought in connection with the slaying of Union Leader Thomas E. Lewis, covers his face on the way to police headquarters in New York. Howell, talked into surrendering by his wife, is suspected of driving the car that Lewis' slayer expected to use for a getaway. Booked on a homicide charge, Howell refused to talk about the murder.

Picket Lines Crossed At Plutonium Works

RICHLAND, Wash., Sept. 16 (AP)—More than 2,000 workers passed through picket lines today to report for work on the Kaiser engineers construction project at the Hanford plutonium works, a Kaiser spokesman said.

Picket lines, set up by AFL machinists, remained in place in the 28th strike in the history of the Hanford works which produces plutonium. Plutonium production was not affected by the strike, however.

The Kaiser spokesman said neither Kaiser nor Atomic Energy Commission officials were informed of the reason for the strike. A machinists' spokesman said the picket lines were established to bring to a head a long-standing dispute with millwrights over work assignments.

Russia Backs Poland For U. N. Council Seat

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., Sept. 16 (AP)—Poland was reported today to be Russia's choice for the Eastern European seat on the Security Council. The United States will oppose Russia's satellite and will back Turkey.

Poland served when the council first began operations in 1946. The Russians backed White Russia two years ago against Greece but lost after several ballots were taken. Greece retires from the council Dec. 31.

Brazil is slated to succeed Chile on the council and New Zealand is expected to succeed Pakistan.

Hurricane Season

The U. S. Weather Bureau has a ladylike name for the current North Atlantic hurricane — Hurricane Edna. The bureau this year is naming hurricanes alphabetically after women. Hurricane Dolly blew out to sea last week without touching the Florida mainland. The most destructive of the year's storms so far has been Hurricane Carol, which disappeared on September 8, after battering the Furness liner Queen of Bermuda in the Atlantic, causing the death of a crew member, grounding two freighters, and creating crop damage in New England estimated at $1 million.

A hurricane is defined by the Weather Bureau as "a cyclonic storm of the Tropics." Typhoons, tropical cyclones, hurricanes—all are vast whirlwinds of extraordinary violence, and all belong to the same family. The West Indian hurricanes which seasonally menace the North Atlantic coast originate over water areas not far from the Equator, where the air is warm and moist. Air begins to move in a circular fashion around a center of lowest pressure. Winds often reach speeds upwards of 100 miles an hour, but the forward motion of the whole system is rarely more than 40 miles an hour.

Tornadoes accompany hurricanes observed in Florida, near the advance edge of hurricanes moving northward and the right edge of hurricanes moving westward. Like a hurricane, a tornado is made up of swiftly rotating winds. But a hurricane covers a much wider area—usually 100 to 200 miles across. Cyclones resemble tornadoes, but are milder.

The government has maintained a hurricane warning system since 1873. Little can be done to save crops and permanent structures in the path of a hurricane. Warehouses, docks, piers, dwellings and commercial buildings, communications lines, highways and bridges, railroads are always vulnerable. But in recent years a great saving of life has resulted from the evacuation of large populations from coastal areas threatened by such disturbances.

The Weather Bureau, using aircraft and radar, collects reports of hurricanes, issues forecasts and warnings. A special hurricane teletype circuit connects all city and airport bureau offices on the Gulf and South Atlantic coasts from Brownsville to Charleston. And a private circuit connects Boston, Washington, and Miami.

Tornadoes like those which swept parts of the country in spring and early summer are not so limited in area as are hurricanes. But experiences with the hurricane warning system may point the way toward similar achievement in protection against tornadoes.

A tornado is usually less than a mile wide; its average length is 16 miles. Every state in the Union has been struck by tornadoes—though Nevada has had only one in 70 years. The country averages 149 tornadoes a year, with an average toll, annually, of 127 lives. Tornadoes are most likely to occur in May, but they have been recorded in every month, the fewest in December.

Radar networks and other mechanical devices for tracking and warning against tornadoes have been advocated by Capt. H. T. Orville, a retired U. S. Navy weather expert, and Dr. H. L. Jones of Oklahoma A. and M. College. A nationwide tornado warning system, according to Dr. Jones, might require 50 to 100 stations, at a cost in equipment of about $300,000 each.

Watching Vs. Studying

At Northwestern University, a professor of education, who is also director of a psychoeducational clinic, has made his fourth annual report on television's influence on the habits of children. Parents and teachers are worried, Dr. Paul Witty asserts, about the increasing amount of time school children spend watching television.

Watching time is up. For elementary pupils it now averages 22 hours a week, as compared to an hour a week in 1950. High school students watch television 17 hours a week, compared to 14 hours three years ago. Parents and teachers fear that excessive time watching TV will "influence reading and study habits adversely."

It all sounds as if parents had no control at all of their children's habits. If elementary pupils among the 3,000 sampled in the Chicago area spend more than three hours a day watching television after school, and high school students more than two, the time left for reading or studies is, of course, bound to suffer.

When radio came into general use, the same complaint was heard. With the radio on, especially if it was tuned down to music, children were able to condition themselves to read and study, although their perception level was without doubt lowered. But television requires watching, as well as listening. It is impossible for a student to read or work examples while watching TV.

The solution seems to lie in the parents' control of their children through a rationing of television time according to some not inflexible schedule. As for presenting more children's programs at favorable evening hours, when watching is at its peak, that presents an economic problem that was never solved, at least to the satisfaction of child psychologists, on radio.

Wanted: Big Show Hall

In a few weeks Grand Central Palace, New York, will hold its last show, and thereafter it will cease to exist as such. It is to be converted into an office building for the federal government.

That will leave Manhattan with no big show hall to house exhibitions. This had been foreseen, and New York was prepared to build a $20,000,000 coliseum to replace it as part of the development of the Columbus Circle area in connection with slum clearance. This project is now held up by a taxpayer's suit, and at the earliest the coliseum will be completed at the end of 1956.

From the days of Castle Garden it seems almost unthinkable that New York should be for three long years without a show hall commensurate to its size. That is not the fault of the Triborough Bridge and Tunnel Authority, which will build the huge convention hall and has the money to buy the land when it gets clearance in the courts. It had been known that the coliseum could not be completed before the end of 1955, and two years of makeshifts were contemplated.

It is estimated by the New York Convention and Visitors' Bureau that the long delay will cost New York at least $200,000,000 in trade. Eight shows booked for Grand Central Palace will utilize New York armories. Some will go to other cities. The immediate prospect is bleak, but nobody can doubt that the greatest city in the world will again be the most popular of all convention cities.

How To Keep Well

Barrel Chest From Emphysema

Shortness of breath in the middle aged and older person is not always traceable to heart trouble. Emphysema also is a common cause. This disorder is recognized externally by stooped shoulders and a barrel-shaped chest; and internally, by overstretched and dilated air sacs resulting from loss of tissue elasticity.

Emphysema, a chronic disorder, has never received much publicity. It produces symptoms ranging from coughing and wheezing to marked shortness of breath on the slightest exertion. The trouble lies in the air sacs and the tiny bronchi which become overstretched for a variety of reasons. Repeated inflammation is a frequent culprit. The air sacs become distended when mucus obstructs the opening, and the individual is forced to cough hard to dislodge the secretions. Internal pressure during expiration is what does the damage. In time, the thin walls of the lobules become overstretched, lose their elasticity, and rupture so that three or four come together to make a larger sac. Chief among the offenders are whooping cough, bronchitis, and asthma. The condition also is said to prevail among players of wind instruments, glass blowers, and those whose occupations require straining or heavy lifting. In such instances there is a tendency to create more than the usual amount of pressure within the lungs.

While this is going on inside, external changes also take place. The ribs have a tendency to spread apart and the chest becomes thicker and thicker so that the diameter from front to back approaches that from side to side (barrel shape). The shoulders droop forward, making the sufferer look hunchbacked. Once lung elasticity is lost the individual has trouble eliminating air from the chest, which means that expiration is difficult. Furthermore, the air is saturated with carbon dioxide, causing shortness of breath because of lack of oxygen. Moreover, chemical changes resulting from overabundance of carbon dioxide are encountered. But that is not all. The victim cannot expel mucus easily and, as a result, an ordinary attack of bronchitis or a cold becomes a major problem.

In the past, little could be offered to emphysema victims. They went about wheezing and coughing, and many became so short of breath on exertion as to be unable to work. Some went to Arizona where the air is dry and respiratory infections are less frequent. Cough medicines were used, especially those containing potassium iodide which kept the bronchial secretions loose. The more modern remedies include the wonder drugs to combat infections and a variety of newer aerosol products that tend to open up the bronchioles. When allergy co-exists the antihistaminic products are recommended; in some patients, ACTH or cortisone is indicated.

More recently, breathing exercises have come to the fore in an attempt to make better use of the diaphragm in expelling stagnant air. One of the most unusual plans is the injection of air into the abdominal cavity to force up the diaphragm, which tends to reduce shortness of breath and increase tolerance to exercise.

WORRIER

A. S. writes: My sister is always worrying over trivial matters and is a nervous wreck. She has lots of fears also. I recommended that she see a psychiatrist but she thinks only insane people see these doctors. Will you please tell us if this is true?

REPLY

No. Only a small percentage of persons seen by psychiatrists are insane. The remainder are bothered by anxieties and frustrations. The psychiatrist has special training in ways and means to help these individuals adjust to their problems.

THICK SKULLED

M. W. writes: I've often heard of thick skulls and wonder if there is a great variation in this respect?

REPLY

Yes. In exostosis frontalis, for example, the front part of the skull becomes thick. The skull also thickens in Paget's disease and the victim often becomes suspicious that something is wrong when he is forced to buy larger hats. The brain is not affected, however and in this respect the expression "thick skulled" has nothing to do with stubbornness or numbness.

TB THERAPIES

F. W. writes: What are some of the ways of treating tuberculosis? Which is the most common treatment?

REPLY

Rest is the most frequently used, followed by treatment with drugs such as streptomycin, PAS, or the isoniazids.

KIDNEY TUMOR

Mrs. K. writes: Can a 1-year-old boy with Wilm's tumor be cured?

REPLY

The outcome is a grave question because in most instances this kidney tumor reaches a large size before the diagnosis can be made.

Secretary Of Defense Wilson Persists In Concentrating Production; General Motor's Lavonia Fire Makes No Impression On Defense Chief

WASHINGTON — There's so much censorship in the Pentagon these days that no one dares speak out publicly against Secretary of Defense Wilson's policy of concentrated arms production, but Charlie is going ahead with concentration just the same. Nevertheless, the opposition is very real and in some cases very bitter.

Despite repeated warnings from the military that we can't afford to make key defense factories sitting ducks for an A-bomb attack, Charlie has proceeded to pile up important arms output in a few big factories, many of them General Motors plants.

Pentagon advisers at first thought they had Wilson stopped when the General Motors hydromatics plant burned up at Lavonia, Mich. This has cut auto production back for most General Motors cars, for exactly the same reason Pentagon advisers don't want to risk concentrating our defense production in only one or two plants.

The Lavonia fire has also cut back the independent auto companies, Studebaker, Kaiser-Frazier, etc., since they also bought their hydromatic shifts from GM. This curtailment will affect not only employment, but also the steel industry, since the motor companies are among the top customers of steel. Steel last week fell below 90 per cent and the auto cutback may later affect the economy of the entire nation.

This is why military men inside the Pentagon oppose the Charlie Wilson concentration policy as against the Truman policy of spreading production out among many smaller plants, even if it cost more.

Plan Was Predicted

On August 17, this column gave the first indication that the likable, persistent Charlie Wilson was going to push ahead with his concentrated production plan, even though it put him in the position of favoring his old company.

"What really raised eyebrows in industrial circles," this column reported August 17, "was the selection of plants to be closed down.

"For example, three big auto companies — Chrysler, Ford, and General Motors — are producing the Patton M-48 tank. Following Wilson's new policy, Ford was arbitrarily delared out of the running — by direct order of the Pentagon. This means that Ford won't even be given a chance to bid for the right to continue producing. It will be left up to Chrysler and General Motors to bid against each other, and the losing bidder will go out of production next spring.

"Likewise, Studebaker was ruled out of the bidding over the 2.5-ton truck, and was ordered to wind up its production by September. This will leave GM's truck and coach division to bid against Reo Motors, inc., for the truck contract.

"The Pentagon also ordered production stopped on the M-47 tank, which happens to be manufactured by Chrysler and American Locomotive. General Motors was not affected.

"On the other hand, the production of M-41 tanks will be continued full speed at GM's Cadillac plant in Cleveland. In addition, General Motors will take over the added production of antiaircraft guns, now manufactured by American Car and Foundry. The excuse is that many gun-carriage and M-41 parts are interchangeable."

Charlie Persists

One month later, September 12, and despite the Lavonia fire, Secretary Wilson's bullheaded determination to advance with this plan was officially announced to the press.

General Motors was given the Patton M-48 tank contract, and Chrysler was ordered to close down next April, even though it was Chrysler that developed the Patton tank in the first place. Chrysler, the Defense Department announced, was 12 per cent over General Motors in its bid.

General Motors and Reo were also awarded contracts for 2.5-ton trucks, with Studebaker left out.

NOTE—The fact that Congress forced Charlie Wilson to sell his GM stock last year has made him a fortune. At the time he sold, GM stock was selling for around $70. Now it's down to around $56. In other words, Charlie could quit his defense job tomorrow and buy back his GM stock for $15 less per share than he sold it.

Experiment In Truth

WASHINGTON

President Eisenhower has now approved plans for one of the most remarkable experiments in government ever undertaken in this country. These plans call for seven reports to the American people, all related to one aspect or another of the threat to national survival inherent in the growing Soviet air-atomic capability. The series of reports is tentatively scheduled to start Sunday evening, October 4, and to continue every Sunday evening thereafter until November 15.

This project—known as "Operation Candor" in the inner circles of the government—will start, as presently planned, with a vitally important speech by the President. In this speech President Eisenhower expects to tell the people in broad strokes, but frankly and factually, the hard truth about the national situation. This presidential report to the people is to be followed by six further nationwide radio and television reports by administration leaders, all dealing with the problem of national survival in the nuclear age.

Allies, Bases Needed

Precise schedules have not been worked out, nor has it finally been decided who will participate in the series. But according to present plans the presidential report will be followed by a discussion of American foreign policy by Secretary of State John Foster Dulles and Sen. Alexander Wiley, chairman of the Senate Relations Committee. Dulles and Wiley are expected to stress the need for allies—and the foreign bases which only allies can supply—in the nuclear age.

Secretary of Defense Charles Wilson, Deputy Secretary Roger Kyes, and Adm. Arthur Radford, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, are scheduled to follow with a three-cornered report on defense. Wilson, Kyes and Radford will emphasize what can be accomplished by an effective air defense against atomic attack, the need for which has now been officially recognized by the National Safety Council.

In a sense, indeed, "Operation Candor" is an outgrowth of the Lincoln Project study of air defense, first described by the present reporters, and the various studies of the air defense problem which have followed it. For the purpose of "Operation Candor" is to explain to the nation the basic facts which make a great, continuing, national defense effort necessary.

After the defense report, Allen Dulles, director of the Central Intelligence Agency, and Atomic Energy Commission Chairman Lewis Strauss may make the most significant report of all. The present intention is for Straus and Dulles to give rough estimates, based on the best intelligence data available, of Soviet nuclear production.

Will Be Key Report

If this bold step is finally approved by the President, Dulles and Strauss will give three estimates of Soviet stockpiling — a minimum, a median, and a maximum estimate. They will also give a sufficient indication of American atomic and hydrogen bomb production to provide the necessary standard of comparison.

There is still strong opposition to this course, in the Atomic Energy Commission (where Commissioner Eugene Zuckert is reportedly one who opposes it) and elsewhere. But the essential facts on stockpiling are likely to be made public in the end, for two reasons.

First, the American people would learn much, but the Soviets nothing, from revealing these facts. Second, unless they are revealed, "Operation Candor" becomes largely meaningless, like a production of "Hamlet" without the Prince of Denmark. For these reasons, it is believed in some quarters that the stockpiling estimates should be given at the very beginning, by the President, leaving Strauss and Dulles to fill in the details.

There will be a civil defense report by Civil Defense Director Val Peterson and his deputy, Mrs. Katherine Howard. And there will be a report on the balance between national solvency and national survival, by Secretary of the Treasury George Humphrey, and probably with his budget director, Joseph Dodge.

This will be a key report, since it should give a very clear indication of how much real national effort and sacrifice the administration intends to ask, as insurance against national devastation in air-atomic attacks. It is possible that Humphrey will propose a national tax, as one painful but necessary means of paying the bill for this insurance. Finally, the President is scheduled to sum up on the evening of Sunday, November 15, putting what has gone before into proper perspective.

This program is, of course, subject to change. The President might even conceivably change his mind, and cancel the whole project. Short of this, it might in the end be so watered down as to serve no useful purpose, or even turned into a political stunt. Certain absolutely vital high policy decisions, moreover, must be made if the program is to be really effective—and these have not yet been made. Yet as of now, this program for trusting the American people with the truth looks like a remarkably courageous and wholly admirable experiment in government.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

Worship In Spain

In 1492, the Jews were expelled from Spain. Many of them went to Holland; some found themselves on the ships that took Columbus to America. Colonies of them eventually appeared in Surinam, Pernambuco and other Central and South American colonies.

In 1654, a ship, the "St. Charles," sailed into New York harbor. On it were a number of Jewish families, mostly of Spanish and Portuguese origin, who were sailing to Holland but were blown into New York by a storm. They decided that it was God's will that they should settle in that city. Negotiating with Peter Stuyvesant, they were permitted to settle, to have a synagogue and a burial place of their own, provided that they would always take care of their own destitute. They have never broken that contract.

A year ago, Captain Joshua Goldberg, chief Jewish chaplain of the American military services, was in Spain. He found that a few Jews were in the capital, Madrid, and that they had improvised a synagogue, altogether inadequately equipped. Chaplain Goldberg preached in that synagogue in the uniform of an American naval officer. It was the first time in 461 years that an ordained rabbi had preached at a service in Madrid.

The Moroccan Jewish students before whom Chaplain Goldberg also preached, implored him to send a rabbi to Madrid. The president of the Jewish community there, who had been received by Franco, Daniel F. Baroukh, also expressed a desire for a rabbi.

This year, this was accomplished. On the Jewish holy days, Rosh Hashannah (New Year) and Yom Kippur (the Day of Atonement), for the first time since 1942, the Jewish community of Madrid has a Torah (a scroll of the law) beautifully garbed in silks, as is the Jewish custom, Hebrew prayer books, prayer shawls, skull caps—and a rabbi.

The rabbi, David A. Jessurun Cardozo, comes from an old Spanish family that had settled in Holland. He was educated in Amsterdam and London. He came to the United States and has held rabbinical posts in New York and Philadelphia. He preaches not only in English and Hebrew but also in Spanish, and is therefore eminently fitted for this post.

Thus the circle of history is closed. Jewish culture reached heights in Spain, prior to 1492, unequalled anywhere else in Europe. Maimonides, the greatest Jewish philosopher, Jehuda Halevy, the greatest Jewish poet, and Ibn Gabirol, whose poems have become part of the Jewish liturgy, were Spaniards.

Then came Ferdinand and Isabella, the wars with the Moors, and bad times. It is in bad times that persecutions often occur. In Spain, a monolithic nationalism produced a violent reaction against any people who were in any manner different from the norm of Spanish life and culture. After the Jews were expelled, Spain was closed to them for more than four centuries.

Yet it is a curious fact that during the Hitler persecution of the Jews, Franco opened Spain to Jewish refugees from the Nazi. Many found their way into that land that had so long rejected them. They were protected there from Nazi espionage. The Spanish and Portuguese asylums for Jews were particularly important during World War II when most of Western Europe was overrun by Hitler's armies.

In 1949, Franco granted Spanish nationality to several hundred Jews of Spanish origin who had been released from Nazi concentration camps. In 1945, he had granted the Jewish community of Madrid and Barcelona full rights of worship according to their tradition. In 1947, he had authorized the introduction of Jewish education in certain public schools which Jewish children attend.

This being the 300th anniversary of the settlement of the Jews in New York, I am informed that Temple Emanuel of New York, the largest Jewish congregation in the United States, has defrayed the costs of sending Rabbi Cardozo to Spain to reinstitute Jewish worship at Madrid for the high holy days this year.

Even to those who are not Jews, these events must spell a new day in Spain. It is particularly significant that the arrangements were made through a rabbi who is an officer of the United States Navy and that the rabbi sent to Spain comes from the United States. It is a symbol of a renewal of religious tolerance in a part of the world from which it has so long been absent.

Today In Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — Just about the time the Republicans are beginning to fall apart, the Democrats under the leadership of former President Truman come to their rescue and coalesce them.

The Democratic party's rally in Chicago is as good a piece of publicity for the Republicans as they could themselves have devised. It reminds the country that Mr. Truman is still the boss of the Democratic party and that the only platform the Democrats have is to restore Trumanism to the national government. No mistakes are acknowledged—everything is to be the same as it was under the New Deal and Fair Deal.

Trumanism was interpreted in the election of last November as meaning a pseudo-liberalism that got caught in a "Washington mess" —special privileges for the tax-fixer, failure to prosecute Communists inside the government, and a profligate spending program that threatened the solvency of the nation's finances.

Red Conspiracy Ignored

Since the election, the facts have come out that FBI information concerning a devious Communist conspiracy inside the government had been consistently ignored. Despite warning of Soviet spy rings by the FBI in 1945, the Truman administration for three years failed to act and then did so only when congressional committees forced the issue.

Last autumn's election was won by the Republicans because of a negative trend — a trend against the Truman administration on the issues of communism corruption and Korea. This negative trend will not stop in 1945 but will go on to 1956, as happened when the antagonism to the Hoover administration persisted through the '30's.

The Democrats used to remind the country about Hooverism on every occasion. The Republican tacticians are asleep at the switch and some of the Eisenhower aides are still angling for the applause of so-called "liberals." The latter voted for Stevenson last time and will vote Democratic next time. It is more important to hold the confidence of those who did vote for Eisenhower.

But notwithstanding the Republican failure to keep the country reminded of the errors of the Truman regime, such reminders are being stimulated by the Democratic rallies.

There are many persons who, like the writer, prefer the Democratic party to the Republican party based on history and party principle. But the present-day Democratic leadership ignores the traditional Democrats and wants to turn the party over to a group of labor-union radicals and so-called "liberals" who are coercionists at heart and would impose restrictions on the liberty of the individual which the true doctrine of the Democratic Party would never sanction.

Private Capitalism Weakened

There is a chance for leadership in America by a major political party which understands the basic and fundamental principles that have built up the industrial and agricultural and financial strength of this country. It wasn't built up by "giveaway" programs which robbed Peter to pay Paul or which sapped the vitality of the individual by prohibitive tax rates. Today the system of private capitalism has been weakened by the Democratic party. State socialism is the ultimate aim. Sometimes, as one reviews the aspirations of the "public ownership" advocates inside the Democratic party, the phrases of their speeches resemble the anti-capitalist propaganda of the Communists in Europe—where the state is extolled above everything else.

The Republican party is far from cohesive. It, too, is composed of some groups which have an affinity for giving away taxpayers' money and calling it "social welfare." The Democrats have a strong faction opposed to this, and so have the Republicans. They could some day unite in one party to oppose the confiscationists—those who, under the guise of the "public interest," would have an all-powerful government compete with or supplant private enterprises.

President Eisenhower has a chance to keep in his party many of the Democrats in the South and North who believe in true liberalism. Certainly the Democrats' Chicago rally doesn't show that the party leaders are doing anything to persuade traditional Democrats to revoke their 1952 support of the Republican ticket. The jargon at Chicago is merely reminiscent of the misdeeds of an administration that was repudiated at the polls.

Hurricane Season

The U. S. Weather Bureau has a ladylike name for the current North Atlantic hurricane — Hurricane Edna. The bureau this year is naming hurricanes alphabetically after women. Hurricane Dolly blew out to sea last week without touching the Florida mainland. The most destructive of the year's storms so far has been Hurricane Carol, which disappeared on September 8, after battering the Furness liner Queen of Bermuda in the Atlantic, causing the death of a crew member, grounding two freighters, and creating crop damage in New England estimated at $1 million.

A hurricane is defined by the Weather Bureau as "a cyclonic storm of the Tropics." Typhoons, tropical cyclones, hurricanes—all are vast whirlwinds of extraordinary violence, and all belong to the same family. The West Indian hurricanes which seasonally menace the North Atlantic coast originate over water areas not far from the Equator, where the air is warm and moist. Air begins to move in a circular fashion around a center of lowest pressure. Winds often reach speeds upwards of 100 miles an hour, but the forward motion of the whole system is rarely more than 40 miles an hour.

Tornadoes accompany hurricanes observed in Florida, near the advance edge of hurricanes moving northward and the right edge of hurricanes moving westward. Like a hurricane, a tornado is made up of swiftly rotating winds. But a hurricane covers a much wider area—usually 100 to 200 miles across. Cyclones resemble tornadoes, but are milder.

The government has maintained a hurricane warning system since 1873. Little can be done to save crops and permanent structures in the path of a hurricane. Warehouses, docks, piers, dwellings and commercial buildings, communications lines, highways and bridges, railroads are always vulnerable. But in recent years a great saving of life has resulted from the evacuation of large populations from coastal areas threatened by such disturbances.

The Weather Bureau, using aircraft and radar, collects reports of hurricanes, issues forecasts and warnings. A special hurricane teletype circuit connects all city and airport bureau offices on the Gulf and South Atlantic coasts from Brownsville to Charleston. And a private circuit connects Boston, Washington, and Miami.

Tornadoes like those which swept parts of the country in spring and early summer are not so limited in area as are hurricanes. But experiences with the hurricane warning system may point the way toward similar achievement in protection against tornadoes.

A tornado is usually less than a mile wide; its average length is 16 miles. Every state in the Union has been struck by tornadoes—though Nevada has had only one in 70 years. The country averages 149 tornadoes a year, with an average toll, annually, of 127 lives. Tornadoes are most likely to occur in May, but they have been recorded in every month, the fewest in December.

Radar networks and other mechanical devices for tracking and warning against tornadoes have been advocated by Capt. H. T. Orville, a retired U. S. Navy weather expert, and Dr. H. L. Jones of Oklahoma A. and M. College. A nationwide tornado warning system, according to Dr. Jones, might require 50 to 100 stations, at a cost in equipment of about $300,000 each.

Watching Vs. Studying

At Northwestern University, a professor of education, who is also director of a psychoeducational clinic, has made his fourth annual report on television's influence on the habits of children. Parents and teachers are worried, Dr. Paul Witty asserts, about the increasing amount of time school children spend watching television.

Watching time is up. For elementary pupils it now averages 22 hours a week, as compared to an hour a week in 1950. High school students watch television 17 hours a week, compared to 14 hours three years ago. Parents and teachers fear that excessive time watching TV will "influence reading and study habits adversely."

It all sounds as if parents had no control at all of their children's habits. If elementary pupils among the 3,000 sampled in the Chicago area spend more than three hours a day watching television after school, and high school students more than two, the time left for reading or studies is, of course, bound to suffer.

When radio came into general use, the same complaint was heard. With the radio on, especially if it was tuned down to music, children were able to condition themselves to read and study, although their perception level was without doubt lowered. But television requires watching, as well as listening. It is impossible for a student to read or work examples while watching TV.

The solution seems to lie in the parents' control of their children through a rationing of television time according to some not inflexible schedule. As for presenting more children's programs at favorable evening hours, when watching is at its peak, that presents an economic problem that was never solved, at least to the satisfaction of child psychologists, on radio.

Wanted: Big Show Hall

In a few weeks Grand Central Palace, New York, will hold its last show, and thereafter it will cease to exist as such. It is to be converted into an office building for the federal government.

That will leave Manhattan with no big show hall to house exhibitions. This had been foreseen, and New York was prepared to build a $20,000,000 coliseum to replace it as part of the development of the Columbus Circle area in connection with slum clearance. This project is now held up by a taxpayer's suit, and at the earliest the coliseum will be completed at the end of 1956.

From the days of Castle Garden it seems almost unthinkable that New York should be for three long years without a show hall commensurate to its size. That is not the fault of the Triborough Bridge and Tunnel Authority, which will build the huge convention hall and has the money to buy the land when it gets clearance in the courts. It had been known that the coliseum could not be completed before the end of 1955, and two years of makeshifts were contemplated.

It is estimated by the New York Convention and Visitors' Bureau that the long delay will cost New York at least $200,000,000 in trade. Eight shows booked for Grand Central Palace will utilize New York armories. Some will go to other cities. The immediate prospect is bleak, but nobody can doubt that the greatest city in the world will again be the most popular of all convention cities.

Barrel Chest From Emphysema

Shortness of breath in the middle aged and older person is not always traceable to heart trouble. Emphysema also is a common cause. This disorder is recognized externally by stooped shoulders and a barrel-shaped chest; and internally, by overstretched and dilated air sacs resulting from loss of tissue elasticity.

Emphysema, a chronic disorder, has never received much publicity. It produces symptoms ranging from coughing and wheezing to marked shortness of breath on the slightest exertion. The trouble lies in the air sacs and the tiny bronchi which become overstretched for a variety of reasons. Repeated inflammation is a frequent culprit. The air sacs become distended when mucus obstructs the opening, and the individual is forced to cough hard to dislodge the secretions. Internal pressure during expiration is what does the damage. In time, the thin walls of the lobules become overstretched, lose their elasticity, and rupture so that three or four come together to make a larger sac. Chief among the offenders are whooping cough, bronchitis, and asthma. The condition also is said to prevail among players of wind instruments, glass blowers, and those whose occupations require straining or heavy lifting. In such instances there is a tendency to create more than the usual amount of pressure within the lungs.

While this is going on inside, external changes also take place. The ribs have a tendency to spread apart and the chest becomes thicker and thicker so that the diameter from front to back approaches that from side to side (barrel shape). The shoulders droop forward, making the sufferer look hunchbacked. Once lung elasticity is lost the individual has trouble eliminating air from the chest, which means that expiration is difficult. Furthermore, the air is saturated with carbon dioxide, causing shortness of breath because of lack of oxygen. Moreover, chemical changes resulting from overabundance of carbon dioxide are encountered. But that is not all. The victim cannot expel mucus easily and, as a result, an ordinary attack of bronchitis or a cold becomes a major problem.

In the past, little could be offered to emphysema victims. They went about wheezing and coughing, and many became so short of breath on exertion as to be unable to work. Some went to Arizona where the air is dry and respiratory infections are less frequent. Cough medicines were used, especially those containing potassium iodide which kept the bronchial secretions loose. The more modern remedies include the wonder drugs to combat infections and a variety of newer aerosol products that tend to open up the bronchioles. When allergy co-exists the antihistaminic products are recommended; in some patients, ACTH or cortisone is indicated.

More recently, breathing exercises have come to the fore in an attempt to make better use of the diaphragm in expelling stagnant air. One of the most unusual plans is the injection of air into the abdominal cavity to force up the diaphragm, which tends to reduce shortness of breath and increase tolerance to exercise.

A. S. writes: My sister is always worrying over trivial matters and is a nervous wreck. She has lots of fears also. I recommended that she see a psychiatrist but she thinks only insane people see these doctors. Will you please tell us if this is true?

REPLY

No. Only a small percentage of persons seen by psychiatrists are insane. The remainder are bothered by anxieties and frustrations. The psychiatrist has special training in ways and means to help these individuals adjust to their problems.

THICK SKULLED

M. W. writes: I've often heard of thick skulls and wonder if there is a great variation in this respect?

Yes. In exostosis frontalis, for example, the front part of the skull becomes thick. The skull also thickens in Paget's disease and the victim often becomes suspicious that something is wrong when he is forced to buy larger hats. The brain is not affected, however and in this respect the expression "thick skulled" has nothing to do with stubbornness or numbness.

Secretary Of Defense Wilson Persists In Concentrating Production; General Motor's Lavonia Fire Makes No Impression On Defense Chief

WASHINGTON — There's so much censorship in the Pentagon these days that no one dares speak out publicly against Secretary of Defense Wilson's policy of concentrated arms production, but Charlie is going ahead with concentration just the same. Nevertheless, the opposition is very real and in some cases very bitter.

Despite repeated warnings from the military that we can't afford to make key defense factories sitting ducks for an A-bomb attack, Charlie has proceeded to pile up important arms output in a few big factories, many of them General Motors plants.

Pentagon advisers at first thought they had Wilson stopped when the General Motors hydromatics plant burned up at Lavonia, Mich. This has cut auto production back for most General Motors cars, for exactly the same reason Pentagon advisers don't want to risk concentrating our defense production in only one or two plants.

The Lavonia fire has also cut back the independent auto companies, Studebaker, Kaiser-Frazier, etc., since they also bought their hydromatic shifts from GM. This curtailment will affect not only employment, but also the steel industry, since the motor companies are among the top customers of steel. Steel last week fell below 90 per cent and the auto cutback may later affect the economy of the entire nation.

This is why military men inside the Pentagon oppose the Charlie Wilson concentration policy as against the Truman policy of spreading production out among many smaller plants, even if it cost more.

Plan Was Predicted

On August 17, this column gave the first indication that the likable, persistent Charlie Wilson was going to push ahead with his concentrated production plan, even though it put him in the position of favoring his old company.

"What really raised eyebrows in industrial circles," this column reported August 17, "was the selection of plants to be closed down.

"For example, three big auto companies — Chrysler, Ford, and General Motors — are producing the Patton M-48 tank. Following Wilson's new policy, Ford was arbitrarily delared out of the running — by direct order of the Pentagon. This means that Ford won't even be given a chance to bid for the right to continue producing. "Likewise, Studebaker was ruled out of the bidding over the 2.5-ton truck, and was ordered to wind up its production by September. This will leave GM's truck and coach division to bid against Reo Motors, inc., for the truck contract.

"The Pentagon also ordered production stopped on the M-47 tank, which happens to be manufactured by Chrysler and American Locomotive. General Motors was not affected.

"On the other hand, the production of M-41 tanks will be continued full speed at GM's Cadillac plant in Cleveland. In addition, General Motors will take over the added production of antiaircraft guns, now manufactured by American Car and Foundry. The excuse is that many gun-carriage and M-41 parts are interchangeable."

Charlie Persists

One month later, September 12, and despite the Lavonia fire, Secretary Wilson's bullheaded determination to advance with this plan was officially announced to the press.

General Motors was given the Patton M-48 tank contract, and Chrysler was ordered to close down next April, even though it was Chrysler that developed the Patton tank in the first place. Chrysler, the Defense Department announced, was 12 per cent over General Motors in its bid.

General Motors and Reo were also awarded contracts for 2.5-ton trucks, with Studebaker left out.

NOTE—The fact that Congress forced Charlie Wilson to sell his GM stock last year has made him a fortune. At the time he sold, GM stock was selling for around $70. Now it's down to around $56. In other words, Charlie could quit his defense job tomorrow and buy back his GM stock for $15 less per share than he sold it.

If this bold step is finally approved by the President, Dulles and Strauss will give three estimates of Soviet stockpiling — a minimum, a median, and a maximum estimate. They will also give a sufficient indication of American atomic and hydrogen bomb production to provide the necessary standard of comparison.

There is still strong opposition to this course, in the Atomic Energy Commission (where Commissioner Eugene Zuckert is reportedly one who opposes it) and elsewhere. But the essential facts on stockpiling are likely to be made public in the end, for two reasons.

First, the American people would learn much, but the Soviets nothing, from revealing these facts. Second, unless they are revealed, "Operation Candor" becomes largely meaningless, like a production of "Hamlet" without the Prince of Denmark. For these reasons, it is believed in some quarters that the stockpiling estimates should be given at the very beginning, by the President, leaving Strauss and Dulles to fill in the details.

There will be a civil defense report by Civil Defense Director Val Peterson and his deputy, Mrs. Katherine Howard. And there will be a report on the balance between national solvency and national survival, by Secretary of the Treasury George Humphrey, and probably with his budget director, Joseph Dodge.

This will be a key report, since it should give a very clear indication of how much real national effort and sacrifice the administration intends to ask, as insurance against national devastation in air-atomic attacks. It is possible that Humphrey will propose a national tax, as one painful but necessary means of paying the bill for this insurance. Finally, the President is scheduled to sum up on the evening of Sunday, November 15, putting what has gone before into proper perspective.

This program is, of course, subject to change. The President might even conceivably change his mind, and cancel the whole project. Short of this, it might in the end be so watered down as to serve no useful purpose, or even turned into a political stunt. Certain absolutely vital high policy decisions, moreover, must be made if the program is to be really effective—and these have not yet been made. Yet as of now, this program for trusting the American people with the truth looks like a remarkably courageous and wholly admirable experiment in government.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

Worship In Spain

In 1492, the Jews were expelled from Spain. Many of them went to Holland; some found themselves on the ships that took Columbus to America. Colonies of them eventually appeared in Surinam, Pernambuco and other Central and South American colonies.

In 1654, a ship, the "St. Charles," sailed into New York harbor. On it were a number of Jewish families, mostly of Spanish and Portuguese origin, who were sailing to Holland but were blown into New York by a storm. They decided that it was God's will that they should settle in that city. Negotiating with Peter Stuyvesant, they were permitted to settle, to have a synagogue and a burial place of their own, provided that they would always take care of their own destitute. They have never broken that contract.

A year ago, Captain Joshua Goldberg, chief Jewish chaplain of the American military services, was in Spain. He found that a few Jews were in the capital, Madrid, and that they had improvised a synagogue, altogether inadequately equipped. Chaplain Goldberg preached in that synagogue in the uniform of an American naval officer. It was the first time in 461 years that an ordained rabbi had preached at a service in Madrid.

The Moroccan Jewish students before whom Chaplain Goldberg also preached, implored him to send a rabbi to Madrid. The president of the Jewish community there, who had been received by Franco, Daniel F. Baroukh, also expressed a desire for a rabbi.

This year, this was accomplished. On the Jewish holy days, Rosh Hashannah (New Year) and Yom Kippur (the Day of Atonement), for the first time since 1942, the Jewish community of Madrid has a Torah (a scroll of the law) beautifully garbed in silks, as is the Jewish custom, Hebrew prayer books, prayer shawls, skull caps—and a rabbi.

The rabbi, David A. Jessurun Cardozo, comes from an old Spanish family that had settled in Holland. He was educated in Amsterdam and London. He came to the United States and has held rabbinical posts in New York and Philadelphia. He preaches not only in English and Hebrew but also in Spanish, and is therefore eminently fitted for this post.

Thus the circle of history is closed. Jewish culture reached heights in Spain, prior to 1492, unequalled anywhere else in Europe. Maimonides, the greatest Jewish philosopher, Jehuda Halevy, the greatest Jewish poet, and Ibn Gabirol, whose poems have become part of the Jewish liturgy, were Spaniards.

Then came Ferdinand and Isabella, the wars with the Moors, and bad times. It is in bad times that persecutions often occur. In Spain, a monolithic nationalism produced a violent reaction against any people who were in any manner different from the norm of Spanish life and culture. After the Jews were expelled, Spain was closed to them for more than four centuries.

Yet it is a curious fact that during the Hitler persecution of the Jews, Franco opened Spain to Jewish refugees from the Nazi. Many found their way into that land that had so long rejected them. They were protected there from Nazi espionage. The Spanish and Portuguese asylums for Jews were particularly important during World War II when most of Western Europe was overrun by Hitler's armies.

In 1949, Franco granted Spanish nationality to several hundred Jews of Spanish origin who had been released from Nazi concentration camps. In 1945, he had granted the Jewish community of Madrid and Barcelona full rights of worship according to their tradition. In 1947, he had authorized the introduction of Jewish education in certain public schools which Jewish children attend.

This being the 300th anniversary of the settlement of the Jews in New York, I am informed that Temple Emanuel of New York, the largest Jewish congregation in the United States, has defrayed the costs of sending Rabbi Cardozo to Spain to reinstitute Jewish worship at Madrid for the high holy days this year.

Even to those who are not Jews, these events must spell a new day in Spain. It is particularly significant that the arrangements were made through a rabbi who is an officer of the United States Navy and that the rabbi sent to Spain comes from the United States. It is a symbol of a renewal of religious tolerance in a part of the world from which it has so long been absent.

Today In Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — Just about the time the Republicans are beginning to fall apart, the Democrats under the leadership of former President Truman come to their rescue and coalesce them.

The Democratic party's rally in Chicago is as good a piece of publicity for the Republicans as they could themselves have devised. It reminds the country that Mr. Truman is still the boss of the Democratic party and that the only platform the Democrats have is to restore Trumanism to the national government. No mistakes are acknowledged—everything is to be the same as it was under the New Deal and Fair Deal.

Trumanism was interpreted in the election of last November as meaning a pseudo-liberalism that got caught in a "Washington mess" —special privileges for the tax-fixer, failure to prosecute Communists inside the government, and a profligate spending program that threatened the solvency of the nation's finances.

Red Conspiracy Ignored

Since the election, the facts have come out that FBI information concerning a devious Communist conspiracy inside the government had been consistently ignored. Despite warning of Soviet spy rings by the FBI in 1945, the Truman administration for three years failed to act and then did so only when congressional committees forced the issue.

Last autumn's election was won by the Republicans because of a negative trend — a trend against the Truman administration on the issues of communism corruption and Korea. This negative trend will not stop in 1945 but will go on to 1956, as happened when the antagonism to the Hoover administration persisted through the '30's.

The Democrats used to remind the country about Hooverism on every occasion. The Republican tacticians are asleep at the switch and some of the Eisenhower aides are still angling for the applause of so-called "liberals." The latter voted for Stevenson last time and will vote Democratic next time. It is more important to hold the confidence of those who did vote for Eisenhower.

But notwithstanding the Republican failure to keep the country reminded of the errors of the Truman regime, such reminders are being stimulated by the Democratic rallies.

There are many persons who, like the writer, prefer the Democratic party to the Republican party based on history and party principle. But the present-day Democratic leadership ignores the traditional Democrats and wants to turn the party over to a group of labor-union radicals and so-called "liberals" who are coercionists at heart and would impose restrictions on the liberty of the individual which the true doctrine of the Democratic Party would never sanction.

Private Capitalism Weakened

There is a chance for leadership in America by a major political party which understands the basic and fundamental principles that have built up the industrial and agricultural and financial strength of this country. It wasn't built up by "giveaway" programs which robbed Peter to pay Paul or which sapped the vitality of the individual by prohibitive tax rates. Today the system of private capitalism has been weakened by the Democratic party. State socialism is the ultimate aim. Sometimes, as one reviews the aspirations of the "public ownership" advocates inside the Democratic party, the phrases of their speeches resemble the anti-capitalist propaganda of the Communists in Europe—where the state is extolled above everything else.

The Republican party is far from cohesive. It, too, is composed of some groups which have an affinity for giving away taxpayers' money and calling it "social welfare." The Democrats have a strong faction opposed to this, and so have the Republicans. They could some day unite in one party to oppose the confiscationists—those who, under the guise of the "public interest," would have an all-powerful government compete with or supplant private enterprises.

President Eisenhower has a chance to keep in his party many of the Democrats in the South and North who believe in true liberalism. Certainly the Democrats' Chicago rally doesn't show that the party leaders are doing anything to persuade traditional Democrats to revoke their 1952 support of the Republican ticket. The jargon at Chicago is merely reminiscent of the misdeeds of an administration that was repudiated at the polls.

Danger Of Soviet Air Attack Real To Troops Of Northeast Command

HARMON AIR FORCE BASE, Nfld., Sept. 17 (AP)—For the fighting men of three nations Soviet bombers bound for American target cities may be coming over the northern horizon an hour from now.

Gone are the days of polite pretense and diplomatic double-talk about a mythical enemy, "an unfriendly foreign power" or a "potential aggressor."

The name is Russia. And for the airmen and ground soldiers and Navy men who are manning and building bases of the Northeastern Command defense system the danger is real and imminent.

The primary elements of the Northeastern Defense Command are seven main bases (with other smaller supporting installations) spotted along the leagues of wasteland of arctic and subarctic North America and Greenland.

Three of the bases are here in Newfoundland, built under the provisions of the 99-year lease granted in the destroyer-base trade with the British commonwealth early in World War II—Ft. Pepperell (the headquarters), McAndrew and Harmon.

Harmon Air Base is an example of the massive expansion of the network of northeast bases.

Since 1950, about 100 million dollars has been appropriated to virtually rebuild the old World War II facilities, including runways, housing, port facilities and other installations. About 3,000 workmen are busy here now.

Man Without Country Is Barred From Italy

MARSEILLE, France, Sept. 16 (AP)—Michael Patrick O'Brien, the seaborne man without a country, was kept locked in a cabin aboard the liner Bretagne today while French police puzzled over what to do with him.

Italy refused to let him land when the French vessel touched at Genoa yesterday. That made a total of eight countries that have barred him. He spent nearly a year on the Hong Kong-Macau ferry, rejected at both China Sea terminals until he was given transit through Hong Kong by the British authorities on the promise to keep going.

A sponsor offered to set him up in Brazil and he went there—by air across Asia and Europe and in the Bretagne across the Atlantic.

Brazil changed its mind and wouldn't let him land ... same story at Buenos Aires and Montevideo ... back across the Atlantic for the claimant to U. S. citizen ship, whose claim has been rejected.

Slowdown In Czech 5-Year Plan Approved

VIENNA, Austria, Sept. 16 (AP)—Communist-governed Czechoslovakia's Parliament today approved a slowdown in the government's much-vaunted five year industrial plan.

The action followed a sweeping reorganization of the Czechoslovak Cabinet yesterday. Western diplomats in Vienna said the Prague government appeared to be taking far-reaching steps to improve the daily lot of the country's restless people.

The Prague radio, in a broadcast heard here, quoted Red Premier Vilem Siroky as telling Parliament late last night "The living standard of the working population must be improved."

The Premier indicated a lack of food is the major problem facing his country. He revealed that Czech farms are producing less today than in 1938, while hundreds of thousands more workers now are living in the cities and "consumption has doubled."

Chiang Trims U. N. Debt

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., Sept. 16 (AP)—Nationalist China, in arrears on her share of the U. N. annual budget, has come in with a payment of $1,811,500, practically wiping out her 1951 debt.

She still owes $2,392,487 for 1952, however, and $2,431,447 for this year.

DENVER, Sept. 16 (AP)—President Eisenhower today signed the formal ratification of a treaty of friendship, commerce and navigation between the United States and Japan.

Air Force ROTC Meets Problem

WASHINGTON, Sept. 16 (AP)—Most Air Force ROTC members graduating from college next June will have to serve two years as enlisted men before they can get commissions, unless they have signed up for flight training, Assistant Secretary of Defense Hannah said today.

He announced the plans as the long-sought solution for the problem of an oversupply of college seniors in the reserve officer training program. The situation was created by budget cutbacks and lowered personnel ceilings.

Hannah confirmed the previously indicated decision that all ROTC members who have signed for flight training will get their commissions with their diplomas.

But for the rest—with "not too many" exceptions—he said the choice will be two years in the ranks or taking their chances with the draft. After the two years, Hannah said the non-fliers will get reserve commissions.

The exceptions are for men with special skills as engineering. Pentagon officials had estimated the number of such men at about 1,000. There are between 13,000 and 14,000 seniors now in the air ROTC and under manpower ceiling revisions the service expects to have a little less than 9,600 active officer vacancies.

The Oatis Story

Oatis Finds Red Twists To Rules Are Trap

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Here is another in a series of articles by William N. Oatis, Associated Press correspondent, who is telling what happened to him in Czechoslovakia. He returned to this country last May after two years imprisonment by the Communists.)

By WILLIAM N. OATIS
(Copyright 1953
By The Associated Press)

A slim man with pouched eyes —a man who always reminded me of a lizard—leaned across a desk and said, "This is the best prison in Europe."

He belonged to the Communist secret police of Czechoslovakia. They had arrested me six day before on suspicion that I, the Associated press correspondent in Prague, was also a spy.

They had questioned me at the police station day after day until finally, weary from 24 hours of steady grilling, I had balked. Then they had brought me here, handcuffed and blindfolded in the back of a car.

Now, with the blindfold off, I found myself in a sparely furnished office in the dim light of dawn—the dawn of Sunday, April 29, 1951. Through the window I saw a courtyard and, beyond, a new building going up.

"How many steps are there on the way up here? the man asked.

"Ninety."

"You're still a spy," he said, smiling.

Sign Here

I smiled back. It was supposed to be a joke.

The men from the police station went on interrogating me all that day. We all staved off hunger with fat slabs of bacon sent from downstairs.

Many questions concerned an incident of a few weeks earlier: an Indian diplomat had heard that apartments in his neighborhood of Prague were being taken over for army officers. I asked Lt. Col. George L. Atwood, American military attache, if he had heard this, too. He said he had, and more. And he gave me a list of supposed military sites in and around the city.

The police already had my signature on a statement to the effect that, in thus picking up "military information," I had committed espionage. Now they wrote another statement for me to sign.

This would have had me admit that I gave military information to Atwood and in so doing committed espionage. I refused to sign it.

"I want to go to bed," I said.

"Just rewrite this for us the way you want it, and then you can go to bed," said the lizard-faced man.

Sleep At Last

I rewrote it. They brought it back to me, rewritten again, and asked me to sign it.

I had been up 42 hours, and I was desperate for sleep. So I signed.

Then I was blindfolded and taken downstairs, and when I took the blindfold off I was in a cell.

I had some smelly blankets and a straw mat. I made a bed on the floor, tied my handkerchief across my eyes to keep out the electric light and went to sleep. I was awakened only once — to get a number: 2091.

The next day, the men from headquarters questioned me morning and afternoon in the upstairs office, I had vegetarian noon and evening meals in my cell.

After supper I was taken back upstairs. This time all my old acquaintances were gone except a pudgy little curlyhaired interpreter.

A Rewrite Job

Seated at a desk was a new man. He was a rangy, brown-haired young man with a sardonic look—squinty yellow eyes, high cheekbones, hollow cheeks and a narrow mouth with the corners turned down.

He might have passed for a small-town roughneck, but he was in the red-trimmed olive-drab uniform of a police lieutenant. He was taking over my interrogation. In that prison, every inmate has a "referent," who questions him and prepares him for trial. This referent sat bolt upright, looking serious. The interpreter translated:

"Make no mistake. Your American citizenship will not help you here."

That was how I met Lt. Josef Ledl (I learned his name later, from his signature on a paper.) Early next morning, he called me from my cell and began putting my testimony in writing.

The document was called protocol. From time to time, I was presented with finished pages and asked to write on each, "I have read this. I have approved it. I have signed it. William Nathan Otis."

I did so readily as long as the protocol kept near the facts.

Then the referent and interpreter began to rewrite my account.

Out In 10 Weeks?

"This is not right," I said one day, pointing to an inaccuracy.

"What difference does it make?" The referent showed exasperation.

Such arguments became more and more frequent. Gradually it became apparent he wanted not the facts as I knew them, but as he would have liked them to be.

Meanwhile, I was trying to find out what was likely to happen to me. Four people now were at work on by interrogation—the referent and three interpreters in turns. One interpreter, a young woman, asked me, "How would you like to go home on the Fourth of July?"

Another, a dapper little man named Vilda, said, "You won't be here 10 weeks."

"I don't believe you," I told him.

A Letter Home

He insisted he knew what he was talking about.

The referent said a foreigner could be punished with "a sentence, or expulsion."

I knew that my wife in St. Paul, Minn., must be worried about me. I asked the lieutenant to let me write her. He put me off.

One night Vilda suggested I try again. The referent asked me what I wanted to say in the letter. I told him, and he left the room.

Pretty soon he came back with something written in Czech. The interpreter put it in English and handed it to me. The referent had written my letter for me.

It was fantastic. It made me say that I had been "caught in espionage," that I had told all and that I wanted to live "a clean, new life."

"Keep your hopes high," it wound up, "and trust in the justice of the Czechoslovak people, who are working for peace."

The Captain Takes Over

I said, "When my wife reads this, she'll think I've gone crazy."

But Vilda reminded me, "Your wife is clever—she'll understand."

The referent insisted the letter would go out that way or not at all. So I copied it in my own handwriting, and he sent it.

This was the first statement I signed that was quite out of character and patently phony. Once they had got me to sign that one, it was easier for them.

That talk about high hopes and a clean, new life was encouraging. So was Vilda. He said, "Don't worry about a trial."

A few nights later, about a month after my arrest, a police staff captain sat down at the desk and I sat down in my chair facing him. He smiled and began to talk, smoothly and courteously.

He Exploded

He asked me what connection The AP had with the United States government. I said it had none. "Oh, Mr. Oatis," he said, dubiously.

My referent, standing by, must have felt he had muffed the case, since his commander, the captain, had had to intervene. He now exploded.

He twitched, frowned and screeched at me something interpreted as "You dirty bastard!"

He accused me of backtracking on testimony.

In due course the captain asked me about a card found in my effects. It was an off-duty pass from the Military Intelligence Service Japanese language school at Ft. Snelling, Minn.

I had been there briefly in 1944 enroute to a year's study at a similar school at the University of Michigan. At Michigan, I continued training in Japanese that I had begun in the Army Specialized Training Program at the University of Minnesota.

Though Military Intelligence ran the Michigan school, I was never in that branch. At the school I was a corporal on the detached enlisted men's list. And I never got into it, for after I finished the course I was discharged from the Army.

Sign Again

But the commander told me to write about the school and the men I had known there, and put me back in my cell with a typewriter and cigarettes. I wrote several pages, sent them to him and went to bed.

The next night's questioning brought out that Col. Atwood had been in the language school while I was there but that we had not met there.

Some 24 hours later, the commander laid a long document before me and said, "Sign this and you don't need to worry."

The first part was a garbled version of my account about the language school. The second part was something new. It introduced Atwood as an old fellow student. It had me saying that he was a spy and that I gave him information because "I knew he was interested in espionage reports of all kinds."

It was so weird I smiled. I thought, "This looks as if it were all aimed at Atwood. If I sign it, they'll expel him — but maybe they'll expel me, too, without a trial."

I signed that statement — and hooked myself properly. Because, as I saw with chagrin later, they were not trying to get Atwood out of the country; they were trying to keep me in prison.

Resistance Lowered

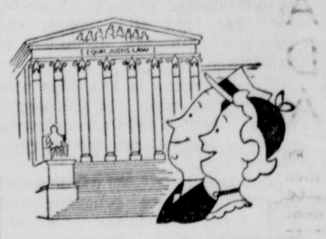

By now, I had signed so many papers that it had become a habit. I went on signing them almost automatically, seldom questioning even the wildest departures from fact.

I had come to the conclusion that many prisoners — I daresay most prisoners—come to in that place: You are in the hands of the secret police. You will never get away from them until you give them what they want.

The Oatis Story

Oatis Finds Red Twists To Rules Are Trap

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Here is another in a series of articles by William N. Oatis, Associated Press correspondent, who is telling what happened to him in Czechoslovakia. He returned to this country last May after two years imprisonment by the Communists.)

By WILLIAM N. OATIS
(Copyright 1953
By The Associated Press)

A slim man with pouched eyes —a man who always reminded me of a lizard—leaned across a desk and said, "This is the best prison in Europe."

He belonged to the Communist secret police of Czechoslovakia. They had arrested me six day before on suspicion that I, the Associated press correspondent in Prague, was also a spy.

They had questioned me at the police station day after day until finally, weary from 24 hours of steady grilling, I had balked. Then they had brought me here, handcuffed and blindfolded in the back of a car.

Now, with the blindfold off, I found myself in a sparely furnished office in the dim light of dawn—the dawn of Sunday, April 29, 1951. Through the window I saw a courtyard and, beyond, a new building going up.

"How many steps are there on the way up here? the man asked.

"Ninety."

"You're still a spy," he said, smiling.

Sign Here

I smiled back. It was supposed to be a joke.

The men from the police station went on interrogating me all that day. We all staved off hunger with fat slabs of bacon sent from downstairs.

Many questions concerned an incident of a few weeks earlier: an Indian diplomat had heard that apartments in his neighborhood of Prague were being taken over for army officers. I asked Lt. Col. George L. Atwood, American military attache, if he had heard this, too. He said he had, and more. And he gave me a list of supposed military sites in and around the city.

The police already had my signature on a statement to the effect that, in thus picking up "military information," I had committed espionage. Now they wrote another statement for me to sign.

This would have had me admit that I gave military information to Atwood and in so doing committed espionage. I refused to sign it.

"I want to go to bed," I said.

"Just rewrite this for us the way you want it, and then you can go to bed," said the lizard-faced man.

Sleep At Last

I rewrote it. They brought it back to me, rewritten again, and asked me to sign it.

I had been up 42 hours, and I was desperate for sleep. So I signed.

Then I was blindfolded and taken downstairs, and when I took the blindfold off I was in a cell.

I had some smelly blankets and a straw mat. I made a bed on the floor, tied my handkerchief across my eyes to keep out the electric light and went to sleep. I was awakened only once — to get a number: 2091.

The next day, the men from headquarters questioned me morning and afternoon in the upstairs office. I had vegetarian noon and evening meals in my cell.

After supper I was taken back upstairs. This time all my old acquaintances were gone except a pudgy little curlyhaired interpreter.

A Rewrite Job

Seated at a desk was a new man. He was a rangy, brown-haired young man with a sardonic look—squinty yellow eyes, high cheekbones, hollow cheeks and a narrow mouth with the corners turned down.

He might have passed for a small-town roughneck, but he was in the red-trimmed olive-drab uniform of a police lieutenant. He was taking over my interrogation. In that prison, every inmate has a "referent," who questions him and prepares him for trial. This referent sat bolt upright, looking serious. The interpreter translated:

That was how I met Lt. Josef Ledl (I learned his name later, from his signature on a paper.) Early next morning, he called me from my cell and began putting my testimony in writing.

The document was called protocol. From time to time, I was presented with finished pages and asked to write on each, "I have read this. I have approved it. I have signed it. William Nathan Otis."

I did so readily as long as the protocol kept near the facts.

Then the referent and interpreter began to rewrite my account.

Out In 10 Weeks?

"This is not right," I said one day, pointing to an inaccuracy.

"What difference does it make?" The referent showed exasperation.

Such arguments became more and more frequent. Gradually it became apparent he wanted not the facts as I knew them, but as he would have liked them to be.

Meanwhile, I was trying to find out what was likely to happen to me. Four people now were at work on by interrogation—the referent and three interpreters in turns. One interpreter, a young woman, asked me, "How would you like to go home on the Fourth of July?"

Another, a dapper little man named Vilda, said, "You won't be here 10 weeks."

"I don't believe you," I told him.

A Letter Home

He insisted he knew what he was talking about.

The referent said a foreigner could be punished with "a sentence, or expulsion."

I knew that my wife in St. Paul, Minn., must be worried about me. I asked the lieutenant to let me write her. He put me off.

One night Vilda suggested I try again. The referent asked me what I wanted to say in the letter. I told him, and he left the room.

Pretty soon he came back with something written in Czech. The interpreter put it in English and handed it to me. The referent had written my letter for me.

It was fantastic. It made me say that I had been "caught in espionage," that I had told all and that I wanted to live "a clean, new life."

"Keep your hopes high," it wound up, "and trust in the justice of the Czechoslovak people, who are working for peace."

The Captain Takes Over

I said, "When my wife reads this, she'll think I've gone crazy."

But Vilda reminded me, "Your wife is clever—she'll understand."

The referent insisted the letter would go out that way or not at all. So I copied it in my own handwriting, and he sent it.

This was the first statement I signed that was quite out of character and patently phony. Once they had got me to sign that one, it was easier for them.

That talk about high hopes and a clean, new life was encouraging. So was Vilda. He said, "Don't worry about a trial."

A few nights later, about a month after my arrest, a police staff captain sat down at the desk and I sat down in my chair facing him. He smiled and began to talk, smoothly and courteously.

He Exploded

He asked me what connection The AP had with the United States government. I said it had none. "Oh, Mr. Oatis," he said, dubiously.

My referent, standing by, must have felt he had muffed the case, since his commander, the captain, had had to intervene. He now exploded.

He twitched, frowned and screeched at me something interpreted as "You dirty bastard!"

He accused me of backtracking on testimony.

In due course the captain asked me about a card found in my effects. It was an off-duty pass from the Military Intelligence Service Japanese language school at Ft. Snelling, Minn.

I had been there briefly in 1944 enroute to a year's study at a similar school at the University of Michigan. At Michigan, I continued training in Japanese that I had begun in the Army Specialized Training Program at the University of Minnesota.

Though Military Intelligence ran the Michigan school, I was never in that branch. At the school I was a corporal on the detached enlisted men's list. And I never got into it, for after I finished the course I was discharged from the Army.

Sign Again

But the commander told me to write about the school and the men I had known there, and put me back in my cell with a typewriter and cigarettes. I wrote several pages, sent them to him and went to bed.

The next night's questioning brought out that Col. Atwood had been in the language school while I was there but that we had not met there.

Some 24 hours later, the commander laid a long document before me and said, "Sign this and you don't need to worry."

The first part was a garbled version of my account about the language school. The second part was something new. It introduced Atwood as an old fellow student. It had me saying that he was a spy and that I gave him information because "I knew he was interested in espionage reports of all kinds."

It was so weird I smiled. I thought, "This looks as if it were all aimed at Atwood. If I sign it, they'll expel him — but maybe they'll expel me, too, without a trial."

I signed that statement —, and hooked myself properly. Because, as I saw with chagrin later, they were not trying to get Atwood out of the country; they were trying to keep me in prison.

Resistance Lowered

By now, I had signed so many papers that it had become a habit. I went on signing them almost automatically, seldom questioning even the wildest departures from fact.

I had come to the conclusion that many prisoners — I daresay most prisoners—come to in that place: You are in the hands of the secret police. You will never get away from them until you give them what they want.

Pupils Given Applications For Insurance

Applications for accident insurance for pupils in Allegany County public schools are being distributed this week, according to Arthur G. Ramey, supervisor of transportation and physical education.

Ramey pointed out the cost of the premium this year is $1.25, a quarter higher than last year when the policies were inaugurated.

While this is only a boost of 25 cents, the benefit limits increase from $1,000 per accident to $2,000 per accident.

The policy provides coverage for the student on his way to and from school, during classes, at school activities held after hours, and athletics with the exception of football.

The insurance is available also to teachers, principals and secretaries. Not eligible are cafeteria workers, janitors and bus drivers, Ramey said.

Last year over 6,000 participated in the insurance program and Ramey said all claims were paid without question, with the exception of one, that for eye glasses broken in an accident.

There were a number of claims amounting to over $100 in hospital and medical bills, the supervisor reported. The total amount of claims ranged over $6,000, he added.

The new policy becomes effective October 1. Those not meeting the deadline will have their policies made effective on the date of payment of the premium.

$10,000 Damage Suit Filed In Court Here

A Hyndman resident has filed a $10,000 damage suit today in Allegany County Circuit Court as a result of being hit by a "substance" from a passing freight train.

The action was taken by William Franklin May against the Western Maryland Railway through the plaintiff's attorney, Earl E. Manges.

According to the suit, May stated he was walking on a Ridgeley street near the railroad on July 17 when a freight train from Baltimore entered the town.

A substance thrown from one of the freight cars struck him in the back and head, May declared, causing severe contusions and lacerations.

May claims he has suffered severe headaches since July 17 and declares he is permanently injured.

Leasure Honored At Amcelle Plant

Blaine C. Leasure, 504 North Centre Street has completed 25 years of service at Amcelle. As a remembrance of the Company's recognition of loyal service, he was presented a gold wrist watch by the plant manager. Within the Spinning Department, this anniversary was also marked by the superintendent, who awarded Leasure the traditional gold 5-star Celanese long-service emblem and certificate.

Leasure is a chargehand in the Spinning Department.

Born in Bedford County, Pennsylvania, he came to Cumberland in 1928 to work at Amcelle. He is married. Hunting is his primary hobby.

Once my will had faded away in that fashion, the referent had plain sailing. He rewrote all my protocols from the beginning, introducing changes.

Finally I was ushered into an office of the prison where a fidgety woman interpreter sat with a baldheaded, crosseyed man in shirtsleeves and a bow tie.

"I am Judge Novak, the chairman of the Senate of the State Court in Prague," he told me. "Your behavior here has been good. If you behave well before the court also, you don't need to worry."

How often had I heard that line!

The Indictment

The judge read what he said was the indictment. Nowhere was there any mention of the paragraphs of the law under which I was indicted. I stood accused formally of espionage for the U. S. government. Words that the referent had put into my mouth, by putting them into my protocol, were used to show that I had sent news stories on the arrests of former Foreign Minister Vlado Clementis and Otto Sling, deposed Brno Communist leader, with intent to advise "the American espionage net" which of its strongpoints in Czechoslovakia had fallen, so that it could regroup.

Judge Novak said a lawyer had been assigned me.

"The function of a lawyer," he said, "is not to help the defendant escape sentence. It is to help him get a lighter sentence."

(This seemed to mean that I stood convicted even before I went to trial. And it was the presiding judge that was giving me the news.)

Four days later, I met a rabbity, poker-faced man whom his interpreter introduced as "your lawyer, Dr. Bartos."

Dr. Bartos told me, "I think you have a good chance to go home this year." He advised me to testify according to the protocol and said his defense would be that I did not go into espionage deliberately but "just fell into it."

That week the referent had me in his office almost daily, and we rehearsed the protocol: He asked the questions and I gave the answers more or less as written. At length, I got it down pat.

And on Monday, July 2, three of my employes and I went on trial before Judge Novak's court at Pankrac Prison.

Net Income Of B & O Shows Drop In August

BALTIMORE, Sept. 16 (AP) — The Baltimore and Ohio Railroad reported today net income of about 2¾ million dollars in August, a drop of about $120,000 from its net in August of 1952.

President H. E. Simpson said operating revenues last month were two million more than in August 1952, but that substantial increases in maintenance of way and equipment expenses resulted in the lower net income.

For the first eight months of 1953, net income was 18½ million, an increase of more than four million over the same period of 1952.

ANN LOUISE DICK
Route 6, Bowling Green

On The Line
by Bob Considine

NEW YORK, (INS)—What do you do when the kids say, as gently as they can, "Don't bother to take us to school, pop," and you know that it's not your aching back they're thinking of but their own hunger for independence?

"But you're going into new grades and I want to meet the teachers."

"Can't you arrange to meet them someplace else? If you come to the school to met them you'll want to see the class-rooms, and if you see the class-rooms you'll want to talk to the other kids . . . and . . .

"And what?"

". . . And they'll think we're sissies and have to have a parent hanging around to tell us where to sit and when to wipe our nose."

"I see," you lie, and make a note to ask Bill Hearst what his saintly Grandmother Phoebe did about this problem, after forming the Parent-Teachers Association. Beats me.

According to the book, the parent and the teacher are the closest of partners in the rearing of a child. They have nice cozy meetings shaping the malleable flesh allotted to them, and few are closer than quarter past three in the book. But in my experience it has not worked out quite that way.

With some exceptions, of course, most of the teachers I've encountered in my role of parent gave me the feeling that they were grateful that they had to put up with us only during the first day of school, the Christmas pageant, and commencement exercises. And as for the moppets involved, the ones I know most intimately would be grief-stricken only temporarily if the entire school system, plus the parents and teachers who are supposed to breathe life into it, were the targets for the first H-bomb.

Now that the Yankees and the Dodgers have won their pennants, making possible the first 15-cent subway series in history, let's all put our shoulder to the wheel, our nose to the grindstone, our best foot forward, our mind at work, and our heart into the job of bringing big league baseball to Manhattan.

Why should Los Angeles and San Francisco be so steamed up over demanding big league baseball? What about Manhattan? We're older and closer. We have a ready-made baseball field named, if memory serves, the Polo Grounds. Indeed one or two of the members of the present minor league group that functions there might conceivably be good enough to make the big league team that should be brought there.

What has Brooklyn and the Bronx got that Manhattan hasn't, except big league teams? Anyhow?

The queen of the Atlantic run, the S. S. United States, traveled 146,959 nautical miles in her first year of service, crossed 46 times, carried 70,514, and never once had to slow down her machinery for repairs.

A great record. But the man who handled her in her first and greatest voyage, Capt. Harry Manning, a legendary hero of the Atlantic in peace and war, was passed over for admiral in the Navy's reserve ranks, and never received a word of official congratulations when he brought the speed record back to America after a century.

Half-forgotten facts: Gen. Nate Twining, Air Force chief, spent a week on a rubber raft in the Pacific early in the war. The search for him and other men in a downed B-17 was about to be discontinued when he was spotted—by a plane carrying his brother!

How often had I heard that line!

The Indictment

The judge read what he said was the indictment. Nowhere was there any mention of the paragraphs of the law under which I was indicted. I stood accused formally of espionage for the U. S. government. Words that the referent had put into my mouth, by putting them into my protocol, were used to show that I had sent news stories on the arrests of former Foreign Minister Vlado Clementis and Otto Sling, deposed Brno Communist leader, with intent to advise "the American espionage net" which of its strongpoints in Czechoslovakia had fallen, so that it could regroup.

Judge Novak said a lawyer had been assigned me.

"The function of a lawyer," he said, "is not to help the defendant escape sentence. It is to help him get a lighter sentence."

(This seemed to mean that I stood convicted even before I went to trial. And it was the presiding judge that was giving me the news.)

Four days later, I met a rabbity, poker-faced man whom his interpreter introduced as "your lawyer, Dr. Bartos."

Dr. Bartos told me, "I think you have a good chance to go home this year." He advised me to testify according to the protocol and said his defense would be that I did not go into espionage deliberately but "just fell into it."

That week the referent had me in his office almost daily, and we rehearsed the protocol: He asked the questions and I gave the answers more or less as written. At length, I got it down pat.

And on Monday, July 2, three of my employes and I went on trial before Judge Novak's court at Pankrac Prison.

Net Income Of B & O Shows Drop In August

BALTIMORE, Sept. 16 (AP) — The Baltimore and Ohio Railroad reported today net income of about 2¾ million dollars in August, a drop of about $120,000 from its net in August of 1952.

President H. E. Simpson said operating revenues last month were two million more than in August 1952, but that substantial increases in maintenance of way and equipment expenses resulted in the lower net income.

For the first eight months of 1953, net income was 18½ million, an increase of more than four million over the same period of 1952.

On The Line

by Bob Considine

NEW YORK, (INS)—What do you do when the kids say, as gently as they can, "Don't bother to take us to school, pop," and you know that it's not your aching back they're thinking of but their own hunger for independence?

"But you're going into new grades and I want to meet the teachers."

"Can't you arrange to meet them someplace else? If you come to the school to met them you'll want to see the class-rooms, and if you see the class-rooms you'll want to talk to the other kids . . . and . . .

"And what?"

"I see," you lie, and make a note to ask Bill Hearst what his saintly Grandmother Phoebe did about this problem, after forming the Parent-Teachers Association. Beats me.

According to the book, the parent and the teacher are the closest of partners in the rearing of a child. They have nice cozy meetings shaping the malleable flesh allotted to them, and few are closer than quarter past three in the book. But in my experience it has not worked out quite that way.

With some exceptions, of course, most of the teachers I've encountered in my role of parent gave me the feeling that they were grateful that they had to put up with us only during the first day of school, the Christmas pageant, and commencement exercises. And as for the moppets involved, the ones I know most intimately would be grief-stricken only temporarily if the entire school system, plus the parents and teachers who are supposed to breathe life into it, were the targets for the first H-bomb.

Now that the Yankees and the Dodgers have won their pennants, making possible the first 15-cent subway series in history, let's all put our shoulder to the wheel, our nose to the grindstone, our best foot forward, our mind at work, and our heart into the job of bringing big league baseball to Manhattan.

Why should Los Angeles and San Francisco be so steamed up over demanding big league baseball? What about Manhattan? We're older and closer. We have a ready-made baseball field named, if memory serves, the Polo Grounds. Indeed one or two of the members of the present minor league group that functions there might conceivably be good enough to make the big league team that should be brought there.

What has Brooklyn and the Bronx got that Manhattan hasn't, except big league teams? Anyhow?

The queen of the Atlantic run, the S. S. United States, traveled 146,959 nautical miles in her first year of service, crossed 46 times, carried 70,514, and never once had to slow down her machinery for repairs.

A great record. But the man who handled her in her first and greatest voyage, Capt. Harry Manning, a legendary hero of the Atlantic in peace and war, was passed over for admiral in the Navy's reserve ranks, and never received a word of official congratulations when he brought the speed record back to America after a century.

Half-forgotten facts: Gen. Nate Twining, Air Force chief, spent a week on a rubber raft in the Pacific early in the war. The search for him and other men in a downed B-17 was about to be discontinued when he was spotted—by a plane carrying his brother!

200 Baltimore Co. Children Receive Gamma Globulin

LUTHERVILLE, Md., Sept. 16 (AP)—Baltimore county health authorities disclosed today almost 200 school children under 12 years of age have received gamma globulin inoculations during the current polio outbreak.

Dr. William H. F. Worthen, county health officer, said the majority of the children came from the nearby community of Providence, where two youngsters, a brother and sister, died of the disease.

Dr. Worthen said the children had been screened at their schools and those eligible through contact with someone who had contracted polio were taken to the Health Department office in Towson where the staff remained on duty Saturday and Sunday to give the injections.

Under new regulations, children of 12 or under as well as expectant mothers, are eligible to receive the polio preventive shots if they can prove contact with a polio victim.

Meanwhile, another new polio case was reported in the area. Dr. Warthen said a 16-year-old Cockeysville girl who attends the Maryvale-Trinity Preparatory School was taken ill yesterday and her case was diagnosed as non-paralytic polio. She was admitted to Baltimore City Hospitals.

Officials of the school advised the health officer no students under the eligible age had been in contact with the girl. However, all parents of children there are being notified of the situation.

Maynard W. Webster, principal of the Lutherville Elementary School, meanwhile, had the approval of both parents and the county superintendent of schools for his action in sending parents a warning note on polio.

The notice, in an official school bulletin, was sent home with children after Susan Yates, 6-year-old first grader in the school, died Saturday of polio.

Her brother, 14-year-old David Yates, died Monday of the same disease. He was a freshman at Towson High School.

On learning of the bulletin advising parents to contact their doctors to see if their children should receive gamma globulin, Edward G. Stapleton, superintendent of schools, issued a formal retraction of the notice.

Parents rushed to Webster's defense. They rejected arguments of health officers that the principal's advisory notice had caused unnecessary panic in the community.

After an investigation, Stapleton agreed today that Webster had acted wisely.

Fairchild To Set Up Subsidiary In Holland

WASHINGTON, Sept. 16 (AP)—Fairchild Engine and Airplane Corp., Hagerstown, Md., said today it will set up a subsidiary, Fairchild Aviation N. V., in Amsterdam, Holland.

The subsidiary will seek Air Force contracts for service and maintenance of Fairchild C119 flying boxcars, and for production of parts for C119s.

Fairchild a year ago contracted with the Dutch aircraft firm of Fokker to handle production and sales in this country of a Fokker airliner. Similarly, the Fairchild subsidiary in Holland will use Fokker as a subcontractor for any C119 parts ordered by the Air Force in Europe, a spokesman said.

George A. Hatcher, Fairchild's customer relations director, has gone to Amsterdam to do preliminary work on the new company. He will be followed soon by Arthur F. Flood, executive vice president, and Paul S. Cleaveland, Fairchild secretary.

Two Girls Injured In Leap From Car

LANDOVER, Md., Sept. 16 (AP)—Two 15-year-old Washington girls were injured, one seriously, when they jumped from a moving automobile last night.

They said they leaped after two men in the car refused to take them home. Gertrude Espey was in a critical condition with a skull fracture and cuts and bruises. Margaret Pinkard was cut and bruised.

Police said the girls told them they had gone to the Hyattsville area to visit a relative of one, and when they found the relative was not home attempted to hitchhike back to Washington.

Other projects and low bidders included:

Navy Fighter Crashes Into Chesapeake Bay

PATUXENT, Md., Sept. 16 (AP)—A Navy fighter being flown by a civilian test pilot crashed into Chesapeake Bay late today, and there was little hope the pilot survived.

An officer at the Naval Air Station here, who withheld name of the pilot pending a further search and notification of next of kin, said word received from crash boats sent to the scene indicated the flier was missing. He was said to be a representative of the Douglas Aircraft Co.

The spokesman said the plane, a one-seater AD5 Skyraider, spiralled out of control from 7,000 feet and crashed into the Bay five miles east of Point No Point Lighthouse. There was no indication of what caused the crash, he said.

Reformatory Riots Blamed On "Gross Overcrowding"

HAGERSTOWN, Sept. 16 (AP)—"Gross overcrowding" was responsible for a series of three riots at the State Reformatory for Males over the weekend, Assistant Superintendent of Prisons James W. Curran said today.

Curran said state police reinforcements assigned to the institution after the outbreaks were withdrawn and that except for "some tension," the reformatory was back on normal schedule.

Curran denied that the three outbreaks were riots. There were no assaults, he said, and estimates of damage running into the thousands were wrong.

"One hundred dollars would cover the property loss," he said.

Ringleaders will be charged with no more than malicious destruction of property when the cases are referred to the Washington County state's attorney for grand jury action, Curran said.

He added that the only casualties were two inmates, one of whom suffered a skinned knuckle and the other a glass cut on his arm.

Cops Got Right Man

BALTIMORE, Sept. 16 (AP)—Two Baltimore policemen investigating a fatal stabbing stopped Willie S. Gainey in a doorway to see if the bulge under his shirt could be a weapon.

Willie sighed, unbuttoned his shirt and told them:

Fly Reported Spreading Oak Wilt In Pennsylvania

Proof that the so-called "sour" fly is responsible for spreading oak wilt has been found in nearby Bedford County.

The finding is of interest because oak wilt has also been found in Allegany and Garrett counties of Maryland.

Dr. Thomas L. Guyton, director of the Bureau of Plant Industry of the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture, said the new evidence is the first ever uncovered.

Near Manns Choice

The "sour" fly, scientifically known as Diptera, is now added to a type of shiny black beetle—Nitidulids—as a carrier of oak wilt which destroys huge hardwood trees in a matter of weeks.

"It's the same pesky fly that creeps through window screening and swarms over ripe or decaying fruit in your home," said Dr. Gulton in explaining the new find.

Dr. Guyton, together with other experts of the State Agriculture and Forests and Waters Departments, headed a task force seeking to wipe out the oak wilt disease. The 1953 Legislature appropriated $125,000 for such research.

The "sour" fly discovery was made in tests on stands of wilt-infected oak trees near Manns Choice.

Dr. Guyton said this is how the evidence was obtained:

Explains Test Method

Some 200 healthy oak trees — within 300 yards of one infected with the fungus-caused oak wilt disease — were bruised, usually by drilling a hole through the bark. This was done last September and again this spring.

Eight trees showed oak wilt infection prior to Aug. 1. From a time-table of operations it was determined that the disease spreads most rapidly between April and June.

Some of the wounds in the exposed healthy trees then were closed off by cheesecloth wrappings.

Find 'Sour' Fly

After a week or two the wrappings were removed and insect larvae found in the wounds. An examination showed that not only the Nitidulids beetle, previously known as a carrier, was represented but also the Diptera "sour" fly.

"The study confirmed findings in West Virginia and Iowa as to beetles carrying the disease," Dr. Guyton said, "but the 'sour' fly discovery is the first announced in this country."

The only known treatment for oak wilt is complete eradication by cutting down the tree and drying out the lumber. In 164 spots where oak wilt was found in Pennsylvania only six recurrences were found because of this practice, Dr. Guyton said.

Ike, Laniel Talks May Spur Plans For Europe Army

WASHINGTON, Sept. 16 (AP) — President Eisenhower's bid for a conference with French Premier Joseph Laniel was viewed in diplomatic quarters today as aimed chiefly at pumping new life into the stalling program for a West European defense army.

The Summer White House at Denver, in announcing the meeting, said only that it would be "a general exchange of views on matters of common interest" sometime this fall.

The Eisenhower-Laniel meeting will mark the second time the President has conferred with a French premier since assuming office last January. He met with former Premier Rene Mayer last March just before the French Assembly topped Mayer's government.

Diplomatic officials said today this second top French-American conference will devote its major attention to plans for speeding French approval of the long-projected six-nation European army.

Problems related to the French-Communist war in Indochina also will be discussed, they said, but President Eisenhower and Secretary of State Dulles are reported concerned mainly at this time with pushing ahead with North Atlantic defense plans.

By the time Laniel arrives, accompanied by Foreign Minister Georges Bidault, officials believe the plan to virtually double American military aid to France for Indochina will have been nailed down. The U. S. National Security Council approved such a step-up last week and executive agencies are now reported busy following up the recommendation.

The exact date of Laniel's visit is uncertain. One informed diplomat said he believed that President Eisenhower's crowded schedule and Laniel's commitments may delay the meeting until late October.

Laniel already has made plans to visit Turkey, and in addition he must be on hand for upcoming French Assembly debates on domestic and foreign policy problems.

Persons familiar with arrangements for the Laniel visit emphasized the meeting is in no way designed to put heat on the Laniel government to push the European army treaty through a reluctant French Assembly.

Rather, they pictured the Eisenhower-Laniel conference as a general review concentrating mainly on European defense which conceivably could add to the French leader's prestige and thus facilitate approval of the European Army arrangement by the French Parliament.

The European army treaty, which links France, West Germany, Italy, Belgium, The Netherlands, and Luxembourg, was signed 18 months ago, but West Germany is the only country which has completed ratification steps.

NOEL MEETS OATIS — Two Associated Press men, Frank Noel, left, and William N. Oatis met in New York yesterday for the first time. Noel reached New York at the end of his journey which began last month with release from 32 months in a North Korean Red prison camp. Oatis was released in May after two years in a Czech prison.

Pentagon Alters Education Clause

WASHINGTON, Sept. 16 (AP)—The Defense Department has decided to modify a clause which led some universities and colleges to reject on grounds of academic freedom proferred contracts to take part in an armed forces educational program.

John A. Hannah, asst. secretary of defense, told a news conference today that the department is so advising the educational institutions.

It was disclosed last month that at least 14 universities and colleges had balked at signing contracts with the United States Armed Forces Institute.

Partly through contracts with universities, the institute offers correspondence courses to men and women in the military services.

Kay Williams' Lawyer Charges Quiz "Orgy"

COSTA MESA, Calif., Sept. 16 (AP) —Pretty Kay Williams sniffed ammonia today while the prosecution charged she was being subjected to an "orgy" of cross-examination at the preliminary hearing of her ex-husband on assault charges.

After a week of testimony the hearing for Adolph Spreckels II, wealthy scion of the sugar family, was recessed last Friday when Miss Williams, formerly his fifth wife, became faint. The hearing resumed today. Spreckels is accused of beating her with her own jeweled slipper at his Balboa Bay home Aug. 20.

Dep. Dist. Atty. J. Parley Smith described the cross-examination as an "orgy" and said Miss Williams' doctor had informed him that her appearances on the witness stand should be limited to 30 minutes.

AL Committee Approves Shift For Browns

Ft. Hill Grid Queen Will Be Picked Friday

Sentinels To Host Parsons Eleven; AHS To Meet Patterson

Fort Hill will crown the 1953 football queen at ceremonies Friday night when the Sentinels host Parsons High's Panthers of Tucker County, W. Va., in the local stadium. Game time will be 8 p. m.

Miss Sara Clapp, last year's queen will place the crown on the new girl's head at halftime, officials said last night. The queen's selection will not be revealed until Friday.

Seek Second Win

Coach Bill Hahn's defending champions will be seeking their second straight triumph against Robert Sullivan's Panthers. The Sentinels will wear white jerseys and the Panthers purple, trimmed in gold.

Bill Steppe, end, and Bill Murphy, tackle, are co-captains for Fort Hill's squad, Hahn announced last night.

Fort Hill won its opening engagement against LaSalle last week, downing the Explorers 7-0 in a hard-fought game. Parsons dropped its opening tilt to Shinnston, 27-7 and will be seeking its first victory.

Fullback Delton Mullenax is captain of the Panthers eleven.

Hahn said last night Russ Poling, senior halfback, will not see action Friday because of injuries. However, Wayne Couter, all-city end last year who has been out of action for three weeks will return to the lineup at tackle, Hahn continued.

Fort Hill's band will sport new uniforms at halftime activities and season's tickets for all Fort Hill games are now on sale at Truitt's Drug Store, Wilson Hardware and at the school.

Saturday Roy Lester's Allegany Campers open the new grid season by opposing Baltimore city champions, Patterson Park, in a stadium game at 8 p. m.

Wear White Jerseys

Lester said yesterday his only casualty is John Kylus, defensive tackle, who will not play because of injuries.

Patterson Park, undefeated in eight games last season, are gunning for their fourth consecutive Maryland Scholastic Association title this year. Coach Irv Biasi's aggregation has won 56 games, lost one and tied two in the eight he has been at the helm.

Other Tilts Listed

It will be the opening game for both clubs.

In other Friday engagements LaSalle will be at Petersburg, Circleville at Ridgeley and Thomas at Moorefield in Potomac Valley Conference tilts; Romney at Charles Town, Franklin at Hot Springs, Va., Bedford at Somerset, Beall at Keyser, Bel Air at Frederick in a night contest and Eastern High of Washington will be at Hagerstown also under the arcs.

Saturday Potomac State opens its collegiate slate by entertaining West Liberty at Keyser. Game time will be 2 p. m.

COUNTY LEAGUE CHAMPIONS — Potomac Valley's Cubs are the 1953 County Softball League champions, finishing the league season with 15 straight triumphs to cop the bunting and then sweeping four straight to capture the playoffs. Hayden Phillips, ace right-hander, paced the Cubs with 27 victories and only two losses on the mound. In front are the club mascots Darlene Lease and Billy Lovett. Kneeling (left to right) are Hayden Phillips, Glenn Hanna, Lloyd Lease, Charles Cardwell, Dick McKenzie and Donnie Lease. Standing are Lewis Wilson, Pete Cecil, Ed Cecil, Phil Lucas, Gib Lease, Carl Frankenberry, Bee Scarpelli and Manager James Allan.

Site For Move Of Franchise Not Selected

Approval Of Owners Needed To Change Impoverished Club

CHICAGO, Sept. 16 (AP)—A shift of the impoverished St. Louis Browns to another city, apparently Baltimore, today was approved by an American League screening committee.

The four-man committee after a three-hour huddle with President Bill Veeck and other Brownie officials said it would ask the full league to permit the Browns' franchise to be switched to a city "to be later determined."

Just before the session, a wealthy Baltimore attorney and a Brownie director issued a statement saying that if the American loop approves removal of the Browns from St. Louis to Baltimore, there would be "substantial" Baltimore capital represented in the Browns' ownership.

Last spring, the league rejected, 5 to 2, Veeck's request to shift to Baltimore at that time.

Another committee meeting, at which a new site probably will be proposed, will be held shortly before the World Series and unquestionably, the league then will act quickly on the matter.

Veeck didn't beam as much as might be expected following the announcement by the committee composed of Charles Comiskey of the White Sox, W. O. (Spike) Briggs of the Tigers, and two substitute members, Will Harridge, league president, and Arthur Friedlund, secretary of the Yankees.

Harridge and Friedlund sat in for Tom Yawkey of the Red Sox and Dan Topping of the Yankees, who were said to be unable to attend.

Philip Geatz, LaSalle End, Voted Lineman Of The Week

Junior Was Standout In Opening Contest

PHILIP GEATZ

To Philip Geatz, LaSalle's junior end, goes the honor of being selected as the first "Lineman of the Week" in the football awards contest being sponsored by Cumberland Council, Knights of Columbus, for the sixth year.

The Explorers 185-pound wingman played an outstanding role in last Friday's opener in which Coach Norman Geatz's aggregation held Fort Hill's Sentinels to a 7-0 score.

LaSalle completed four of eight passes and Geatz caught three of them for a gain of 28 yards.

After Fort Hill had scored a touchdown, the Sentinels seemed to be rolling for another but Geatz made a key tackle on Stanley Teets, halting the Hilltoppers' bid for a first down. They had to gamble on a pass the next play (third down) needing two yards for a first but the aerial was incomplete and Fort Hill had to kick on first down. LaSalle held the ball the rest of the first half.

Phil did some noteworthy blocking in front of several of Bobby Christ's and Harold Hudson's runs in addition to his fine defensive play.

Other players given consideration in the "Lineman of the Week" voting were Tackle Ed Cookerly and Guard Dale Hillegas, of Fort Hill, Guard Richard "Rickey" Harris and Center Archie Lennox of LaSalle.

Geatz will receive a miniature gold football and he becomes a candidate for the K. of C. "Player of the Year" award.

Westland, Coe, Ward Defeated In Amateur Golf

Palmer Leads Field Into Quarter Finals

OKLAHOMA CITY, Sept. 16 (AP)—Defending champion Jack Westland, Harvie Ward and Charley Coe fell today in a double elimination of golfing giants and a 23-year-old unheralded Coast Guardsman, Arnold Palmer, emerged as the gangbuster of the 53rd National Amateur tournament.

Palmer, a former Wake Forest athlete from Wickliffe, Ohio, and son of a Pennsylvania pro, eliminated Westland, the golfing congressman one up, in a morning third round match and then took the measure of a second Walker Cup Star, Ken Venturi of San Francisco, in the afternoon, 2 and 1.

Ward, the young Atlanta broker who won the British amateur championship last year, conquered Coe, Oklahoma City's 1949 U. S. titlist, on the 23rd hole of a magnificent third round match. Then he bowed to Bob Kuntz, a Larchmont, N. Y., businessman and former Yale University player, one up.

Two more rounds tomorrow will cut the list of 16 to four, who will play 36-hole semi-finals Friday with the championship round Saturday.

Heading the list of top-line favorites still on the firing line were Sam Urzetta of Rochester, N. Y., 1950 champion; Bill Campbell, the gangling onetime state legislator from Huntington, W. Va., Gene Littler of La Jolla, Calif., all Walker Cup members, and the 32-year-old Western amateur champion, Dale Morey of Indianapolis.

Campbell shot a 69, two under par, to turn back Jim McHale of Mamaroneck, N. Y., a former professional and Walker Cup player, in the fourth round, one up. Four up at one stage, he lost three straight holes— the 13th through the 15th—before he settled down to hold the towering McHale in check.

Other results:

Harry Easterly Jr., Richmond, Va., defeated Richard Norton, Memphis, Tenn., 4 and 3.

John Morgan, Streetly, England, defeated Harry Easterly Jr., Richmond, Va., 3 and 2.

Tuscano hit a homerun and double and Bowman a circuit clout for the losers while Abucevich and Shaffer each had two hits for Wellersburg.

The finals of the Pen Mar loop will get underway Sunday at 2:30 p. m. with Keyser Ridge hosting the Wellersburg aggregation. The score:

Sheetz Bests Phillips In Duel; Hercules Advances To Finals

Old Reliable Allan Sheetz bested Hayden Phillips in a thrilling duel last night as the FO Eagles edged Potomac Valley's Cubs, 3-2, to advance to the finals of the second annual Western Maryland Softball Tournament at Penn Avenue.

In the opener of the twin bill under the arcs Hercules Powder Kegs were returned easy victors over Parker's, 13 to 3 as Ken Carder chalked up an eight-hitter.

Eagles Bunch Hits

In the clash between the County League champions and the Rocking Chair League victors, Sheetz had a no-hitter working until the sixth when Glenn Hanna singled to break the spell. A sacrifice and Don Lease's single scored the first Cub run, then a walk to Lloyd Lease and Fradiska's bad throw to first accounted for the second tally.

The Eagles bunched two of their three hits off Phillips with two Cubs errors and a sacrifice to score all three runs in the second.

Sheetz opened the frame getting aboard safely on Cecil's miscue. After Jack Kauffman sacrificed George Rice beat out an infield bingle. Chet Collins was safe when McKenzie errored as Sheetz scored. Chug Aman's two-run single to center brought home the winning tallies.

Following Aman's game-winning blow Phillips set down 13 men in a row to close out the game without permitting another Eagle to get to base. However he slammed the door shut too late.

Sheetz passed only one enemy batsman and struck out seven. Phillips had 11 whiffs and walked one.

Urbas Hits For Circuit

In the Hercules-Parker's tilt the Kegs scored in every inning but two, collecting 10 hits off three Parker's hurlers. A big six-run fourth was the damaging inning.

Frank Urbas paced the victors with two homeruns and a double in five trips while Schoenadel had a single and double and Carder had two singles. B. Smith collected two two-baggers for the losers.

The finals between the Hercules and Eagles clubs will be held at 7 p.m. at Penn Avenue field. The scores:

AL Committee Approves Shift For Browns

Ft. Hill Grid Queen Will Be Picked Friday

Sentinels To Host Parsons Eleven; AHS To Meet Patterson

Fort Hill will crown the 1953 football queen at ceremonies Friday night when the Sentinels host Parsons High's Panthers of Tucker County, W. Va., in the local stadium. Game time will be 8 p. m.

Miss Sara Clapp, last year's queen will place the crown on the new girl's head at halftime, officials said last night. The queen's selection will not be revealed until Friday.

Seek Second Win

Coach Bill Hahn's defending champions will be seeking their second straight triumph against Robert Sullivan's Panthers. The Sentinels will wear white jerseys and the Panthers purple, trimmed in gold.

Bill Steppe, end, and Bill Murphy, tackle, are co-captains for Fort Hill's squad, Hahn announced last night.

Fort Hill won its opening engagement against LaSalle last week, downing the Explorers 7-0 in a hard-fought game. Parsons dropped its opening tilt to Shinnston, 27-7 and will be seeking its first victory.

Fullback Delton Mullenax is captain of the Panthers eleven.

Hahn said last night Russ Poling, senior halfback, will not see action Friday because of injuries. However, Wayne Couter, all-city end last year who has been out of action for three weeks will return to the lineup at tackle, Hahn continued.

Fort Hill's band will sport new uniforms at halftime activities and season's tickets for all Fort Hill games are now on sale at Truitt's Drug Store, Wilson Hardware and at the school.

Saturday Roy Lester's Allegany Campers open the new grid season by opposing Baltimore city champions, Patterson Park, in a stadium game at 8 p. m.

Wear White Jerseys

Lester said yesterday his only casualty is John Kylus, defensive tackle, who will not play because of injuries.

Patterson Park, undefeated in eight games last season, are gunning for their fourth consecutive Maryland Scholastic Association title this year. Coach Irv Biasi's aggregation has won 56 games, lost one and tied two in the eight he has been at the helm.

Other Tilts Listed

It will be the opening game for both clubs.

In other Friday engagements LaSalle will be at Petersburg, Circleville at Ridgeley and Thomas at Moorefield in Potomac Valley Conference tilts; Romney at Charles Town, Franklin at Hot Springs, Va., Bedford at Somerset, Beall at Keyser, Bel Air at Frederick in a night contest and Eastern High of Washington will be at Hagerstown also under the arcs.

Saturday Potomac State opens its collegiate slate by entertaining West Liberty at Keyser. Game time will be 2 p. m.

COUNTY LEAGUE CHAMPIONS — Potomac Valley's Cubs are the 1953 County Softball League champions, finishing the league season with 15 straight triumphs to cop the bunting and then sweeping four straight to capture the playoffs. Hayden Phillips, ace right-hander, paced the Cubs with 27 victories and only two losses on the mound. In front are the club mascots Darlene Lease and Billy Lovett. Kneeling (left to right) are Hayden Phillips, Glenn Hanna, Lloyd Lease, Charles Cardwell, Dick McKenzie and Donnie Lease. Standing are Lewis Wilson, Pete Cecil, Ed Cecil, Phil Lucas, Gib Lease, Carl Frankenberry, Bee Scarpelli and Manager James Allan.

Site For Move Of Franchise Not Selected

Approval Of Owners Needed To Change Impoverished Club

CHICAGO, Sept. 16 (AP)—A shift of the impoverished St. Louis Browns to another city, apparently Baltimore, today was approved by an American League screening committee.

The four-man committee after a three-hour huddle with President Bill Veeck and other Brownie officials said it would ask the full league to permit the Browns' franchise to be switched to a city "to be later determined."

Just before the session, a wealthy Baltimore attorney and a Brownie director issued a statement saying that if the American loop approves removal of the Browns from St. Louis to Baltimore, there would be "substantial" Baltimore capital represented in the Browns' ownership.

Last spring, the league rejected, 5 to 2, Veeck's request to shift to Baltimore at that time.

Another committee meeting, at which a new site probably will be proposed, will be held shortly before the World Series and unquestionably, the league then will act quickly on the matter.

Veeck didn't beam as much as might be expected following the announcement by the committee composed of Charles Comiskey of the White Sox, W. O. (Spike) Briggs of the Tigers, and two substitute members, Will Harridge, league president, and Arthur Friedlund, secretary of the Yankees.

Harridge and Friedlund sat in for Tom Yawkey of the Red Sox and Dan Topping of the Yankees, who were said to be unable to attend.

Philip Geatz, LaSalle End, Voted Lineman Of The Week

PHILIP GEATZ

To Philip Geatz, LaSalle's junior end, goes the honor of being selected as the first "Lineman of the Week" in the football awards contest being sponsored by Cumberland Council, Knights of Columbus, for the sixth year.

The Explorers 185-pound wingman played an outstanding role in last Friday's opener in which Coach Norman Geatz's aggregation held Fort Hill's Sentinels to a 7-0 score.

LaSalle completed four of eight passes and Geatz caught three of them for a gain of 28 yards.

After Fort Hill had scored a touchdown, the Sentinels seemed to be rolling for another but Geatz made a key tackle on Stanley Teets, halting the Hilltoppers' bid for a first down. They had to gamble on a pass the next play (third down) needing two yards for a first but the aerial was incomplete and Fort Hill had to kick on first down. LaSalle held the ball the rest of the first half.

Phil did some noteworthy blocking in front of several of Bobby Christ's and Harold Hudson's runs in addition to his fine defensive play.

Other players given consideration in the "Lineman of the Week" voting were Tackle Ed Cookerly and Guard Dale Hillegas, of Fort Hill, Guard Richard "Rickey" Harris and Center Archie Lennox of LaSalle.

Geatz will receive a miniature gold football and he becomes a candidate for the K. of C. "Player of the Year" award.

Westland, Coe, Ward Defeated In Amateur Golf

Palmer Leads Field Into Quarter Finals

OKLAHOMA CITY, Sept. 16 (AP)—Defending champion Jack Westland, Harvie Ward and Charley Coe fell today in a double elimination of golfing giants and a 23-year-old unheralded Coast Guardsman, Arnold Palmer, emerged as the gangbuster of the 53rd National Amateur tournament.

Palmer, a former Wake Forest athlete from Wickliffe, Ohio, and son of a Pennsylvania pro, eliminated Westland, the golfing congressman one up, in a morning third round match and then took the measure of a second Walker Cup Star, Ken Venturi of San Francisco, in the afternoon, 2 and 1.

Ward, the young Atlanta broker who won the British amateur championship last year, conquered Coe, Oklahoma City's 1949 U. S. titlist, on the 23rd hole of a magnificent third round match. Then he bowed to Bob Kuntz, a Larchmont, N. Y., businessman and former Yale University player, one up.

Two more rounds tomorrow will cut the list of 16 to four, who will play 36-hole semi-finals Friday with the championship round Saturday.

Heading the list of top-line favorites still on the firing line were Sam Urzetta of Rochester, N. Y., 1950 champion; Bill Campbell, the gangling onetime state legislator from Huntington, W. Va., Gene Littler of La Jolla, Calif., all Walker Cup members, and the 32-year-old Western amateur champion, Dale Morey of Indianapolis.

Campbell shot a 69, two under par, to turn back Jim McHale of Mamaroneck, N. Y., a former professional and Walker Cup player, in the fourth round, one up. Four up at one stage, he lost three straight holes— the 13th through the 15th—before he settled down to hold the towering McHale in check.

Other results:

Harry Easterly Jr., Richmond, Va., defeated Richard Norton, Memphis, Tenn., 4 and 3.

John Morgan, Streetly, England, defeated Harry Easterly Jr., Richmond, Va., 3 and 2.

Tuscano hit a homerun and double and Bowman a circuit clout for the losers while Abucevich and Shaffer each had two hits for Wellersburg.

The finals of the Pen Mar loop will get underway Sunday at 2:30 p. m. with Keyser Ridge hosting the Wellersburg aggregation. The score:

Sheetz Bests Phillips In Duel; Hercules Advances To Finals

Old Reliable Allan Sheetz bested Hayden Phillips in a thrilling duel last night as the FO Eagles edged Potomac Valley's Cubs, 3-2, to advance to the finals of the second annual Western Maryland Softball Tournament at Penn Avenue.

In the opener of the twin bill under the arcs Hercules Powder Kegs were returned easy victors over Parker's, 13 to 3 as Ken Carder chalked up an eight-hitter.

Eagles Bunch Hits

In the clash between the County League champions and the Rocking Chair League victors, Sheetz had a no-hitter working until the sixth when Glenn Hanna singled to break the spell. A sacrifice and Don Lease's single scored the first Cub run, then a walk to Lloyd Lease and Fradiska's bad throw to first accounted for the second tally.

The Eagles bunched two of their three hits off Phillips with two Cubs errors and a sacrifice to score all three runs in the second.

Sheetz opened the frame getting aboard safely on Cecil's miscue. After Jack Kauffman sacrificed George Rice beat out an infield bingle. Chet Collins was safe when McKenzie errored as Sheetz scored. Chug Aman's two-run single to center brought home the winning tallies.

Following Aman's game-winning blow Phillips set down 13 men in a row to close out the game without permitting another Eagle to get to base. However he slammed the door shut too late.

Sheetz passed only one enemy batsman and struck out seven. Phillips had 11 whiffs and walked one.

Urbas Hits For Circuit

In the Hercules-Parker's tilt the Kegs scored in every inning but two, collecting 10 hits off three Parker's hurlers. A big six-run fourth was the damaging inning.

Frank Urbas paced the victors with two homeruns and a double in five trips while Schoenadel had a single and double and Carder had two singles. B. Smith collected two two-baggers for the losers.

The finals between the Hercules and Eagles clubs will be held at 7 p.m. at Penn Avenue field. The scores:

WORLD SERIES ODDITIES of yesterday by A.H. TARVIN

FROM OUT OF 'THE CLASSICS'

DURING the Detroit-Cards World Series of 1934, Hank Greenberg, Tiger first baseman, requested Baseball Commissioner K. M. Landis to postpone one of the games so he might observe a religious holiday. The judge declined.

WAITE HOYT, dazzling pitching star of the Yankees in the 1920s, had been his father's partner in a mortuary business in Brooklyn. Joe Quinn, who had second-based for Baltimore in a "classic" in the Gay Nineties, entered the same profession at St. Louis upon leaving the diamond.

IT WAS in the 1932 series that Babe Ruth "called his shot" by pointing his bat at the center field fence and then proceeded to hit a homer to that spot. The "Babe" had done the same thing in an exhibition game at Louisville some years before.

SUN GLASSES for infielders were not used until Eddie Mayo, Tiger shortstop, who "invented" the gadget, tried it out in the 1946 series, loaning them to the rival infielder of the Cubs.

CATCHER Cy Perkins never played in a world series, yet he collected a total of $15,000 in full player "splits" as an eligible in five of them—with the A's in 1929-30; the Yankees in 1932; Detroit in 1934 and with the A's again in 1935.

IN THE 1914 series, Josh Devore, Braves, collected his full share of $3,000 by striking out—the only time he went to bat.

* * *

WHEN ONE refers to Bill McKechnie as "Deacon," it is not really a nickname, it's a title. Bill was deacon and choir singer in his church at Wilkinsburg, Pa., and headed Cincinnati in the series of 1939 and 1940, and before preliminary practice in all those games led his players in a clubhouse hymn-sing.

Daily Bridge Lesson

by Shepard Barclay

FORSEE END POSITION

SOME of the prettiest plays executed by an able declarer are foreseen by him at the very outset of play. If the bidding and early tricks disclosed the location of certain key cards in the defenders' hands, he can sometimes see that a particular device is sure to ruin them. So he plans the exact position of the surviving cards toward the close of the action, then runs his established winners until that lineup is all that remains. Thereupon he executes the coup de grace.

	♠ A 10 3 2 ♥ A 9 8 5 ♦ 9 ♣ 9 5 4 2
♠ K Q J 9 5 ♥ K Q 7 3 ♦ A 4 ♣ 10 6	N W E S	♠ 8 6 4 ♥ J 6 4 2 ♦ J ♣ K Q 8 7 3
	♠ 7 ♥ 10 ♦ K Q 10 8 7 6 5 3 2 ♣ A J

(Dealer: West. North-South vulnerable.)

West	North	East	South
1 ♠	Pass	2 ♣	2 ♦
2 ♥	Pass	3 ♥	4 ♦
4 ♥	Pass	Pass	5 ♦
Pass	6 ♦	Pass	Pass

Dbl.

You can't blame North for raising the diamonds to slam with only one trump, since he had two aces, had passed every turn up to that stage and his partner had bid a vulnerable game all by himself, with three calls of the suit. Furthermore, he had consummate confidence in South's ability to get the best possible result in the play. He was not disappointed.

If West had led the 10 of his partner's clubs, the contract would have been doomed, as on gaining entry with the diamond A he could have repeated the suit to give East the setting trick. But he didn't like to put East's cards under the hammer. He refrained from leading his own high cards because he thought a trump lead could halt dummy ruffing. So he opened the diamond A and followed with the 4, which South won with the K.

Counting out his tricks, South saw he would have to squeeze for the final one. He decided to depend on West for the major suit honors and East for those in clubs, so planned to make a double Vienna coup, first scoring the two black aces, then running diamonds and discarding so as to retain for his final cards the heart 10, diamond 3 and club J and in dummy the spade 10 and heart A-9. When he led the diamond 3, West had to keep the spade K to guard against the 10, so discarded the heart Q, blanking the K. The spade was then shed from dummy. East now was squeezed. With the heart J-6 and club K, he had to keep the club to head off the J, so threw off the heart 6. The heart 10 to the A then felled the defenders' last hearts and the 9 took the last trick.

Tomorrow's Problem

	♠ J 10 5 ♥ A 2 ♦ A K J 9 8 7 ♣ K 3
♠ A K ♥ K 10 9 6 4 ♦ None ♣ Q J 9 8 7 4	N W E S	♠ Q 8 3 ♥ J 8 5 3 ♦ Q 10 6 4 2 ♣ 6
	♠ 9 7 6 4 2 ♥ Q 7 ♦ 5 3 ♣ A 10 5 2

(Dealer: North. Neither side vulnerable.)

How should South play for 4-Spades, following normal bidding, if West scores the trump A and K, then leads the club Q?

Attendance Mark Is Neared Against Bucs

MILWAUKEE, Sept. 16 (AP)-Eddie Mathews lined a fast ball over the rightfield fence with Johnny Logan aboard for his 46th home run of the season today as the Milwaukee Braves clouted Pittsburgh, 7-3, in the shortest game of the National League season at County Stadium.

Mathews' belt in the first inning traveled some 400 feet. He drilled a single off Dick Smith's glove in the fifth to drive in another run and raise his total to 131, a new club record wiping out Wally Berger's 1935 figure.

Danny O'Connell, Pittsburgh third baseman, ran his consecutive game hitting streak to 25 with a looping single in the fourth inning, equalling a club record set 30 years ago by Charlie Grimm, now Braves' manager.

The series' windup, played before 18,912 fans who just about assured the Braves of breaking the league attendance record, took only one hour 47 minutes. The paid attendance boosted the Braves' total for 62 home dates to 1,757,904 and left them needing under 50,000 in a pair of weekend engagements with Cincinnati to break Brooklyn's 1947 mark of 1,807,526.

Ingram Set Record

Navy Bill Ingram, who quarterbacked the Middies in 1916, '17 and '18, holds the all-time Naval Academy individual scoring record with 162 points in one season. During the 1917 campaign, Ingram recorded 18 touchdowns and was successful on 48 conversions as Navy won seven and lost one.

Grid Conference Split Leaves '53 Season In Doubt

Atlantic, Southern Loops Feeling Way

RICHMOND, Va., Sept. 16 (AP)—The old Southern Conference, once the largest intercollegiate athletic league in the nation, and the new Atlantic Coast Conference will spend the 1953 football season more or less feeling their way around.

The Southern, now composed of 10 schools after seven of its strongest powers withdrew to form the Atlantic Coast, is going ahead with operations even though two of its members may pull out to join the new circuit.

Without a doubt, West Virginia—one of the two anxiously waiting to be invited to join the Atlantic Coast—will have the strongest football team of those left behind. In fact, the Mountaineers might have been the No. 1 team even if the split hadn't come.

Virginia Tech, the other school keeping its ears open for an invitation, is rated second perhaps. The other Southern members are Furman, Washington and Lee, The Citadel, Virginia Military, Richmond, George Washington, William and Mary and Davidson—all regarded as comparative gridiron weaklings.

The stronger Atlantic Coast Conference won't be able to name a football champion since schedules were mostly completed before the split came last spring. Not a single one of the seven teams will play the required six conference games to determine a champion.

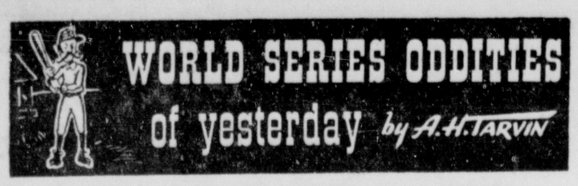

However, Maryland and Duke appear to stand head and shoulders above the others. The others are Wake Forest, South Carolina, Clemson, North Carolina and North Carolina State.

FROM OUT OF 'THE CLASSICS'

DURING the Detroit-Cards World Series of 1934, Hank Greenberg, Tiger first baseman, requested Baseball Commissioner K. M. Landis to postpone one of the games so he might observe a religious holiday. The judge declined.

WAITE HOYT, dazzling pitching star of the Yankees in the 1920s, had been his father's partner in a mortuary business in Brooklyn. Joe Quinn, who had second-based for Baltimore in a "classic" in the Gay Nineties, entered the same profession at St. Louis upon leaving the diamond.

IT WAS in the 1932 series that Babe Ruth "called his shot" by pointing his bat at the center field fence and then proceeded to hit a homer to that spot. The "Babe" had done the same thing in an exhibition game at Louisville some years before.

SUN GLASSES for infielders were not used until Eddie Mayo, Tiger shortstop, who "invented" the gadget, tried it out in the 1946 series, loaning them to the rival infielder of the Cubs.

CATCHER Cy Perkins never played in a world series, yet he collected a total of $15,000 in full player "splits" as an eligible in five of them—with the A's in 1929-30; the Yankees in 1932; Detroit in 1934 and with the A's again in 1935.

IN THE 1914 series, Josh Devore, Braves, collected his full share of $3,000 by striking out—the only time he went to bat.

* * *

WHEN ONE refers to Bill McKechnie as "Deacon," it is not really a nickname, it's a title. Bill was deacon and choir singer in his church at Wilkinsburg, Pa., and headed Cincinnati in the series of 1939 and 1940, and before preliminary practice in all those games led his players in a clubhouse hymn-sing.

FORSEE END POSITION

SOME of the prettiest plays executed by an able declarer are foreseen by him at the very outset of play. If the bidding and early tricks disclosed the location of certain key cards in the defenders' hands, he can sometimes see that a particular device is sure to ruin them. So he plans the exact position of the surviving cards toward the close of the action, then runs his established winners until that lineup is all that remains. Thereupon he executes the coup de grace.

	♠ A 10 3 2 ♥ A 9 8 5 ♦ 9 ♣ 9 5 4 2
♠ K Q J 9 5 ♥ K Q 7 3 ♦ A 4 ♣ 10 6	N W E S	♠ 8 6 4 ♥ J 6 4 2 ♦ J ♣ K Q 8 7 3
	♠ 7 ♥ 10 ♦ K Q 10 8 7 6 5 3 2 ♣ A J

(Dealer: West. North-South vulnerable.)

West	North	East	South
1 ♠	Pass	2 ♣	2 ♦
2 ♥	Pass	3 ♥	4 ♦
4 ♥	Pass	Pass	5 ♦
Pass	6 ♦	Pass	Pass
Dbl.

You can't blame North for raising the diamonds to slam with only one trump, since he had two aces, had passed every turn up to that stage and his partner had bid a vulnerable game all by himself, with three calls of the suit. Furthermore, he had consummate confidence in South's ability to get the best possible result in the play. He was not disappointed.

If West had led the 10 of his partner's clubs, the contract would have been doomed, as on gaining entry with the diamond A he could have repeated the suit to give East the setting trick. But he didn't like to put East's cards under the hammer. He refrained from leading his own high cards because he thought a trump lead could halt dummy ruffing. So he opened the diamond A and followed with the 4, which South won with the K.

Counting out his tricks, South saw he would have to squeeze for the final one. He decided to depend on West for the major suit honors and East for those in clubs, so planned to make a double Vienna coup, first scoring the two black aces, then running diamonds and discarding so as to retain for his final cards the heart 10, diamond 3 and club J and in dummy the spade 10 and heart A-9. When he led the diamond 3, West had to keep the spade K to guard against the 10, so discarded the heart Q, blanking the K. The spade was then shed from dummy. East now was squeezed. With the heart J-6 and club K, he had to keep the club to head off the J, so threw off the heart 6. The heart 10 to the A then felled the defenders' last hearts and the 9 took the last trick.

Tomorrow's Problem

	♠ J 10 5 ♥ A 2 ♦ A K J 9 8 7 ♣ K 3
♠ A K ♥ K 10 9 6 4 ♦ None ♣ Q J 9 8 7 4	N W E S	♠ Q 8 3 ♥ J 8 5 3 ♦ Q 10 6 4 2 ♣ 6
	♠ 9 7 6 4 2 ♥ Q 7 ♦ 5 3 ♣ A 10 5 2

(Dealer: North. Neither side vulnerable.)

How should South play for 4-Spades, following normal bidding, if West scores the trump A and K, then leads the club Q?

Attendance Mark Is Neared Against Bucs

MILWAUKEE, Sept. 16 (AP)—Eddie Mathews lined a fast ball over the rightfield fence with Johnny Logan aboard for his 46th home run of the season today as the Milwaukee Braves clouted Pittsburgh, 7-3, in the shortest game of the National League season at County Stadium.

Mathews' belt in the first inning traveled some 400 feet. He drilled a single off Dick Smith's glove in the fifth to drive in another run and raise his total to 131, a new club record wiping out Wally Berger's 1935 figure.

The series' windup, played before 18,912 fans who just about assured the Braves of breaking the league attendance record, took only one hour 47 minutes. The paid attendance boosted the Braves' total for 62 home dates to 1,757,904 and left them needing under 50,000 in a pair of weekend engagements with Cincinnati to break Brooklyn's 1947 mark of 1,807,526.

Along The Potomac

by Rep. DeWitt S. Hyde

WASHINGTON — A Washington columnist recently wrote that "laid-off federal career employes and others seeking government jobs are finding increasingly that political support is not only desirable—but almost essential." He added that "whether this represents a definite policy of the new administration or merely the misguided efforts of personnel officers over-eager to please their new Republican bosses is anybody's guess."

This is an amazing statement, since all the complaints reaching my office—and there have been a great many—are exactly the opposite. They say that because New Dealers are entrenched in personnel offices their friends are being retained and even promoted, while the economy ax is falling on Republican employes.

The columnist also wrote that under the Roosevelt administration "job seekers almost never were asked their politics. And the individual who sought political help toward a job rarely was welcome." Now, anyone who has been around Washington or tried to get a job during the past 20 years knows how ridiculous that statement is.

Every legitimate career employe of the government should receive all the consideration to which he is entitled under Civil Service Commission rules and federal laws. Indeed, I have had many complaints that these rights are being disregarded, but it is the so-called New Dealers who emerge triumphant in case after case of disputes over job rights with their Republican colleagues.

Perhaps the individual complaints reaching this Washington columnist are just as valid as those reaching me. Perhaps neither represent a general pattern. I suspect, however, that the general disturbance of career employes in 1953 is not nearly so great as it was when other new administrations came to power, as in 1933.

I have noticed that Washington columnists haven't taken up their cudgels in behalf of Republican government workers at all. A story half-told is unfair to them and to the public.

Post office changes in Montgomery County will be explained at a public meeting in Sherwood High School, Sandy Spring, on September 24, a week from this Thursday. The Post Office Department has proposed revising service in six communities in the county, including closing of the postoffices in three of them.

We are indebted to the Sherwood principal for arranging the use of a room for the meeting, and to federal postal authorities who have arranged to send their representative to explain the proposals and answer questions from the public. This kind of cooperation should take place wherever citizens may misunderstand government actions. It's the way to make a republic really work.

Beer Licenses Approved

The Allegany County Board of License Commissioners Tuesday approved two applications for beer licenses. They were from James Leo Meagher and Catherine Lillian Meagher for premises at Cresaptown, and William Belfoure at 47 North Centre Street.

by Rep. DeWitt S. Hyde

WASHINGTON — A Washington columnist recently wrote that "laid-off federal career employes and others seeking government jobs are finding increasingly that political support is not only desirable—but almost essential." He added that "whether this represents a definite policy of the new administration or merely the misguided efforts of personnel officers over-eager to please their new Republican bosses is anybody's guess."

This is an amazing statement, since all the complaints reaching my office—and there have been a great many—are exactly the opposite. They say that because New Dealers are entrenched in personnel offices their friends are being retained and even promoted, while the economy ax is falling on Republican employes.

The columnist also wrote that under the Roosevelt administration "job seekers almost never were asked their politics. And the individual who sought political help toward a job rarely was welcome." Now, anyone who has been around Washington or tried to get a job during the past 20 years knows how ridiculous that statement is.

Every legitimate career employe of the government should receive all the consideration to which he is entitled under Civil Service Commission rules and federal laws. Indeed, I have had many complaints that these rights are being disregarded, but it is the so-called New Dealers who emerge triumphant in case after case of disputes over job rights with their Republican colleagues.

Perhaps the individual complaints reaching this Washington columnist are just as valid as those reaching me. Perhaps neither represent a general pattern. I suspect, however, that the general disturbance of career employes in 1953 is not nearly so great as it was when other new administrations came to power, as in 1933.

I have noticed that Washington columnists haven't taken up their cudgels in behalf of Republican government workers at all. A story half-told is unfair to them and to the public.

Post office changes in Montgomery County will be explained at a public meeting in Sherwood High School, Sandy Spring, on September 24, a week from this Thursday. The Post Office Department has proposed revising service in six communities in the county, including closing of the postoffices in three of them.

We are indebted to the Sherwood principal for arranging the use of a room for the meeting, and to federal postal authorities who have arranged to send their representative to explain the proposals and answer questions from the public. This kind of cooperation should take place wherever citizens may misunderstand government actions. It's the way to make a republic really work.

Lane Is Principal Speaker For Young Democrats

William Preston Lane Jr. will be the principal speaker at the Biennial State Convention of the Young Democratic Clubs of Maryland.

Lane, former governor of the State of Maryland, will speak at the convention banquet in the main ballroom of the George Washington Hotel, Ocean City, Md., tomorrow at 8 p. m. This will be the first statewide speech at a political function since his governorship.

A leading political figure in Maryland politics, Lane has served the Democratic Party in many positions. He has been a delegate to six national conventions, a presidential elector at large in 1936, campaign state treasurer 1940, and chairman of the campaign committee in 1944. He served as Democratic National Committeeman from 1940 to 1950. He was attorney general of Maryland from 1930-35 and a member of the Maryland Tax Revision Commission in 1938. He was elected governor in 1946. During his term as governor, he was elected chairman of the Southern Governors' Conference 1947-48, chairman of the National Governors' Conference and president of the Council of State Governments for a term of five years.

WILLIAM PRESTON LANE

Lane has served as president of the Herald-Mail Company, publishers of two Hagerstown newspapers, since 1922. On February 13, 1953 he was elected president of the Chesapeake Association of the Associated Press.

Mayor Thomas D'Alesandro of Baltimore, avowed candidate for the party's gubernatorial nomination, Dr. H. C. Byrd, University of Maryland president who may also seek the nomination are also expected to speak at the conclave.

Harmony Fight

A delegation from the Allegany County Young Democrat Club will converge on Ocean City this weekend with a resolution urging harmony for the Democratic Party's next primary ballot.

The annual convention of the Young Democratic Clubs of Maryland, is sure to see a big floor battle on this harmony issue, according to James C. Morton Jr., president of the state organization.

The Allegany County club wants the party to unite and avoid another bitter primary battle that observers say cost the Democrats the last Gubernatorial election.

Four To Attend

Attending from the county organization will be William Kelley, president; William Walsh, Hugh McMullen and Anne Everline.

The convention starts Friday at 11 a. m. with registration of delegates in George Washington Hotel.

Clubs in at least two other counties are reported readying resolutions urging the party to settle on a single candidate in advance of the primary so full strength can be turned toward the general election.

Morton doubts, however, that the Young Democrats will be willing to go so far as naming who that candidate should be. He thinks the main debate will be over how the resolution should be worded and just how far it should go.

"If we have another knockdown, dragout primary, the Democrats will be handing the election to Gov. McKeldin again," Morton said.

"But too much in-the-lodge-huddling to select a single candidate could smack of the smoke filled room. There is a fine line of distinction between the two extremes. We will have to find it," he added.

Several hundred delegates and alternates from Young Democrat clubs throughout the state are expected for the sessions continuing through Sunday.

All Grant County School Buses Pass Safety Inspection By State Police

PETERSBURG, W. Va.—Every school bus that the county operates passed the pre-school State Police inspection on the first inspection, County School Superintendent A. Neil Frye reported after reviewing reports from the local police detachment.

In commenting that all 17 buses had passed the rigid inspection given by Cpl. D. E. Adam, Frye remarked that much of the credit was due the drivers and their bus mechanic, Berlin McDonald, who is foreman of the bus shed in Petersburg, where the buses are repaired and kept in first class running condition.

The pre-school inspection, one of three given the vehicles by the police, is only one of many inspections given the buses. Monthly inspections are given by the bus mechanic, assuring that all buses are in the best of condition at all times.

This year approximately 1,300 children are riding the buses to the many schools in the county. This total is well over 65 per cent of the pupils who attend Grant County schools. Sixteen buses are in operation daily bringing the children to school, with one bus held as a spare to replace or supplement any needed driver.

Approximately 50 pupils ride each bus on each trip. These buses haul children into the schools of Maysville, Forman, Mt. Storm, Bayard, Petersburg and Saunder 12-year school in Moorefield.

Eleven buses bring children into the schools of Petersburg, two operate into Bayard and others transport pupils into Mt. Storm, Forman, and Saunders schools. Driving these buses are 16 regular drivers and one substitute. They are Sherman Alt, Noah Brennan, Gordon Cook, Roland Cosner, Dayton Feaster, John Greenawalt, Oliver Hawk, John Keplinger, Leon Kitzmiller, Olin Marshall, Edward May, Albert Miller, Harry Porter Jr., William Reel, Jasper Riggleman, William Sherman, and Donald Feaster, substitute.

All of these drivers passed physical examinations, including blood tests. Also, written exams were given by the department of public safety. Knowledge of First Aid, normally is a requirement for all drivers, but this qualification was not fulfilled due to the absence of a qualified teacher to instruct the drivers.

Wolf Furniture to Celebrate 51st Year With Free Prizes

Prizes every day, free gifts with every purchase, and free souvenirs for everyone will be given by the Wolf Furniture Store in Cumberland, Md. during the company's 51st anniversary sale, as announced by Carroll Pollock, manager of the Cumberland store.

It was stressed that all a patron must do is register to be eligible for the prizes, and free souvenirs will be given without any obligation of the part of the customers. A Motorola television set has been selected as the grand prize.

From a humble beginning in Hollidaysburg by Adam Wolf more than 100 years ago, the Wolf organization has grown to today's position as the largest furniture group in the state of Pennsylvania.

There are now Wolf Furniture company stores in 12 Pennsylvania communities and in Cumberland. Thus, the vision of Charles E. Wolf, son of Adam Wolf and founder of the Wolf store in Altoona in 1902, has been carried through by his sons, George A. Wolf, president, and Herbert T. Wolf, general manager.

Wolf stores now are located in Altoona, Barnesboro, Bellefonte, Clearfield, Hollidaysburg, Huntingdon, Lewistown, Lock Haven, Nanty-Glo, Philipsburg, State College, Tyrone, Williamsport, Pa., and Cumberland.

Due to the buying power this gives the Wolf Furniture organization, special low prices are always a feature of every Wolf store. Plans for this year's celebration were begun last October and hundreds of the nation's top manufacturers of furniture, rugs, bedding and appliances have made many rare prices available during this anniversary sale.

A credit policy inaugurated by Charles E. Wolf, whereby he always considered the misfortune of his customers as his own, has been carried down through the past 51 years. This manner of doing credit business with understanding and faith in their fellow man had been a cornerstone of the foundation of the Wolf organization.

"Ain't this a wonderful idea?"

I mean bein' able to get a loaf a' bread — any time you feel like it — that's just like the kind of bread that we had when we was kids. Real honest bread — no fancy talk or ten letter ingredients — just good pure makin's that ended up as a loaf that everybody went for — soon as it was set on the table.

Well, now, I got news for you. You can have this here same loaf that I been talkin' about and you been thinkin' about. I say same because it's made from a receipt that's been part a' my family for quite a spell. My Mother give it to me — I improved it with a secret of my own — and now I made up my mind I'm gonna stop bein' secret-like about it and let you try it.

This kinda bread has got a thing about it that's real "teeth sinkin' ". Why, your children'll eat anything you put between two slices of it. There's a special fixin' into it that gives it a flavor that tastes like more — and that's the trick. All Grant County School Buses Pass Safety Inspection By State Police

PETERSBURG, W. Va.—Every school bus that the county operates passed the pre-school State Police inspection on the first inspection, County School Superintendent A. Neil Frye reported after reviewing reports from the local police detachment.

In commenting that all 17 buses had passed the rigid inspection given by Cpl. D. E. Adam, Frye remarked that much of the credit was due the drivers and their bus mechanic, Berlin McDonald, who is foreman of the bus shed in Petersburg, where the buses are repaired and kept in first class running condition.

The pre-school inspection, one of three given the vehicles by the police, is only one of many inspections given the buses. Monthly inspections are given by the bus mechanic, assuring that all buses are in the best of condition at all times.

Traffic Route Proposals By Planning Commission And State Roads

Guide To Map

No. 2—Planning Commission's alternate to the Crosstown Bridge.

No. 3—The Industrial Highway route from Oldtown Road.

NO. 4—Opening of Canal Street to connection with Industrial Highway.

No. 5—Extension of North George Street from Frederick Street to Viaduct at N. Centre St.

No. 6—North End interchanges and improvements.

No. 7—Valley Street and North Lee Street bridge across B & O tracks.

No. 8—Improvements to Wineow and Orchard Streets and underpass at the Williams Street crossing.

No. 9—Oldtown Road connection to Thomas Street and Industrial Highway.

Albert S. Paye Prepares Map Showing Traffic Proposals

This map prepared by Albert S. Paye, local engineer and member of the Municipal Planning and Zoning Commission, shows the major points of two comprehensive plans for alleviating traffic conditions in Cumberland.

Figure 2 shows the alternate or circumferential route of the Planning Commission. This proposal would pick up Route 40 traffic at Evitts Creek beyond Naves Crossroads, take it across Bedford Road, across Shriver's Ridge and Dry Run and goes almost midway between Sylvan Retreat and Holland Street. Then it crosses Wills Creek, the railroads and Route 40 just beyond the existing Henderson Avenue overpass. The route then runs along the side of Haystack Mountain to join Braddock Road. The plan includes a suggestion that US 220 be brought from the Pennsylvania line along Valley Road to join US 40.

Group To Study Complaints On TV Interference

Keyser Council Hears Protests

KEYSER — The Keyser Mayor and Council voted Tuesday night to launch an investigation into charges by a group of citizens that a television cable company has interfered with TV reception in the city.

The citizens group appearing at a weekly council meeting, said operations of the cable concern have interfered with antenna reception, especially on the Johnstown channel.

After hearing the complaints, the council named a committee to study the situation and recommend some method for controlling any such interference. On the committee will be the city attorney, counsel for the cable company, two TV experts and other interested persons.

Another protest yas filed at the meeting by North Side citizens who objected to the B&O Railroad's plan for replacing its watchman at the Main Street crossing with crossing gates. Attorneys Vernon Rankin and Harry Taylor urged that a watchman be left at the crossing.

Eugene Cagey, representing a group of home owners in the area near the city reservoir whose water is not chlorinated, said the group would be willing to erect a new chlorination plant in a location which would provide purification for their water, if the city would agree to move the plant.

Cagey said the property owners reside above the present plant and therefore do not receive chlorinated water.

Council members agreed to the plan, provided the property owners erect a building which meets with city approval.

The volunteer fire company was granted permission to build a large cupboard in its city-owned quarters for use as storage space. Work will be done by members of the company.

Traffic Route Proposals By Planning Commission And State Roads

Guide To Map

No. 1—State Road Commission's crosstown viaduct proposal.

No. 2—Planning Commission's alternate to the Crosstown Bridge.

No. 3—The Industrial Highway route from Oldtown Road.

NO. 4—Opening of Canal Street to connection with Industrial Highway.

No. 5—Extension of North George Street from Frederick Street to Viaduct at N. Centre St.

No. 6—North End interchanges and improvements.

No. 7—Valley Street and North Lee Street bridge across B & O tracks.

No. 8—Improvements to Wineow and Orchard Streets and underpass at the Williams Street crossing.

No. 9—Oldtown Road connection to Thomas Street and Industrial Highway.

Albert S. Paye Prepares Map Showing Traffic Proposals

This map prepared by Albert S. Paye, local engineer and member of the Municipal Planning and Zoning Commission, shows the major points of two comprehensive plans for alleviating traffic conditions in Cumberland.

Figure 2 shows the alternate or circumferential route of the Planning Commission. This proposal would pick up Route 40 traffic at Evitts Creek beyond Naves Crossroads, take it across Bedford Road, across Shriver's Ridge and Dry Run and goes almost midway between Sylvan Retreat and Holland Street. Then it crosses Wills Creek, the railroads and Route 40 just beyond the existing Henderson Avenue overpass. The route then runs along the side of Haystack Mountain to join Braddock Road. The plan includes a suggestion that US 220 be brought from the Pennsylvania line along Valley Road to join US 40.

Frostburg GOC Administrative Setup Changed

Shift Supervisors Are Appointed

FROSTBURG — A meeting of Ground Observer officers was held recently at Frostburg Outpost 24-B, under the supervision of Charles G. Smith, Allegany County co-ordinator, and William Deremer of the Cumberland outpost.

Smith and Deremer outlined the new procedure to be adopted by the outposts in Allegany County, and instructed the officers of the outpost what their duties would be under the new system of administration.

Smith described the new method of keeping records of hours served by observers in the county by the county statistician. He also discussed the awarding of a $500 defense bond to members of the GOC who qualify by serving the required number of hours.

Various new report forms were discussed and under the new system a lot of administrative work will be taken from the shoulders of the supervisors and chief observers of the county outposts, thus allowing them more time to devote to their outpost duties.

Members of the Frostburg post present at the meeting were Vincent C. Bollino, chief supervisor; Wilbur L. Ross, chief observer; Marshall L. Caton, assistant chief observer; Mrs. Olive Tennant, women supervisor; C. Walter Hayes; Mr. and Mrs. Harold Blocher; and the following daily shift supervisors who were selected at a recent meeting. Monday supervisor, Mrs. Kathleen Todd; Tuesday, John L. Dunkle; Wednesday, Mrs. Russell Keister; Saturday, Edward J. Clark; and Sunday, Joseph A. Clark. Mrs. Mary Bollino and Mrs. Mabel Toms, supervisor of Thursday and Friday were unable to attend the meeting.

The new system of administration went into effect at the Frostburg Outpost September 14th. A new shift schedule will be posted on the bulletin board in the near future. Wilbur L. Ross, chief observer of the outpost states that more members are needed and anyone interested in serving a two-hour shift each week should call 63-W for further information.

Enrollment Shows Increase At Saint Michael's School

FROSTBURG — Saint Michael's Parochial School has reopened for the 1953-54 scholastic term with an enrollment of 400 students, an increase of 25 students over the past term. Of this number 76 are enrolled in the first grade.

Two changes have been made in the faculty. Sister M. Cortona, who taught at Saint Michael's the past eleven years, has been transferred to Holy Name School, Pittsburgh, and Sister M. Clarona, a member of the faculty for six years, has been transferred to Saint Gerard School, Fort Oglethorpe, Ga.

They have been replaced by Sister M. Alfried from Holy Family School, Rochester, N. Y., and Mrs. Vernard Winner of Lonaconing. It was necessary to employ a lay teacher this term due to the heavy demand for teaching Sisters and the expansion of the parochial schools throughout the country.

Smith and Deremer outlined the new procedure to be adopted by the outposts in Allegany County, and instructed the officers of the outpost what their duties would be under the new system of administration.

Smith described the new method of keeping records of hours served by observers in the county by the county statistician. He also discussed the awarding of a $500 defense bond to members of the GOC who qualify by serving the required number of hours.

Various new report forms were discussed and under the new system a lot of administrative work will be taken from the shoulders of the supervisors and chief observers of the county outposts, thus allowing them more time to devote to their outpost duties.

Members of the Frostburg post present at the meeting were Vincent C. Bollino, chief supervisor; Wilbur L. Ross, chief observer; Marshall L. Caton, assistant chief observer; Mrs. Olive Tennant, women supervisor; C. Walter Hayes; Mr. and Mrs. Harold Blocher; and the following daily shift supervisors who were selected at a recent meeting. Monday supervisor, Mrs. Kathleen Todd; Tuesday, John L. Dunkle; Wednesday, Mrs. Russell Keister; Saturday, Edward J. Clark; and Sunday, Joseph A. Clark. Mrs. Mary Bollino and Mrs. Mabel Toms, supervisor of Thursday and Friday were unable to attend the meeting.

The new system of administration went into effect at the Frostburg Outpost September 14th. A new shift schedule will be posted on the bulletin board in the near future. Wilbur L. Ross, chief observer of the outpost states that more members are needed and anyone interested in serving a two-hour shift each week should call 63-W for further information.

FROSTBURG — Saint Michael's Parochial School has reopened for the 1953-54 scholastic term with an enrollment of 400 students, an increase of 25 students over the past term. Of this number 76 are enrolled in the first grade.

Two changes have been made in the faculty. Sister M. Cortona, who taught at Saint Michael's the past eleven years, has been transferred to Holy Name School, Pittsburgh, and Sister M. Clarona, a member of the faculty for six years, has been transferred to Saint Gerard School, Fort Oglethorpe, Ga.

They have been replaced by Sister M. Alfried from Holy Family School, Rochester, N. Y., and Mrs. Vernard Winner of Lonaconing. It was necessary to employ a lay teacher this term due to the heavy demand for teaching Sisters and the expansion of the parochial schools throughout the country.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 16 (INS)—When a gentleman telephones all the way from England to say he's in love, he must mean it.

John Ireland called me from London to deny personally a rumor that he and his pretty wife, Joanne Dru, have separated.

"We are separated, but only by a few thousand miles," John told me. "Actually I have never been so miserable in my life as I am over here without Joanne. Or so much in love with her."

Then John told me his good news that Joanne is flying to join him in England as soon as she finishes the picture she is making in Hollywood. He must remain there some time to complete "The Good Die Young" which he is making for Romulus Films.

Joanne was the former wife of Dick Haymes, and divorced him so he could marry Nora Eddington Flynn, who now is divorcing Dick so he can marry Rita Hayworth.

The King brothers, Maury and Frank, aren't ones to turn a deaf ear when opportunity knocks at their door. So now they've got themselves a swell deal with Darryl Zanuck.

They all met last week in Munich where the Kings were wrapping up their "Carnival Story," and Darryl was straightening out the difficulties on "Night People."

The upshot was a deal for Maury and Frank to borrow Darryl's Cinemascope equipment for "The Boy And The Bull," which Kings will make starting Nov. 15 in Spain.

In the great wave of economy currently hitting Hollywood, the Charles Schnee unit has been dissolved, but Schnee is not out of MGM by any means. He remains as producer of other pictures.

Few of the companies are making low budget pictures these days, and Schnee's first assignment will be as producer of "Bad Day At Parma," which is expected to star Spencer Tracy.

Although the Sterling Haydens have been very quiet about it, they have reconciled and Sterling has built a new home for his wife and four children.

This is very nice because it has always seemed sad that this little family could not get together, since there are so many children.

One of the little boys had an operation and no one could be more concerned than Sterling. Also, all the time he was making a picture at 20th one or another of his children were with him.

Paul Velegnia's pre-opening of the Marquis had Paul singing operatic tunes in between greeting the customers.

Among the 350 guests he fed were Penny Singleton and Bob Sparks, the Vincent Prices, Kathleen Hughes and Charles Fitzsimmons.

Heart warming and a great tribute was the dinner given to Mary and Lynn Spencer at the Beverly Hills Club by a group of society people about whom Lynn has written for many years. He started as a police reporter on the Los Angles Examiner and his speech was very amusing when he told of the ribbing he received when he became Cholly Angeleno.

Linda Christian Power went directly from Clifton Webb's dinner party to the Cedars of Lebanon Hospital, where her baby was born.

Joyce Holden and her husband Dok Stanford have dated the stork in December. Joyce has just finished a picture at Allied Artists and Dok's a song writer.

Suzan Ball, the bravest girl in our town, has now completely discarded her crutches. She wants to be able to meet Dick Long under her own power when he returns.

That's all today. See you tomorrow!

Four different types of stoles and just one sheath or basic dress can give you exciting variations!

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

The rage for stoles has not abated in the slightest. Stoles are being matched to everything this season . . . dresses, coats, skirts, purses and belts.

There is a lot to be said for this fashion. Stoles are to be treasured both for their decorative qualities and their practicality. When worn with grace, they point to a woman's femininity to a degree that few other fashions achieve. With just one sheath or basic dress and a variety of stoles you can bedazzle your public with many different costumes.

Four Variations

Consider, as example, a beige or black sheath worn with a long strait stole, belt and purse all made of ocelot furred fabric. With it, of course, be sure that your hat and gloves match the dress. (For chic it is always wisest to limit matching accessories to three items.) This costume makes a very effective "downtown" costume right now for shopping, restaurant dining or travelling.

As a second variation, picture a generously-sized oblong stole of silk-shantung, fringed at each end and lined with wool jersey. Wear it closely around the neck, crossed over the bust and belted in at the waistline and your sheath becomes an attractive dressy costume for late-day activities.

A horse-blanket plaid with white background worn loosely so that it covers the shoulders and drapes to just below the elbow will turn the same sheath into a sporty costume to spark any scene.

Now try a red square of wool jersey with a contrasting fringe. Fold one corner over just a few inches. Drape this corner around your shoulders to form a collar around your neckline. One corner of the remaining triangle will fall directly down your back. Tuck the other two corners around your wrist, toward your body. Effective? You bet it is!

Make Your Own

You can make any of these stoles so easily and quickly at home — and for so small a price — that even though you may never have fashioned anything before, you'll fancy yourself as quite a designer!

These are just a few of the ways in which stoles can turn one sheath into a number of costumes. Use your ingenuity. Walk through the yard goods section of your favorite store and let your imagination be spiked and inspired by the wonderful new weaves, colors and textures that you will see there!

Skipper Hurt As Boat Explodes And Burns

OXFORD, Md., Sept. 16 (AP)—A 150-ton freight boat, returning to Cambridge after unloading a cargo of fertilizer at Easton, Md., exploded and burned today in the Choptank River about a mile east of here.

The smallest railroad car ferry in the world is located in Burma. The tiny barge carries one car a trip across the Brahmoputra river.

Consider, as example, a beige or black sheath worn with a long strait stole, belt and purse all made of ocelot furred fabric. With it, of course, be sure that your hat and gloves match the dress. (For chic it is always wisest to limit matching accessories to three items.) This costume makes a very effective "downtown" costume right now for shopping, restaurant dining or travelling.

As a second variation, picture a generously-sized oblong stole of silk-shantung, fringed at each end and lined with wool jersey. Wear it closely around the neck, crossed over the bust and belted in at the waistline and your sheath becomes an attractive dressy costume for late-day activities.

A horse-blanket plaid with white background worn loosely so that it covers the shoulders and drapes to just below the elbow will turn the same sheath into a sporty costume to spark any scene.

Now try a red square of wool jersey with a contrasting fringe. Fold one corner over just a few inches. Drape this corner around your shoulders to form a collar around your neckline. One corner of the remaining triangle will fall directly down your back. Tuck the other two corners around your wrist, toward your body. Effective? You bet it is!

Make Your Own

You can make any of these stoles so easily and quickly at home — and for so small a price — that even though you may never have fashioned anything before, you'll fancy yourself as quite a designer!

These are just a few of the ways in which stoles can turn one sheath into a number of costumes. Use your ingenuity. Walk through the yard goods section of your favorite store and let your imagination be spiked and inspired by the wonderful new weaves, colors and textures that you will see there!

Skipper Hurt As Boat Explodes And Burns

OXFORD, Md., Sept. 16 (AP)—A 150-ton freight boat, returning to Cambridge after unloading a cargo of fertilizer at Easton, Md., exploded and burned today in the Choptank River about a mile east of here.

The skipper and only occupant, Capt. John Conway of Cambridge, was removed to safety after suffering burns.

The smallest railroad car ferry in the world is located in Burma. The tiny barge carries one car a trip across the Brahmoputra river.

BOYER — We wish to extend our heartfelt thanks and appreciation to all our friends, neighbors and relatives for the acts of kindness and messages of sympathy, extended to us during our recent bereavement in the loss of our beloved father and grandfather, Noah W. Boyer. We especially thank the pallbearers, those who sent floral tributes, those who donated the use of their cars for the funeral and Rev. Arthur Scrogum, Livingstone Brethren Church for his comforting words.
CHILDREN and GRANDCHILDREN

We wish to express our sincere thanks to our friends, neighbors and relatives who were so kind to us in our bereavement, the death of our husband and father, James S. Logsdon. We especially wish to thank those who sent floral tributes and donated the use of their automobiles for the funeral.

Market Stages Its Second Straight Recovery Session

NEW YORK, Sept. 16 (AP) — The Stock Market went through its second straight recovery session today in a quiet manner.

The average gain today added to that of yesterday exactly equals the severe loss of Monday when the market hit a new low for the year.

Today's climb was less vigorous than yesterday and it was not so extensive, but leadership was well founded and it resisted short-term profit-making rather well.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks gained 60 cents at $101.30, which was the closing point of the average last Friday. The industrial and railroad components of the average were each up 60 cents and the utilities were up to 20 cents.

The market was composed of 1,129 individual issues of which 747 advanced and 165 declined.

Volume came to 1,570,000 shares, quite modest when compared with the 2,850,000 shares traded yesterday when the market was advancing so vigorously.

New York Central topped the most active list up ¼ at 20 with 19,300 shares traded. There were no losers in the list of ten most active stocks.

Market Stages Its Second Straight Recovery Session

NEW YORK, Sept. 16 (AP) — The Stock Market went through its second straight recovery session today in a quiet manner.

The average gain today added to that of yesterday exactly equals the severe loss of Monday when the market hit a new low for the year.

Today's climb was less vigorous than yesterday and it was not so extensive, but leadership was well founded and it resisted short-term profit-making rather well.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks gained 60 cents at $101.30, which was the closing point of the average last Friday. The industrial and railroad components of the average were each up 60 cents and the utilities were up to 20 cents.

The market was composed of 1,129 individual issues of which 747 advanced and 165 declined.

Volume came to 1,570,000 shares, quite modest when compared with the 2,850,000 shares traded yesterday when the market was advancing so vigorously.

New York Central topped the most active list up ¼ at 20 with 19,300 shares traded. There were no losers in the list of ten most active stocks.

Planning Commission Discloses Alternate To Overhead Bridge

City Council To Present Idea To SRC

Proposal Offers Lower Cost Project

The City of Cumberland will ask the State Roads Commission to consider the Municipal Planning and Zoning Commission's alternate plan to a Crosstown Bridge outlined in the SRC's 12-year construction plan.

The decision followed a suggestion by Mrs. Lucile Roeder, Street Commissioner, last night during a stormy meeting of the Mayor and Council at which the Planning Commission outlined a proposal by Albert S. Paye, a member, both for a circumferential route as an alternative, and for a master plan to improve the internal traffic of the city.

SRC Support Needed

Police and Fire Commissioner John J. Long warned that the city must have the support of the State Roads Commission in any plan.

Paye explained the State Road Commission's plan would bring Route 40 into Cumberland by way of Lindnerville, cross the city by a crosstown viaduct beginning at Maryland Avenue and Emily Street and ending near Johnson Street, and then proceeding by a new route to an improved Braddock Road.

The Commission's circumferential route, Paye said, would begin at Evitts Creek bridge on Baltimore Pike, proceed by a route near Naves Cross Road, swing toward the city between Sylvan Retreat and Holland Street, cross Route 40, the B&O tracks and Wills Creek by a bridge beginning at Columbia Avenue, surface on the side of Haystack Mountain and follow it to the Braddock Road gap where the SRC plan would emerge.

Alternate Route Cheaper

Paye, at the request of Finance Commissioner William V. Keegan, explained that both routes are about the same length, and that both begin and end at the same points.

The cost of the alternate route, Paye said, would be about $5,000,000, as opposed to about $9,000,000 for the overhead bridge route alone. He said completion of the SRC route to Evitts Creek would bring the overhead bridge plan to about $12 millions.

He urged that the alternate route be adopted and that part of the difference in cost of the plans be used for internal traffic improvements.

He also emphasized that the circumferential route can be built without interrupting traffic in Cumberland and with minor utility relocations.

Bridge Would Ruin 150 Homes

James Alfred Avirett, chairman, asked permission to show what the SRC plan would do to Cumberland, saying it was "high time" the citizens knew its effects.

The bridge plan, he said, will take $2,000,000 worth of property off the tax books, eliminate 150 homes and destroy chances for business development.

Avirett declared that Norman Pritchett, SRC location engineer, has not fully informed citizens when he says the plan will not take property in the Dingle.

Finan pointed out that for some years he thought the overhead bridge would be unsightly and that a number of prominent businessmen objected to the plan.

But for many years, he said, the Planning Commission backed the Overhead Bridge plan. He said the plan has always been the bridge and asked why the SRC was not told it was wrong.

He said he did not think the SRC should be blamed for backing the bridge plan since for years it was told that was the only solution.

It is the "height of impropriety," Finan said, to say that the SRC is trying to "put something over on Cumberland" when they were led to believe it was the right plan.

Planners Reversed Field

He ended by saying he hoped some compromise plan can be worked out.

Avirett admitted the Planning Commission was wrong in backing the bridge plan which it once thought would be satisfactory.

He said the alternate plan as presented, or some other plan, should be adopted.

Mayor Eves said the Planning Commission owes an explanation for its sudden reverse.

Benjamin W. O'Rourke, senior member of the Commission, said the plan the group formerly backed ended at Greene Street and that the group once had no other plan but for an overhead bridge.

Braddock Plan "News"

O'Rourke said the rest of the plan — the extension to Braddock Road, was all new to him.

Paye pointed out he has never been in favor of the bridge route and that back in 1947 he mentioned the alternate to Pritchett. He said the SRC official said the plan did nothing for Route 40.

Cooking School Specials

Miss Harriett Williams, of Columbus, Ohio, is shown looking over some of the meat dishes demonstrated yesterday at the Times-News Cooking School being held at the Strand Theatre. Miss Williams, a graduate of Ohio State University, is assistant to Miss Rossie Ann Gibson, director of the school of "Adventures in Food." Nearly 1,400 people attended yesterday's session, and a special guest was R. O. Roth, meat specialist and general director of the cooking schools operated by the Chicago Live Stock and Meat Board. Sessions will continue today and tomorrow beginning at 9:15 a.m.

Monthly Report Notes County Bond Sales

The sale of E and H Bonds in Allegany County during August amounted to $184,387, according to Lynn C. Lashley, chairman, bringing the total sales for 1953 to $1,675,097.

Allegany County now ranks eighth in the state with 57.8 per cent achieved in reaching the county 1953 quota of $2,900,000.

Lashley pointed out that Maryland dollar sales of E and H Bonds during the first eight months of $38,339,813 are up 30 per cent compared to the himilar period in 1952.

Garrett County with a quota of $380,000 ranks 19th and has achieved 41.9 per cent of its quota. Harford County now leads the state with 70.4 per cent achievement and Washington County is second with 70 per cent.

Lashley added that the vast majority of people are continuing to take advantage of the automatic extension features of E Bonds, whereby all maturing E Bonds may be held up to an additional ten years with no action required on the part of the owner.

Tickets On Sale For Eisenhower Dinner Oct. 15

Tickets are now available for the President Eisenhower Birthday Dinner to be held October 15 at Ali Ghan Country Club, the Young Republican Club of Allegany County announced yesterday.

Mrs. Elaine Palmer, vice president of the club, said tickets have been distributed to all members for sale to the public.

Some 300 guests are expected to attend the event, first major social gathering to be sponsored by the newly-formed Young Republican Club.

Rep. Kit Clardy, Michigan Republican, will be principal speaker.

Congressman Clardy will discuss his work as a member of the House Un-American Activities Committee, explaining the rules of procedure by which the committee functions, and giving a summary of disclosures made before the committee and a prediction of the type of anti-subversive legislation which may be recommended by the committee.

Rep. DeWitt S. Hyde (R-Md. 6th) will introduce Rep. Clardy.

Trial Magistrate Donald W. Mason of Cumberland will be toastmaster.

Keyser Target In Mock Alert

The business district of nearby Keyser, W. Va., was the target area in a mock air raid alert staged last night by the Fire Branch of the county Civil Defense organization.

Designed to test the preparedness of fire companies in the area, the practice alert brought 9 pieces of equipment and 100 men to their stations within 14 minutes after the alarm was sounded.

Two trucks from Keyser's fire company and others from nearby Piedmont, W. Va., and Westernport and McCoole in Maryland, surrounded the business district.

Barton company filled in at Westernport, to protect the Westernport area and to answer a second alarm if needed. Bloomington company filled in at Piedmont, and Luke, Md., and Beryl, W. Va., companies were alerted to stand by their stations.

AFL Engineers Plan Meeting On Wage Scale

Officials of the AFL Operating Engineers Union and area contractors will meet here today at 10 a. m. in an attempt to iron out the last issue on 1953 wages in the construction industry of Western Maryland.

Officers of Local 37, Operating Engineers, will discuss the agreement reached with Baltimore area contractors, which gave members a 25 cent increase, retroactive to June 1.

The union has one sub-local, Western Maryland Local 37-B, but only one wage scale for the state.

Wage scales of other AFL craft unions in the state vary according to locality.

Bricklayers, $3; carpenters, $2.50; common laborers, $1.55; mason and brick tenders, $1.65; plumbers and steamfitters, $2.75; truck drivers, $1.68 to $2.065; electricians, $2.75; ornamental and structural iron workers, $3; bulldozer operators $2.25; shovel operators, $3.10; grader operators, $2.25; roofers, $2.20 and cement finishers, $2.50.

Wage scale quoted for operating engineers are the new state scale and are for hourly rates. They are 15 cents less an hour by the week.

Warning System Prepared For State CD Alert

SRC Erects Signs On Area Highways

Most of Cumberland's Civil Defense warning system will be in operation when "Operation Checkup" is held September 22 at 2:01 p. m.

The state-wide air raid alert is sponsored by the Maryland Civil Defense Agency to educate the public on what to do in case of such an emergency.

Part of the warning system is already installed. This includes a 10 horsepower siren located at South End Fire Station, designed to provide warning for that area.

The sirens will be controlled from Central Fire Station.

The second large siren, similar to that in South Cumberland, is on hand and is to be located at the intersection of Fayette Street and Plum Alley.

Second Siren Slated

Arthur B. Gibson, city CD coordinator, said yesterday that contractors report it should be erected in time for the alert.

The big siren will be installed by the Sterling Electric Company on poles placed by Potomac Edison workers and on a platform to be supplied by the George Construction Company.

Smaller sirens will be spotted throughout the city in locations which are not reached satisfactorily by the big sirens.

Meanwhile, Civil Defense workers are completing plans for assisting in the alert.

The State Roads Commission will erect two six-by-eight-foot signs along Route 40 to designate that the highway will be closed to all traffic except military and Civil Defense vehicles in the event of an emergency.

Will Man Roads

William G. Barger, CD director in Allegany County, said the markers will be set up at the exits of Cumberland under the supervision of George B. Hale, maintenance engineer of the SRC.

According to Barger 10 other 18 by 24-inch signs already have been posted along the National Highway to mark it as a civil defense thoroughfare.

Sign work is being completed in conjunction with the county's CD program and the state-wide air raid alert slated next Tuesday at 2:01 p. m. (EDT), the director added.

Barger reported a three-minute siren wail or short blasts will announce the raid alert. The all clear signal is three one minute blasts with two minutes of silence in between. In case of attack, he offered the following suggestions.

If no warning has been given, drop to the floor or ground, get under cover, away from windows and bury your face in your arms. In case of a warning, get out of vehicles, obey wardens and seek shelter.

Board Plans Independent Fund Drive

Campaign Date, Goal Will Be Set Soon

The Salvation Army Advisory Board voted last night to withdraw at once from the Cumberland Community Chest and put on its own campaign for funds in the near future.

Lewis J. Ort, chairman of the Advisory Board, said it was the consensus of opinion that the Salvation Army could not carry on a satisfactory program with the funds to be allotted to it in the approaching Chest campaign.

The Community Chest had allotted the Salvation Army $14,000 as its share of campaign funds, but Ort said the Army needs more than that amount if it is to operate a satisfactory program. He pointed out that the board regretted to withdraw and did so only because of its concern for the Army's well-being.

Lynn C. Lashley, president of the Chest, was notified of the Salvation Army board's action last night by Ort and a formal letter of notification will be mailed today.

A date for the Salvation Army campaign has not been set, but Ort indicated it will take place in the near future. Also to be determined is a campaign goal.

In preparation for its independent campaign, Ort named a four-man committee to set up a campaign organization. This committee, Adolph Blunk, Rev. Seth C. Morrow, W. Russell Pancake and Carl R. Amtower, will meet in the near future.

The Salvation Army has been a charter member of the Community Chest, becoming one of the member agencies when the Chest was organized more than two decades ago. With the withdrawal of the Salvation Army the Chest now will be composed of seven member agencies. The Chest campaign has been set for early October.

In other action last night, R. Finley Thompson, Celanese plant manager, was named to the Advisory Board to fill the unexpired term of the late Samuel Kaplon.

Guy C. McCrobie Is Indicted In Shooting Case

Guy C. McCrobie, about 48, of near Vindex, was indicted yesterday by the Garrett County Grand Jury and is accused of assault with intent to kill.

McCrobie, who has been in Garrett County jail since June 28, in default of bond, allegedly shot his brother-in-law, Claude Rohrbaugh, about 62, following an argument at their home near Vindex.

Rohrbaugh was hospitalized for three days suffering back wounds. He was taken to Potomac Valley Hospital, Keyser, W. Va.

Garrett County authorities said the two men had an argument on the 27th and McCrobie remained away from home overnight. The next morning he went to the home and apparently another argument resulted.

Rohrbaugh was reported to have fired a shotgun at McCrobie in order to frighten him. When Rohrbaugh turned his back, authorities said, McCrobie shot and wounded his brother-in-law with a .22 calibre rifle.

Investigating the shooting were Maryland State Police Cpl. Samuel Conrad, Deputy Sheriff Edward J. Frantz and State's Attorney W. Dwight Stover.

The opening session of court at Oakland will be held on September 28, according to State's Attorney Stover.

Planning Commission Discloses Alternate To Overhead Bridge

City Council To Present Idea To SRC

The City of Cumberland will ask the State Roads Commission to consider the Municipal Planning and Zoning Commission's alternate plan to a Crosstown Bridge outlined in the SRC's 12-year construction plan.

The decision followed a suggestion by Mrs. Lucile Roeder, Street Commissioner, last night during a stormy meeting of the Mayor and Council at which the Planning Commission outlined a proposal by Albert S. Paye, a member, both for a circumferential route as an alternative, and for a master plan to improve the internal traffic of the city.

SRC Support Needed

Police and Fire Commissioner John J. Long warned that the city must have the support of the State Roads Commission in any plan.

Paye explained the State Road Commission's plan would bring Route 40 into Cumberland by way of Lindnerville, cross the city by a crosstown viaduct beginning at Maryland Avenue and Emily Street and ending near Johnson Street, and then proceeding by a new route to an improved Braddock Road.

The Commission's circumferential route, Paye said, would begin at Evitts Creek bridge on Baltimore Pike, proceed by a route near Naves Cross Road, swing toward the city between Sylvan Retreat and Holland Street, cross Route 40, the B&O tracks and Wills Creek by a bridge beginning at Columbia Avenue, surface on the side of Haystack Mountain and follow it to the Braddock Road gap where the SRC plan would emerge.

Alternate Route Cheaper

Paye, at the request of Finance Commissioner William V. Keegan, explained that both routes are about the same length, and that both begin and end at the same points.

The cost of the alternate route, Paye said, would be about $5,000,000, as opposed to about $9,000,000 for the overhead bridge route alone. He said completion of the SRC route to Evitts Creek would bring the overhead bridge plan to about $12 millions.

He urged that the alternate route be adopted and that part of the difference in cost of the plans be used for internal traffic improvements.

He also emphasized that the circumferential route can be built without interrupting traffic in Cumberland and with minor utility relocations.

Bridge Would Ruin 150 Homes

James Alfred Avirett, chairman, asked permission to show what the SRC plan would do to Cumberland, saying it was "high time" the citizens knew its effects.

The bridge plan, he said, will take $2,000,000 worth of property off the tax books, eliminate 150 homes and destroy chances for business development.

Avirett declared that Norman Pritchett, SRC location engineer, has not fully informed citizens when he says the plan will not take property in the Dingle.

Finan pointed out that for some years he thought the overhead bridge would be unsightly and that a number of prominent businessmen objected to the plan.

But for many years, he said, the Planning Commission backed the Overhead Bridge plan. He said the plan has always been the bridge and asked why the SRC was not told it was wrong.

He said he did not think the SRC should be blamed for backing the bridge plan since for years it was told that was the only solution.

It is the "height of impropriety," Finan said, to say that the SRC is trying to "put something over on Cumberland" when they were led to believe it was the right plan.

Planners Reversed Field

He ended by saying he hoped some compromise plan can be worked out.

Avirett admitted the Planning Commission was wrong in backing the bridge plan which it once thought would be satisfactory.

He said the alternate plan as presented, or some other plan, should be adopted.

Mayor Eves said the Planning Commission owes an explanation for its sudden reverse.

Benjamin W. O'Rourke, senior member of the Commission, said the plan the group formerly backed ended at Greene Street and that the group once had no other plan but for an overhead bridge.

Braddock Plan "News"

O'Rourke said the rest of the plan — the extension to Braddock Road, was all new to him.

Paye pointed out he has never been in favor of the bridge route and that back in 1947 he mentioned the alternate to Pritchett. He said the SRC official said the plan did nothing for Route 40.

Allegany County now ranks eighth in the state with 57.8 per cent achieved in reaching the county 1953 quota of $2,900,000.

Lashley pointed out that Maryland dollar sales of E and H Bonds during the first eight months of $38,339,813 are up 30 per cent compared to the himilar period in 1952.

Lashley added that the vast majority of people are continuing to take advantage of the automatic extension features of E Bonds, whereby all maturing E Bonds may be held up to an additional ten years with no action required on the part of the owner.

Keyser Target In Mock Alert

The business district of nearby Keyser, W. Va., was the target area in a mock air raid alert staged last night by the Fire Branch of the county Civil Defense organization.

Designed to test the preparedness of fire companies in the area, the practice alert brought 9 pieces of equipment and 100 men to their stations within 14 minutes after the alarm was sounded.

Two trucks from Keyser's fire company and others from nearby Piedmont, W. Va., and Westernport and McCoole in Maryland, surrounded the business district.

Barton company filled in at Westernport, to protect the Westernport area and to answer a second alarm if needed. Bloomington company filled in at Piedmont, and Luke, Md., and Beryl, W. Va., companies were alerted to stand by their stations.

AFL Engineers Plan Meeting On Wage Scale

Officials of the AFL Operating Engineers Union and area contractors will meet here today at 10 a. m. in an attempt to iron out the last issue on 1953 wages in the construction industry of Western Maryland.

Officers of Local 37, Operating Engineers, will discuss the agreement reached with Baltimore area contractors, which gave members a 25 cent increase, retroactive to June 1.

The union has one sub-local, Western Maryland Local 37-B, but only one wage scale for the state.

Wage scales of other AFL craft unions in the state vary according to locality.

Cumberland locals this spring won 10 cent wage boosts, effective May 1, on all jobs bid in after that date.

Bricklayers, $3; carpenters, $2.50; common laborers, $1.55; mason and brick tenders, $1.65; plumbers and steamfitters, $2.75; truck drivers, $1.68 to $2.065; electricians, $2.75; ornamental and structural iron workers, $3; bulldozer operators $2.25; shovel operators, $3.10; grader operators, $2.25; roofers, $2.20 and cement finishers, $2.50.

Wage scale quoted for operating engineers are the new state scale and are for hourly rates. They are 15 cents less an hour by the week.

Board Plans Independent Fund Drive

Campaign Date, Goal Will Be Set Soon

The Salvation Army Advisory Board voted last night to withdraw at once from the Cumberland Community Chest and put on its own campaign for funds in the near future.

Lewis J. Ort, chairman of the Advisory Board, said it was the consensus of opinion that the Salvation Army could not carry on a satisfactory program with the funds to be allotted to it in the approaching Chest campaign.

The Community Chest had allotted the Salvation Army $14,000 as its share of campaign funds, but Ort said the Army needs more than that amount if it is to operate a satisfactory program. He pointed out that the board regretted to withdraw and did so only because of its concern for the Army's well-being.

Lynn C. Lashley, president of the Chest, was notified of the Salvation Army board's action last night by Ort and a formal letter of notification will be mailed today.

A date for the Salvation Army campaign has not been set, but Ort indicated it will take place in the near future. Also to be determined is a campaign goal.

In preparation for its independent campaign, Ort named a four-man committee to set up a campaign organization. This committee, Adolph Blunk, Rev. Seth C. Morrow, W. Russell Pancake and Carl R. Amtower, will meet in the near future.

The Salvation Army has been a charter member of the Community Chest, becoming one of the member agencies when the Chest was organized more than two decades ago. With the withdrawal of the Salvation Army the Chest now will be composed of seven member agencies. The Chest campaign has been set for early October.

In other action last night, R. Finley Thompson, Celanese plant manager, was named to the Advisory Board to fill the unexpired term of the late Samuel Kaplon.
